ONSTANCE TALMADGE ROMANCE WRECKED!

STER REFUSES TERMS OFFERED BY PREMIER.

posals Turned Down; Bad Faith Charged; Unionists Vote to Continue Peace Efforts.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Ulster's reply to the latest British government communication on the question of an Irish settlement was delivered at Downing street this afternoon. It indicates that Ulster stands firm in the attitude she has taken and will not submit to anything considered a violation of her rights.

Complaining that the government has failed to maintain secrecy regarding the negotiations, the Ulster representatives threaten to publish the correspondence.

TO CONTINUE EFFORTS.

The Unionist party delegates at Liverpool registered a vote more overwhelming than the recent similar vote in the House of Commons, authoriling the government to continue its efforts by conference to negotiate a settlement of the Irish question. Out of 2000 delegates not more than 100 at most opposed the amendment recording continued confidence in the government.

The vote followed a statement of the government position by Sir Laming Evans, Secretary for War, who denied that the ministers had offered an Ulster gagged and bound as the price of Irish allegiance to the King. The effect of the vote is to confirm the mandate given Premier Lloyd George by the House of Commons.

DEADLOCK REACHED.

In political circles the view taken is that the deadlock has been reached, for all the Sinn Fein negotiations with the government proceeded on the basis that the unity of Ireland was fundamental.

Though Ulster declines even to discuss such a basis in conference with the government, the Ulster representatives have indicated willingness to have informal talk.

It is stated by the Sinn Fein publicity department that the government has not yet asked the Sinn Fein delegates to debate Ulster's terms, adding:

"The government knows it would be of no use."

There seems to be a general belief that the only way out is an appeal to the country, but there is some difference of opinion as to whether the Premier will have a general election, or will resign, leaving an alternative ministry to be formed, with the possilibity of later dissolution of Parliament.

PREMIER TO RETURN.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BOURNEMOUTH (Eng.) Nov. 17.—Premier Lloyd George, who came here for a rest, decided to return to London immediately after receiving today the reply of Ulster representatives to the government's latest communication on the Irish negotiations.

REBELS DIE IN BATTLE ON BORDER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 17.—A party of Mexican rebels was put to rout today and four killed in a surprise attack about fourty miles southeast of Tijuana, according to announcement made late tonight by Gov. Epigmenio Ybarra of Lower California. Gov. Ybarra said a large quantity of arms, ammunition and provisions was captured by the Federal troops.

Gov. Ybarra said that the news of the engagement was brought to Tijuana this evening by Capt. Proto, a messenger from a force of 150 men under Col. Armenta which had been seeking the so-called rebel forces in Lower California since Sunday, when six revolutionists were killed in a skirmish six miles south of Tijuana. Col. Armenta's force is said to have been well armed and equipped and to have had two machine guns.

According to the report made to Gov. Ybarra, the rebels actually fired first, but when four of their men fell dead and others were wounded the force broke and fled in all directions, leaving all their equipment.

Federal officers expressed the belief that this marked the end of the revolt which began Sunday. Gov. Ybarra said that on Col. Armenta's return to Tijuana Saturday he expected to be able to make an announcement regarding the reopening of the boundary line, which at Tijuana has been closed to Americans since Sunday. Preparations were continued today to open the winter racing season at the Tijuana track on Thanksgiving Day.

Two battalions of Mexican Federal troops from the garrisons at Guaymas and Mazatlan were landed at Ensenada Wednesday from the Mexican gunboat Progreso, according to a report brought here today. These troops, it is reported, were hurried to positions in the northern part of Lower California. The Progreso is said to have brought machine guns and ammunition.

HARDING AUTHOR OF PLAN.

Credit for Armament Conference and Program of Naval Limitation Belongs to President.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Who formulated and executed the call for the Armament Conference? Who evolved the American proposals for naval limitation? The country has been asking these questions and has been hearing many answers. The best inside story here today has all the earmarks of being the correct answer.

President Harding, on a week-end cruise down the Potomac this autumn, so the story runs, locked himself in his stateroom one evening and left word that he did not wish to be disturbed. A little later he called to his room, one by one, some of the close friends in public life who had accompanied him and laid before them sheets of paper on which he had written with lead pencil, and with corrections and interlineations, something which they all read with amazement.

It was the invitation to the Arms Conference.

After some conference, it was decided to forward the text to Secretary Hughes and the yacht Mayflower buzzed off from her wireless that night the words which later were to ring around the world.

Of course, the preliminary diplomatic feeler was transmitted to the nations concerned, but it is said that the text of the formal invitation was substantially the same as President Harding had conceived it that night on the Mayflower.

The evolution of the concrete American proposals for naval limitation—Secretary Hughes's bombshell—is still another story.

Some admirers have ascribed them to Secretary Hughes alone, while other persons have declared they were the composite effort of the four American delegates of whom Mr. Hughes is one. Everybody seems agreed that they were not drafted by naval officials, and almost everybody had left out

OFFICER SEVERELY HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Police Sergeant Edward W. Carpenter of the Hollywood division suffered painful abrasions and possible internal injuries early this morning when the automobile in which he was riding with his wife and adopted son, Larry Scanlon, collided with a Yellow taxicab driven by Jack Burns of 920 West Third street. The accident occurred at the intersection of Sunset Boulevard and Mohawk avenue. Mrs. Carpenter was cut slightly about the face and severely shaken. Young Scanlon also escaped serious injury. Burns was cut slightly about the head.

Both the taxicab and Mr. Carpenter's automobile were badly damaged. According to the police report, Mr. Carpenter was driving his car west on Sunset Boulevard when the taxicab, speeding east, swerved across the street and crashed into Sergt. Carpenter's car. The latter, with engine demolished, wheels twisted off and fenders crushed, struck the curbing and turned over. Sergt. Carpenter was thrown heavily against the wheel.

Sergt. and Mrs. Carpenter and Mr. Scanlon were taken to their home at 7148 Marshfield Way, where the former complained of severe pains in his chest. The driver of the taxicab was taken to the Receiving Hospital, where he was examined for intoxication and then locked up in the City Jail on a charge of reckless driving.

TEMPERATURE FALLING IN THE NORTH

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—Temperatures in San Francisco and vicinity were falling late tonight and communities from the southernmost sections of the San Joaquin Valley, California, to Oregon were making preparations for the first general frost of the season. Weather officials, who recorded a heavy frost in the northern sections of the State this morning, forecast equally severe frosts in those sections before tomorrow morning. Lighter frosts were due for the Sacramento, Santa Clara and San Joaquin valleys and San Francisco and its neighboring communities.

UNION OIL DEAL APPROVED.

Stockholders Favor Plan by Which British Secure Control of American Interests.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Stockholders of the Union Oil Company of Delaware, in special session today, unanimously approved the proposed merger of the company with the Royal Dutch Petroleum Company, over 800,000 shares being represented.

Virtually all properties of the Union Oil Company are involved. They include Union Oil of California, Columbia Oil Producing Company, Western Union Oil, Dunlop Oil, United Western Consolidated Oil, and properties of the National Exploration Company, Edystone Oil Corporation and the Union Oil Company's interest in the Texas Oil Company as represented by its holdings of Central Petroleum.

CONSOLIDATE INTERESTS.

All American interests of the Royal Dutch Company go into the consolidation except its oil tankers. The ratification enables the two corporations to begin creation of a new corporation as yet unnamed with a capital stock of 10,000,000 shares (no par value,) Royal Dutch receiving 72 per cent and Union Oil 28 per cent.

On completion of the new company Union Oil will be allowed the choice of fourteen directors out of nineteen, who are to constitute the board. It is understood Union Oil also will dominate the list of leading officials or executives. According to C. H. Schlacks, president of the Union Oil Company, the consolidation will become effective late in December or the early part of the coming year. Properties of the Union Company not included in the consolidation will be liquidated and proceeds distributed among its stockholders.

The merger of the Union Oil of Delaware and the Royal Dutch Petroleum consummated yesterday in New York means the first substantial delivery of American oil interests into foreign hands since the announcement several years ago of British plans to obtain control of producing oil fields over the world. This feature of the consolidation was pointed out yesterday by oil men of Los Angeles who have been interested in the Union Oil of Delaware and other companies.

The consolidation was forced by a clique of eastern financiers, headed by C. H. Schlacks, according to expressed belief, and it was pointed out that only 800,000 shares of a total of 1,300,000 were represented at the meeting. This was taken to mean that the recent appeals for proxies sent out by the board of directors did not meet with much response. Shares voted yesterday represented about the holdings of the clique formed some time ago for the purpose of delivering the company into the hands of the British and Dutch companies.

The new company to be formed will take over all holdings in California of the Dutch Shell Com-

FRENCH VIEW EXPLAINED.

Will Give Up Concessions and Holdings in China if Other Powers Agree to do Likewise.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—France cannot rest indifferent to any settlement of Far Eastern questions, said Albert Sarraut, French Colonial Minister, who is a delegate to the Washington conference, in discussing questions with newspaper men tonight.

"I am very sympathetic toward the Chinese," he said. "I have an affection for them acquired during the seven years in which I was Governor of Indo-China. I believe I know the problems of the East and France is disposed to consider measures for aiding China and in helping to make a new China."

Six points in a general way express the French attitude toward proposals put forth by the Chinese delegation on the Far East, he continued.

These were:

M. Sarraut remarked that he thought the extent of French interests in the Pacific were not fully understood in the United States. Indo-China, alone, he said, "had a population of more than 20,000,000, which was an indication of the measure of French interests in the Pacific. In addition France has New Caledonia, Tahiti, the Marquesas, the New Hebrides and other groups of islands."

"China has leaders who are trying to make an orderly government and France wants to help,"

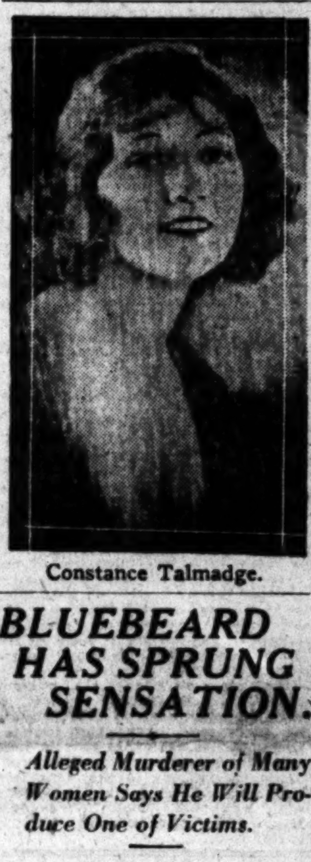
STAR QUITS HUSBAND AFTER DISAGREEMENT OVER PICTURE CAREER



Constance Talmadge.

The romance of Constance Talmadge with John Pialoglo, wealthy Greek tobacco manufacturer of New York, which was first made known to the public through her sensational elopement last December, is wrecked, according to an admission made by the star last night at the residence of Buster Keaton, her brother-in-law, at 855 Westchester Place, where she is at present staying.

Miss Talmadge stated that she is separated from Mr. Pialoglo and, although she declined to go into details, it is reported that a divorce will ensue before her return to New York next summer.

Miss Talmadge and Mr. Pialoglo were married in Greenwich, Ct., at the same time that James Rennie, a stage actor, and Dorothy Gish, a star with D. W. Griffith, were wed. Both couples eloped. It is understood that at the time of the marriage there was considerable family opposition to the match between Miss Talmadge and Mr. Pialoglo because of the latter being a foreigner. That was the reason for the elopement.

Miss Talmadge admitted last night that the romance was shattered because Mr. Pialoglo had wished her to give up her picture career and confine her talents to the fireside.

"The main reason for our separation," said Miss Talmadge, "is my husband's objection to my film career."

Constance Talmadge arrived in this city about a month ago. She intends to remain here throughout the winter to make pictures. For the past several years her professional activities have centered in New York, but recently her brother-in-law, Joseph Schenck, purchased an interest in the United Studios, Inc., which now controls Brunton's, with a view to bringing both Norma Talmadge, his wife, and Constance Talmadge here to work in pictures.

Miss Talmadge has been a star in the pictures for the past three or four years. She originally came into prominence as the heroine of the Babylonian episode of Griffith's "Intolerance." Shortly after Norma Talmadge was married arrangements were made by Mr. Schenck for starring her in pictures.

During the year before her marriage to Mr. Pialoglo, Miss Talmadge was several times reported engaged — once to Irving Berlin, the song writer. Mr. Pialoglo succeeded, however, in winning the race for her hand.

Since arriving in this city Miss Talmadge has been a guest at Mr. Keaton's residence. Her sister Natalie was married last summer to Mr. Keaton, who is a popular comedy star.

BLUEBEARD HAS SPRUNG SENSATION.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

VERSAILLES, Nov. 17.—Announcement made in court today by Henri Landru that he would produce one of the missing women the prosecution charges him with having murdered, proved the climax of the trial of the so-called "Bluebeard of Gambais." The opinion was general that if Landru can make good his declaration he will be acquitted, but that if he fails he will be guillotined.

Counsel for the defense refuses to give any inkling of the whereabouts of the missing woman, but it is reported evidence to be produced tomorrow will be to the effect that the woman, Madame Cuchet, together with her son, is living in Rio de Janeiro.

The prosecution conceded this evening that Landru had sprung a sensation. It is said that the prosecution will contend that the alleged Madame Cuchet and her son are imposters.

Tax Bill Change is Accepted.

House Accepts Amendment of Senate in Face of Harding's Letter.

Maximum Income Surtax Rate Set at 50 Per Cent by 201 to 173 Vote.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Disregarding the expressed wish of President Harding, the House voted today, 201 to 173, to accept the Senate amendment to the tax revision bill fixing the maximum income surtax rate at 50 per cent on incomes of $200,000 or more.

Ninety-four Republicans, most of them from the Middle and Far West, joined with practically solid Democratic minority in supporting the amendment. Announcement of the result brought applause from both sides, with some Democrats cheering.

Three hours after the vote was taken, the House listened to the reading of a letter from President Harding to Chairman Fordney of the Ways and Means Committee, suggesting that the House and Senate compromise. The Executive said he still believed the original house rate of 32 per cent was "nearer to a just levy and the more promising one in returns to the public treasury," but that in view of the legislative situation he thought it wholly desirable that there be a compromise at 40 per cent.

INSURGENTS CERTAIN.

Immediately after it became known that the President had written, Mr. Fordney, spokesman for the insurgent Republicans, said that the letter would not affect the results. They had claimed ninety-three Republican votes, or one less than was cast for the amendment.

This vote settled the biggest issue between the House and the Senate on the tax revision bill, and the managers from the two houses will resume their sessions tomorrow with the hope of reaching an agreement on the bill by Saturday night.

Intervention of the President in the fight—the second since the Ways and Means Committee began drafting the measure three and a half months ago—followed a visit to the White House today of Representative Mondell, Republican leader. The President then summoned Chairman Fordney and Representative Longworth of Ohio, of the Ways and Means Committee, and expressed his views on the surtax. These were supplemented by a letter to Mr. Fordney.

PRESIDENT ATTACKED.

During the three hours' debate in the House, which was conducted under special rule, the President was attacked for writing Mr. Fordney. Representative Frear, Republican, Wisconsin, said the President's intervention at the last minute was unfair and unjust.

Representative Garner, Democrat, Texas, declared that if the President had views to submit he should have done so in person or in a message, rather than in a letter. Representative Sinnot, Republican, Oregon, declared he "grieved because the President had been given bad advice on this subject."

STAGE IS SET FOR DRAMA.

Arbuckle Likely to Face His Peers Today; Jury Was Complete, When One Asks to be Relieved.

BY OTIS M. WILES
Times Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—Camera! The set is complete, the cast has been selected, the atmospheric extras are on hand and Mr. Roscoe Arbuckle, until recently known as "Fatty," will begin shooting tomorrow on his great dramatic offering, "Did He or Did He Not?" appearing personally in the stellar role.

The villain of the piece is Dist.-Atty. Matthew Brady, though his appearance is more like that of a bishop. He is assisted by several subvillains, reputy district attorneys, who seem more revengeful than the chief villain.

The musketeers of the star, those who wage his battle, are Attorney Gavin McNab and a group of able lawyers. "All for one and one for all," is their battle cry.

WIFE IS PRESENT.

There is no heroine in the drama, unless it is Mrs. Roscoe Arbuckle, known to the profession as Minta Durfee, who once having become estranged from her husband, has now come to his assistance and may—you never can tell—bring about a reconciliation.

Superior Judge Louderback is the director, though he is lacking in horned-rimmed spectacles, leather puttees and a megaphone. He is the man who bosses them, tells them when they are not conducting themselves properly.

The atmosphere is furnished by the spectators who congest the halls, the cordon of police scattered around the courtroom and the scores of witnesses who have minor parts in the drama.

The plot of the story has to do with a bacchanalian scene at a big hotel, the tragic death of a beautiful girl, accusations of murder made by guests who drank of the host's liquor, the arrest of Mr. Arbuckle on a murder charge, his indictment on a charge of manslaughter.

Mr. Brady and his assistant (heavies) say the star of the drama did it. The musketeers say he didn't.

Mr. Arbuckle has not yet decided what the climax will be. Like most producers he feels that dramas with happy endings, with the star victorious in the end, are more desirous. But until the climax arrives, there will be many "fade outs," numerous "retakes," a confusion of "cut backs," before it passes the board of censors, in this case represented by a jury of seven men and five women.

The jury was completed once yesterday. Again, it wasn't. Prosecution and defense had passed on seven men and five women to try Arbuckle on the charge of having caused the death of Virginia

Japan Asks Defensive Navy Equal to That of America or Britain.

TOKIO JOINS BRITAIN TO MODIFY NAVAL PLAN.

Nippon Desires Greater Relative Strength; Land Armament to be Discussed Next Week.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. — Far Eastern negotiations await the reply of Japan to China's declaration of rights, and the American move for limitation of naval armament is slowing up because of objections raised both by Japan and Britain.

Discussion of the Far Eastern problems was advanced by the big nine today to the point of an agreement that a general exchange of views on China's program should precede any consideration of specific points. Such a general presentation of views Japan was unprepared to make and the big nine adjourned until Saturday.

JAPAN SEEKS CHANGE.

Meantime Japan made known her desire to modify the American plan of naval limitation to give her a "slightly greater" relative strength and the opposition of the British to the submarine quota suggested by the United States gave evidence of such determination as to attract attention of all delegates.

The day's work seemed to indicate that the first impetus of the conference was giving way to a period of more deliberate discussion which might preclude the possibility of outstanding developments for the immediate future. Plans were made, however, to tackle the third big job of the conference, the limitation of land armament, early next week at an open session at which Premier Briand will make a declaration of the views of France.

TALK OF PROCEDURE.

The big nine's session on Far Eastern questions today was largely given over to a discussion of the method of procedure. The decision to permit each power to present a general statement before attempting to settle specific problems is understood to have had the indorsement of all heads of delegations, although Japan made it plain she accepted the Chinese plan only "as a basis of discussion." It was decided also that when specific points are reached, the Chinese "ten points" are to be interlaced with the items of the American agenda in determining details of procedure.

A corroborating factor to the two days' delay was said to be the illness of Baron Shidehara, Japanese Ambassador, who is in charge of Far Eastern problems for his government. It was understood, however, that the time required to communicate with Tokio and the determination of the Japanese to give most careful examination to the Chinese proposals have combined to make an immediate statement of Japan's views impossible. It is expected that when this presentation is ready it will be given to the public as an evidence of Japan's willingness to proceed with the discussion in the open.

The American government, which has been understood to be in general accord with the Chinese position, continued its silence. But evidence of general approval came from headquarters of the French delegation, with indications that Italy would follow suit. The French declared their willingness to give up their extraterritorial privileges and their lease of Kaung Tcheoup provided their government's title to French Indo-China was unquestioned. For China's aspirations they expressed sympathy, but they also indicated Japan's need of expansion in some quarters could not be minimized.

Formal announcement by Admiral Baron Kato that Japan would ask for a greater proportion of strength than had been proposed for her in the American plan, became tonight the center of attention in the naval armament negotiations. Making the first explanation of the reservations with which Japan accepted the plan, Baron Kato also announced that his government desired the right to possess at least one ship of the most formidable defensive type included in the armaments of Great Britain, and the United States.

QUOTA TOO LARGE.

He explained that he did not refer to submarines, but would not indicate what class of vessel was in his mind.

The view behind the British objections is that the quota of 90,000 tons in submarines suggested by the American plan for both Great Britain and the United States, is far too large. The British, in fact, would like to see the submarine abandoned entirely, but there are considerations of national defense which impel the American delegates to hold determinedly to the figure they first proposed. Late today the question was discussed by the American delegation with Theodore Roosevelt, the American representative of the conference committee of naval experts, but there was no indication of a recession by either the United States or Great Britain.

STATEMENT BY KATO.

A statement issued by Baron Kato said:

"Because of her geographical position, Japan deems it only fair at the present time that the other interested countries should agree that she should maintain a proportion in general tonnage slightly greater than 60 per cent, and, in a type of vessel of strictly defensive character, she might desire even to approximate that of the greater navies."

Baron's Kato's statement was made at a conference with newspaper correspondents, but he would not give details as to the modifications his delegation would submit, saying this was for the conference to discuss. It was assumed generally, however, that the "slightly greater" general tonnage the Japanese desired would include the battleship Mutsu, probably just commissioned, and that the type of defensive vessel referred to was a light cruiser suitable for policing waters of the Far East against pirates and the like.

The Mutsu is a ship of some 33,000 tons, armed with eight sixteen-inch rifles. She is comparable to the American Maryland class and according to Secretary Hughes's program each nation would retain but one ship in this class. Great Britain has no battleships of this type. If the Mutsu is later added to the ships Japan is to retain, she will make the second sixteen-inch gun ship for Japan and it was assumed that if this was granted the American delegation would desire to retain the West Virginia, of similar characteristics, to be launched Saturday.

REPLIES ARE EVASIVE.

Admiral Kato made his statement in the presence of M. Hanihara, Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs, and several other members of the Japanese delegation. He was asked to define more clearly what he meant in stating that "in a type of vessel of strictly defensive character, she might desire to approximate that of the greater navies," and in reply said he wanted to make it clear that the above reservation did not apply to capital ships, but to other ships of a defensive character.

In reply to another question he added that the reservation did not refer to submarines.

"Has Japan any views," he was asked, "as to the tonnage of submarines?"

"I have no views to express," he answered, "until I have had a chance to read and study the proposals of Great Britain."

"There is some idea of abolishing submarines, poison gas and other like instruments of warfare," said another questioner. "Has the Japanese delegation ever considered this?"

"I hope to take this matter up in the conference," the admiral replied, "so I am not in a position to answer at this time."

THREE CLASSES SPECIFIED.

The auxiliary combatant craft were divided under American proposals into three classes: Auxiliary surface combatant craft, submarines and airplane carriers and aircraft. The first group was announced to include cruisers, exclusive of battle cruisers and flotilla leaders and destroyers. The total tonnage of these ships was fixed as 450,000 for the United States and Great Britain and 270,000 tons for Japan. Admiral Kato's declaration is interpreted to mean that on some types, presumably the swift light cruiser, or on gunboats capable of steaming up the rivers of China or Siberia, Japan would like to have as much tonnage as the other two naval powers.

With Japan's occupation of the littoral of Siberia her presence in the northern part of Saghalien Island as a consequence of the Nikolaievsky massacre and her patrol of the extensive coast of the Kamchatka Peninsula, not to mention activities on the coast of China, it was regarded by some that Japan feels that what she calls her "defensive" craft should be increased over the tonnage specified. At all evnts this is held to add a new feature to the Japanese reservations to the American proposals. After the conference with newspaper men it was said Baron Shidehara was only slightly indisposed.

BRITISH VIEWS ON SUBMARINES.

Instrument of Assassins, is the Feeling.

Use of Bombing Aircraft is Defended.

Silent Regarding Jap Demand for Bigger Navy.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. — An authoritative statement of British naval views obtained tonight disclosed that aircraft are not regarded by the British as having displaced capital ships in naval warfare. Aircraft have a distinct place in war, however, and it was said even aircraft bombardment of cities might be justified because of the pressure such attacks exerted on enemy governments. British spokesmen pointed out that bombardment of London and Paris from the air during the war had been effective in this way and it was indicated that the British delegation would not favor too sharp a limitation on aircraft operations if the question comes up at the Disarmament Conference.

By contrast, the British position of abhorrence of submarines was explained as due to the feeling that the submersible was a mere "instrument of assassination" and incapable of exerting any such influence on peoples and their governments as air raids on cities. The British reply to the suggestion that the submarine was the weapon of the weaker powers was that the weak had never been oppressed by the British navy when there were no submarines.

Comment was denied by the British spokesmen on the Japanese modifications to the American proposals. The Japanese suggestions were a variation of the program proposed by the United States and a subject for conference discussion, it was said.

NO PLANS TO BUILD SHIPS.

It was denied that in thinking of continuing certain building for technical reasons during the proposed ten-year holiday, the British had ever formally proposed to produce a ship a year. Such a building program would amount to repudiation of the American naval holiday plan, it was added. It was declared nothing of the kind had been suggested in any official British statement. Many plans had been considered for continuing technical knowledge, but the British delegation was still not committed to any, it was said.

There is no feeling among British officials that the committee of naval officers of the five powers thrashing out the American proposals and various modifications suggested should be called upon to report in a matter of hours or days. The American plan was described as most far-reaching and of necessity, it was said, would take time to consider. The group of admirals, it was added, is working at full speed and has made some progress. It was added that the American ratio for submarines, the point about which the chief British proposed modifications hang, had not been considered as yet.

WOULD NEED DOCKYARDS.

Touching apprehension that government dockyards might be closed in Great Britain due to the naval holiday, it was said, this was not suggested and that repairs for the retained fleet would require their continued operation.

Another angle of the British view as to desirability of continuing work in some cases through the naval holiday in order not to lose technical knowledge applies to armor plate factories. These plants, it was said, could not remain idle ten years and then resume. Unless provision for continuing them in some measure was made, it was said, the plants would be scrapped and it would require rebuilding ten years from now, which would absorb all that had been saved by the naval holiday.

SEES TWO RESULTS FROM CONFERENCE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—Acceptance of the proposition for the limitation of armaments would be treating a sympton instead of the disease, Charles H. Brown, dean of the Yale divinity school, asserted today in an address. He said there was a possibility that the armament conference might open the way for the entrance of the United States into the League of Nations.

The World War, he said, showed that great armaments make for war, not peace.

Dean Brown said he foresaw two possible results of the conference: Utter failure; and a possible Anglo-American-Japanese treaty, under which these three nations would undertake to stand for the peace and the good order of the world.

MAY SELL BEER FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Telegrams were sent today by Commissioner Blair to all prohibition directors authorizing them to amend the permits of druggists to allow them to sell beer for medical purposes.

In addition to the instructions to State directors, it was said hundreds of telegrams were sent retail druggists who have made inquiries regarding permits, advising them that the proper procedure for them to sell beer for medical purposes was to apply to the State director.

CALL FOR OPEN SHOP.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Creation of open-shop conditions among railroad workers and prohibition of rail strikes by Federal legislation were urged in a resolution adopted today by the National Founders Association.

RANKS HARDING AS GREAT MAN.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Admiral Sir Cyprian A. H. Bridge, noted naval authority, in a letter to the London Times, proclaims President Harding as one of the great men of modern times, "enormously superior to Bismarck and superior even to the illustrious Cavour."

He declares that the American plan for limitation of armaments is statesmanlike because it is equitable and practicable, and points out that if it is intended that the American Navy shall equal that of Great Britain it is almost a concession, since, had the American 1916 program been maintained, "we should either have been surpassed in naval strength or been compelled to expand our latest expensive building program."

FRANCE WISHES TO AID CHINA.

he continued. "It has always been a French tradition to help backward countries. We are in favor of the policy of the open door. We are for the territorial integrity of China and administrative autonomy. One must say it would be necessary to have guarantees for the safety of the persons and the property of foreigners. There is anarchy in the Chinese provinces of Kwang Si and Kwang Tung. The fields are not cultivated and starving Chinese look across our frontiers and see riches and an abundance of food. There is much piracy along our boundaries.

"We cannot agree with every Chinese demand until order is restored. We should examine every question raised by the Chinese in a sympathetic and conciliatory spirit."

HAS HAD ENOUGH WAR.

Later he said:

"It would be abominable if there should be a conflict over Pacific questions. France has had enough war. We will do all in our power to avoid conflict. We must settle the questions that impel toward armaments. We can determine certain principles in respect to China and leave other points for the future as suggested in the last paragraph of the Chinese demands.

"We western powers must learn to respect the civilization of China and I may say we must not regard her and other parts of the world as countries to be exploited for our profit. We must not think in the old terms of markets, political influence and selfish interest. We must bring the human touch into our relations with countries that we may think inferior."

First—France desires earnestly to aid China in realizing her aspirations, territorial, political and commercial.

Second—France would give up Kouang Tcheou, which she leased from China in 1898, provided Great Britain gave up Wei Hai Wei, and Japan would relinquish Shantung, leased by the Germans at the same time, and the Port Arthur peninsula.

GIVE UP PRIVILEGES.

Third—France would not be unwilling to surrender her extraterritorial privileges were other powers willing to do the same. France gave up these privileges in Japan in 1906 and was in negotiation with Turkey to give them up there in 1914 when the war came. However, the French feel that extraterritoriality should be maintained until it is clear that the Chinese republic can give adequate security and justice to foreigners.

Fourth—The French colony of Indo-China did not belong to China, but to Annam. Consequently Indo-China, the great French colony with 25,000,000 inhabitants, does not come in question, according to the French point of view. If however, some question should be raised as to the rectification of the 900-mile Chinese frontier, the French government would be willing to discuss the boundary.

TAKES PACIFIC ROLE.

Fifth—France approaches the discussions of Far Eastern questions in sympathy with Japan's need for expansion and for raw material. The French delegation desires under all circumstances to take a conciliatory and pacific role.

Sixth—France is for open dealings of the powers with China and against any secret negotiations.

JAPANESE GIVE VIEWS.

In discussing French suggestions concerning China, authoritative Japanese said tonight it was indispensable to Japan that she should maintain her jurisdiction over the leased territory of South Manchuria, of which the port is Dairen, or Port Arthur, but Japan might be ready to discuss a plan of making Port Arthur purely a commercial port.

Concerning the French suggestion that Japan might give up Shantung the Japanese explained they had repeatedly placed themselves on record as disposed to evacuate the Kiauchau leased territory, including Tsingtao, provided China would enter into direct negotiations concerning conditions of evacuation which Japanese believe to be eminently reasonable and fair to China.

Japanese spokesmen explained that it was a misconception to assume Japan now occupies the peninsula of Shantung. Its only occupation, it was pointed out, is the very end of the peninsula known as the Kiauchau leased territory, which was in the hands of the Germans until seized by the Japanese during the war. China had agreed in 1915, it was said, to accept any disposition of this territory which might be made at the peace conference after the war, and at the Versailles congress Japan had been authorized to take over the German rights in Shantung.

The Japanese further claim they always have shown a disposition to see removed the extraterritorial privileges enjoyed by the powers in China. The only question, they say, is whether the time has arrived to carry this out.

Message from Northcliffe is Misinterpreted

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PEKING, Nov. 16.—Lord Northcliffe, who is touring the Far East, issued a statement today explaining his dispatch to the London Times, October 28, was not meant as an indorsement of the Canton government's claims that it represents the Chinese people, as the dispatch evidently had been interpreted. It was merely, he declared, a quotation of Dr. Wu Ting-Fang, who made those claims in an interview with the British publisher.

In his statement, Lord Northcliffe said Dr. Wu had claimed that the press was inaccessible as a medium of expression by the Canton government and that, therefore, he (Lord Northcliffe) although not supporting the Canton government's contentions, had offered to publish Dr. Wu's statement.

FRENCH SENATE FOR MORE SUBMARINES.

BELIEVE THEY SHOULD HAVE THEM TO MAKE UP FOR NAVAL SHORTAGE.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Nov. 17.—The naval committee of the Senate passed a resolution today advocating an increase in the number of submarines sufficient to insure the security of France's coast line. Adoption of the resolution followed a long discussion which was precipitated largely by Mr. Balfour's advocacy at Washington of a further reduction in the 90,000 tons permitted under the plan of Secretary Hughes.

The Hughes plan is heartily endorsed, but in French naval circles it is declared France needs a powerful submarine fleet, and a maximum of 90,000 tons, it is contended does not seem excessive for nations weak in other branches of naval defense.

The press lays stress on the necessity of France maintaining an adequate submarine force. Journal des Debats says that the fact that Germany made abusive use of submarines does not imply that submarines cannot be utilized in conformity with the laws of war and humanity.

ADMITS MURDERING PARENTS, POLICE SAY.

MICHIGAN YOUTH SAID TO HAVE CONFESSED AFTER SWEETHEART'S VISIT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAGINAW (Mich.) Nov. 17.—Richard Champlain, 22 years old, charged today with the murder of his stepmother, Mrs. Adrian Champlain, confessed tonight to Undersheriff Hodges, County Detective Land and Miss Clara A. Humpert, his sweetheart, the officers announced. Champlain was quoted as saying he shot and killed his father and stepmother Monday and set fire to the house that night to cover up the crime. The father was not mentioned in the charge, owing to the lack of supporting evidence.

Champlain declared, it was said, that he shot his parents after a quarrel with them over the girl, to whom they objected because of religious difference. Prosecuting Attorney Crane announced Champlain would be taken into Circuit Court tomorrow, where he had agreed to plead guilty.

The confession, officers stated, was made voluntarily, after Miss Humpert visited Champlain's cell and urged him to tell the truth.

PRESIDENT IS DISREGARDED.

that the Republican party had promised to reduce taxes, and that the 50 per cent rate should not be approved by the House.

The letter written by President Harding to Chairman Fordney follows:

"In response to your inquiry as to the wisest course in dealing with the difference between the Congress in higher surtax on incomes, I can say only that in view of our earlier conference on tax matters and the ultimate adoption of the higher surtax rate of 32 per cent I still believe the rate approved by the House to be the nearer to a solution, and a more promising one in returns to the public treasury.

"The responsible administration is anxious first of all to lay necessary taxes to meet demands of the treasury. There is a moral obligation, however, to do everything possible to keep faith with promises made.

"We have been collecting the highest surtax on incomes, levied at this time in the world. The effect has been the restriction of the easy flow of capital in the channels most essential to our normal and very necessary activities. No one challenges the levy of the higher tax in the stress of war, but now we are struggling for the readjustments of peace.

DIFFERENCE IS WIDE.

"Where there is so wide a difference in the judgment of the two houses, I have thought it might be possible and wholly desirable, to reach an equitable compromise say a maximum surtax levy of 40 per cent. This would put the higher Federal tax on income at 48 per cent, which would measurably meet the expectations of those who are, above all else, concerned with the return of hopeful investment of capital, and the application of our capital resources to profitable productivity. I am wholly confident that the helpful results spreading therefrom to every active participant in industrial and economic life, from management to every wage-earner, would be vastly more advantageous to our people than the maintenance of war-time levies as peace-time penalties on capital which are certain to hamper the restoration of our activities for which we all so much hope.

"One experience will afford a convincing illustration. In seeking to hasten railway settlements, growing out of Federal control, I authorized the Director-General to invite the co-operation of the War Finance Corporation to convert splendid securities into the cash needed for the settlements in process of making.

CONVERSIONS CEASE.

"During the period of public belief in a thirty-two per cent surtax, as proposed by the House, the sale of these bills receivable was progressing in a most promising way. Indeed, we had converted more than $100,000,000 of railway notes into cash. The moment the higher surtax became a likely levy these conversions ceased.

"Manifestly the prohibitive surtax tends to divert our available and much needed capital from employment in our every day activities to investment in tax-free securities. The records show that it is making a continued diminution in our receipts from income taxes and it is making difficult the normal financing of every sort of essential activity and is emphasis

Are You Keeping Up with the Disarmament Conference?

Do you know that it affects not only nations, but the individual inhabitants of the various countries—which includes you?

Do you realize that to understand current news, to form correct judgments, and to see and know in which direction we are headed—whether it shall be billions for armaments or billions for peace—it is absolutely necessary to follow this epochal event?

In response to numerous requests the Los Angeles Times will publish each week during the conference a special 4-page illustrated edition giving in compact and connected form all the principal news, special articles and reports that have appeared in The Times the previous week.

Through its re-arrangement and editing the matter will enable busy people to keep pace with the developments. The editions when completed will make a connected history well worth preserving.

The Tale of a Coat

The ways of humans are amusing. Men used to be a hairy tribe. Couldn't see their faces on account of the forests. And one fellow looked as good to a woman as another. The fellow with a weak chin had as good a chance with her as the fellow with the strong jaw, provided he carried as heavy a club. It's no longer thus. If, now a woman makes a wrong pick it's her own fault. For, with face devoid of hair the character of a man is readily seen. Just so, the character of me, the talkative coat. At a glance, you know me as I am, for a garment of real merit, both outside and inside. And my bosses guarantee me.

As a raincoat I'm priced $15 and $20. As a gabardine I'm priced $30, $32.50 and $35. In other styles I'm priced $25 to $50; the finest productions in America. I want to get on your back!

Two Dead, One Near Death in Revolver Duel.

HAGERMAN (N. M.) Nov. 17.—Jerome Deleaven and J. Parks are dead and Deputy Sheriff Guy Robinson of Roswell, is believed to be fatally wounded as the result of a gun fight here this afternoon.

Parks is said to have gone to Deleaven's house to see about a cow he had in Deleaven's pasture and was shot. Robinson went to arrest Deleaven and was shot in the stomach. Deleaven then barricaded himself in his house and engaged in an exchange of shots with Sheriff Peck and a posse who had arrived from Roswell. After darkness fell the Sheriff and his men entered the house. They found Deleaven sitting in a corner of the room with his gun in his hand apparently ready to fire. Examination showed that he was dead, three bullets having pierced his body.

Deleaven was believed insane, although he had recently returned from a clinic in the East, and is said to have been told he was mentally sound.

ARMAMENT PLAN HARDING'S IDEA.

President Harding, until today's "inside story" began to circulate.

The great secret, to which A. J. Balfour referred in his address Tuesday, must indeed have been well kept, because between seven and ten men knew it. That number includes the four American delegates and President Harding. The others worked on various phases of the proposal. It is known that it was based on memoranda from the Navy Department and it was carried into execution by the American big four which Secretary Hughes heads. But the "big idea" on which the plan is built, the "inside story" says, came from President Harding.

Griffith Park's Portal

Let your motor destination today be to Los Feliz and Western—the scenic south entrance to Griffith Park. Rest awhile on the fern-laden banks of Fern Creek, beneath the shade of oaks and sycamores. There are cool, enticing and secluded spots for your lunch.

The lands fronting this lovely glen on the west have been subdivided for your suburban home site. The city of Los Angeles owns the dale where the babbling brook flows and will perpetually maintain the splendid road, the rustic bridges, bridle paths and floral improvements. Your front "yard" is, in reality, a wonderful estate, without work, worry or expense to you.

Perhaps you will like better the higher and more commanding slopes, with a magnificent vista across Hollywood. Drive up to these while you have time.

Two blocks to car line at Franklin and Western, if you come that way. Schools, churches, shopping centers close by. All improvements—walks, drives, gas, electricity, city water, telephone wires—paid for by owner.

These lots will surely not be available long.

PLANNING FOR A NEW JAPAN.

Many Evidences of Optimism Reported in Tokio.

More and Better Schools Now Being Visualized.

Financial Betterment Seen by Business Heads.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

TOKIO, Nov. 17.—Striking evidence of optimism and the prevalent tendency to regard the slash in naval armaments as an accomplished fact is to be found in the discussion regarding the economic effect of releasing tremendous revenue, which could be made available for development of education, industry and trade. Japanese government authorities have maintained silence concerning the Washington proposals, except for general expressions of admiration for America's sincerity and of hope for success of the conference.

Nevertheless, business men and bankers, on the supposition that Admiral Kato's acceptance of the proposals in principle is conclusive, have begun to plan for a new Japan. More and better schools are visualized, with consequent relief from the deprivation of the children of proper facilities for education.

Development of industry and betterment of social conditions occupy a high place in their estimation in the benefits to be derived from the application of some of the money saved by the proposed limitation of armaments.

FINDS PLEASANT NOTE.

T. Wada, special member of the Tokio Chamber of Commerce, finds a pleasant note in the Japanese accord with Hughes's suggestions—that there will be at least 200,000,000 yen to devote to peaceful pursuits, with armament restrictions accomplished. In his opinion much of the unrest in Japan is due to opposition to extreme capitalism and high prices. The remedy is to be found in lower taxes, decreased prices of food and the intelligent expenditure of the surplus revenue from naval reduction.

"Many branches of industry," he said, "are suffering a slump. Financial aid would bring a revival which would be bound to benefit the credit of the nation. Many thrown out of employment by armament limitation can be employed to advantage in agricultural pursuits."

BLESSING TO HUMANITY.

K. Shoda, former Minister of Finance, believes that armament limitation will prove a blessing to humanity. Though it will affect shipbuilding, he declares that the country cannot be expected to stand back for the benefit of the few. He would apply the surplus available to the reduction of taxation.

S. Ikeda, managing director of the Mitsui Bank, is optimistic that the American plan will be adopted by the nations with little amendment, and is confident it will result in financial and economic betterment. Attributing the temporary dullness in trade to the increase in unemployment, he believes clever handling of the advantages offered will result in the betterment of foreign trade and improved domestic business.

NEWSPAPER COMMENT.

The Kokumin Shibun says it is informed that yesterday suggestions were cabled to Admiral Kato that Japan had found the proposals consistent with the policy outlined to the delegates prior to their departure, and that Japan will be ready to accept, with slight modifications to insure a fairer balance of power. The paper expects that Japan will propose that the strength of her navy be maintained to 70 per cent of that of the United States.

Other morning papers advocate similar proportionate strength.

The Yamato Shimbun deprecates the idea of opposition to the plan because of its unfavorable effects on shipbuilding.

LONDON, Nov. 17. — K. Matsukata, Japanese shipping magnate, has made a gigantic art raid on Europe. In the last few years he has bought about 1000 works of art and proposes to found a gallery on the famous plateau of Tokio for the benefit of the Japanese people at a cost of about $5,000,000.

BOY FINDS MOTHER HE DID NOT KNOW OF.

VETERAN LOCATES PARENT WHO THOUGHT HE HAD DIED YEARS AGO.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

JOPLIN (Mo.) Nov. 17.—Robert William Davis Rohlfing, 21 years old, a vocational student in Washington University, St. Louis, and a World War veteran, who was twice gassed and once wounded in action in France, has been reunited with his mother, Mrs. Lucy Davis Simpson of Joplin, after nearly twenty years, during which time she thought him dead.

By accident Rohlfing learned a few weeks ago that he had been adopted from a children's home in St. Louis by Mr. and Mrs. John Rohlfing of Berger, Mo., whom he supposed were his parents. Investigation, he said, disclosed the fact that while 16 months old he had been mistaken for another baby that died in the children's home, and authorities of the institution had told his mother that it was he. Further investigation, Rohlfing said, revealed that he had been born in Joplin and that his mother's name was Davis. That caused him to send a letter to a local newspaper from St. Louis with the request that it be published. Publication of the notice brought a prompt answer from his mother with the result that the son yesterday for the first time that he can remember looked into the eyes of his mother.

Mrs. Simpson, who also has two adopted children, corroborated her son's story of the mistake at the children's home in St. Louis, where she had placed her baby and for the first time learned that she was a grandmother, a child having been born to her son and his wife recently.

INDEPENDENCE FOR PHILIPPINES URGED.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MANILA, Nov. 17. — Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine Senate, has telegraphed from his sick bed an exclusive statement relative to the Washington conference. He says in part:

"The Filipino people are intensely interested in the Disarmament Conference because upon the outcome of the deliberations and agreements may depend in a great measure the future of the Philippines. It is generally understood that the conference will discuss the Pacific problems that are causing or may cause misunderstandings between the great powers.

"The Philippine question may or may not be taken up in the conference, but certainly the continued possession of the islands by the United States will be. This conference furnishes, therefore, an excellent opportunity to find out Japan's real attitude on the Philippine question and to secure her co-operation in the recognition of the Philippines. I believe sincerely that Japan gladly would join in a real understanding and would bind herself to an agreement assuring a policy of noninterference with Philippine independence if America should see fit to bring up such questions.

"Philippine independence at this time would be the best evidence to the world that America does not want the domination of the Pacific, would place her in an advantageous position of leadership in the conference and would bring about the realization of her ideals on disarmament or the limitation and control of armaments. Moreover, the independence of the Philippines would mean for the United States an automatic reduction in naval and army expenditures."

BRITAIN STRONG FOR HUGHES PROPOSAL.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Nothing must stand in the way of ratification of the American proposals for limitation of the navies of the United States, Great Britain and Japan, declared the Daily Telegraph today, in an editorial on the Washington conference. The newspaper welcomes the reported decision that no understanding will be finally approved until the naval status of France and Italy is settled "providing this does not menace the agreement between the major navies, for nothing must intervene to prevent sealing of the great compact Secretary Hughes has outlined."

The Times says it is encouraging to hear authoritative Japanese voices in Washington suggest that Japan may withdraw from Shantung if England does likewise in Wei-Hai-Wei.

A plan to meet the submarine difficulty by extending the limit of territorial waters and proclaiming the waters outside an international sea is presented by the Daily Chronicle. Under this plan the powers would engage themselves to treat the use of submarines against merchant ships in this internal area as an act of war against themselves.

Chicago Train Guard Dies; Motorman is Taken Into Custody.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Twenty-five persons were injured, two probably fatally, shortly before 9 o'clock this morning, when two five-car elevated trains, bound downtown from the West Side, were wrecked in a rear-end collision at the Crawford-avenue station on the Oak Park line.

Three steel coaches were smashed and several victims pinned beneath the wreckage. Firemen with acetylene torches cut through the twisted metal to reach them.

Frank R. Doyle, 43, motorman on the second train, was taken into custody by the police. He declared he had done everything possible to stop his train as soon as he saw the train ahead, but was unable to prevent the crash.

Patrick McGuire, a guard on the first train, who was pinned under wreckage for more than an hour, died three hours after being removed to a hospital.

FOCH TO TAKE HIS WILD CAT TO PARIS.

"LITTLE MARSHAL" NOW IN HANDS OF ZOO UNTIL GENERAL SAILS FOR HOME.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The baby wildcat presented Marshal Foch during his western tour and dubbed by his New York keepers "the little marshal" because of his fire and his drooping military moustache, eventually is to become a naturalized Parisian, with a residence on the famous Jardin des Plantes.

The most feted cat in the world, as Curator L. R. Ditmars of the New York Zoological Park describes him, has not been dropped by his hero master, as it was reported, when Marshal Foch sent him to the zoo here. He is merely being kept in retirement for fear too much reflected glory would go to his head.

"The cheers, the bustle and the excitement that accompany Marshal Foch were spoiling the kitten's disposition," Curator Ditmars said, "so Marshal Foch asked us to take care of him until he sails for France, in December."

CANADIAN LIQUOR TO BE SHIPPED BY BOAT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MONTREAL, Nov. 17.—C. C. Ballyntine, Minister of Marine, stated today that shipments of liquor from Canada consigned to the West Indies and Mexico would be transported by the government merchant marine. This action was decided on as a result of the embargo on export of alcoholic beverages in bond through the United States, which went into force Tuesday.

The cause of the embargo, it was stated today, was that many liquor shipments were consigned to bogus addresses in Mexico and that the cars were broken into in the United States and the liquor disposed of there.

MAN WHO CAPTURED JEFF DAVIS DIES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Lieut.-Col. Charles T. Hudson, 83 years old, said to be the last survivor of the detail of Union soldiers that captured Jefferson Davis, died today at his home in Brooklyn.

Breveted a lieutenant-colonel for the part he took in the capture of the Confederate leader, the veteran had kept as his most cherished memento a scrap of the women's clothing in which Davis was attired when he was taken.

DISORDERS MARK VISIT OF PRINCE.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BOMBAY (India) Nov. 17. — Coincident with a procession escorting the Prince of Wales through the city of Bombay today, serious disturbances occurred in the native quarter, attributed by the authorities to agitation by followers of Mahatma Gandhi, the Hindu non-co-operationist leader, resulting in a number of casualties.

The procession itself was not marred by any untoward incident.

FORMER SOLDIER KILLED BY GAS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EUREKA, Nov. 17.—John Simpkins, a former soldier, who was seriously injured by being gassed in France, was killed today by carbon monoxide gas which had collected in the hold of a power-boat operating on the Eel River. He went down the hatchway to escape a shower of rain and was found dead an hour later.

HOUSE REVOLT IS THREATENED.

Harbors and Rivers Fund Cause of Trouble.

Dawes in Cutting Estimate Ignored Committee.

Members Mutter Retaliation; Osborne Leader.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Unless Director of the Budget Dawes has a change of heart about the river and harbor appropriations estimates the whole program is likely to be upset by a revolt in the House led by Congressman Osborne of Los Angeles, the ranking Republican of the committee, who has been acting chairman of the committee several times during the last year. For several years the expenditures of the War Department through the board of engineers charged with the maintenance of the rivers and harbors in a navigable condition have been from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000. This sum is required to keep channels open and improvements maintained in the best possible manner to aid the water-commerce of the United States.

IGNORED COMMITTEE.

When the Director of the Budget this year sent in the estimates he did not consult the House committee on Rivers and Harbors and instead of providing enough money in his estimates to do the usual current work he sent in an estimate for only $13,500,000, a sum too low to even make an impression on the actual maintenance of rivers and harbors used in navigation.

It was some time before the committee discovered this oversight and the Republican members headed by Chairman Dempsey and Capt. Osborne lost no time in getting an interview with the somewhat profane but highly efficient head of the budget. Gen. Dawes said he could not understand how the mistake occurred and said he would personally investigate the situation.

REOLT THREATENED.

Dawes was told in so many words by the members of the committee who called on him, that unless there was an immediate correction of these estimates and a sufficient sum set aside for the ordinary current work which this department has to provide every year, there would be a revolt in the House and the whole list of estimates might be attacked. He was clearly shown that there were enough votes in sight to make a successful fight for adequate funds for the rivers and harbors and that if a successful fight could be made on this item, the House might do damage to other estimates submitted by the director of the budget.

Los Angeles is vitally interested in the securing of adequate appropriations for this purpose as new funds will be necessary for the maintenance of the work and the carrying on of improvements at Los Angeles Harbor now under way and funds for which are available only to June 30, 1922. If adequate funds are not available after that date for the rivers and harbors, some of the contemplated improvements in Los Angeles Harbor will suffer delay and depreciation, because of enforced idleness.

GOLFERS RE-ELECT ED TUFTS

Amateur Championship to be Held Over Links of Pasadena and Flintridge.

The Southern California amateur golf championships for 1922 will be decided over the Pasadena and Flintridge courses, it was decided at the annual meeting of the S.C.G.A. at the California Club yesterday. Eighteen holes of the qualifying round will be played over the Pasadena links and eighteen over those of Flintridge. Midwick and Annandale had the first bid, but they couldn't agree on the staging of the tourney, and Pasadena and Flintridge captured the plum.

Ed B. Tufts was re-elected to the presidency of the association for the seventeenth consecutive time, Norman Macbeth of Wilshire being his only opponent.

Eight new clubs were elected to membership—Red Hill of Ontario, San Diego Country Club, La Jolla Country Club, Hillcrest Country Club, Ambassador Country Club, Sunset Canyon Country Club, Tahquitz Country Club at Hemet and the Hacienda Country Club at Whittier.

It was voted to resume team matches and a committee named to arrange the playing dates.

ANDY SMITH HAS GOOD HUNCH.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BERKELEY, Nov. 17.—Andy Smith, head coach of the University of California football team, announced today that he is to leave for the East on Sunday morning to witness the Army-Navy and other big contests and to look over the team that will be selected to play the Pacific Coast conference champion at Pasadena New Year's Day. Smith expects that the eastern team will be selected by the Pasadena promoters while he is away and that he will have plenty of opportunity to study this aggregation.

Smith announced that he also would work up interest in a big game between some outstanding eastern university and California next year.

Aces in "Big Game" Classic Tomorrow.

"Dangerous Dan" McMillan (at the top) is California's left tackle. Walter Camp thought well enough of Dan to place him on the second All-American team last year. McMillan is a local boy and formerly played with the Manual Arts High School team. "Brick" Muller (about to heave a pass) is one reason why Ohio State was licked so decisively last New Year's Day. Capt. Patrick of Stanford (kicking) is the Cardinals' best bet. He is a veteran of California-Stanford battles, having played in the last four, the S.A.T.C. one of 1918 not counting in his varsity career.

SPEED BOATS ALL PRIMED.

Motorcraft Classic Will be Pulled Off at the Harbor Tomorrow—Nordlinger Cup is Trophy.

1913—Bull Pup	H. G. Vorhauer	4:34:33	16
1914—Fellows II	Joe Fellows	3:51:58	20
1915—Tazus	C. Merritt	4:41:06	15
1916—Biff	Doc Wilson	2:52:35	21
1917—Fellows III	Joe Fellows	2:38:46	30

1920—Eleda	Dustin Farnum	1:41:33	42

Enough horse power to topple over the courthouse will be turned loose tomorrow in an endeavor to create new speed-boat marks, when the first heat of twenty-four miles of the annual Nordlinger trophy race is held at Los Angeles Harbor by the Los Angeles Motorboat Club.

The combined horsepower of the four local entries will total 2700 and should the Vogler Boy IV from Portland be the rumored boat that has arrived, the horsepower available will be an even 3000. This is a vast difference over the puny engines that drove the boats in the first few races for the coveted cup.

A TWIN FIAT.

Commodore Farnum has had the Seacraft Corporation construct his latest speed dish. The hull is along the new Hacker single-step hydroplane type with two surface propellers. The engine is a twin Fiat of 600 horsepower.

The Mystery entered by Frank A. and Frank E. Garbutt is of the old Hacker V bottom type but equipped with a twin Liberty motor—800 horsepower.

The Hurricane II, owned by Bill Paden, is one of the new type Hackers, the single step hydroplane and also has a twin Liberty motor of 800 horsepower.

LAST YEAR HULL.

The smallest powered boat of the four will be Joe Fellows's entry. His boat will be last year's hull, a V-bottom design, but equipped with the latest model Sterling engine of 300 horsepower. Vogler's boat is a hydroplane with an engine similar to Fellows's.

Compared with the small, shaking, leaky boats with everything from Pope-Hartford automobile engines to four-cylinder Hudsons, the entries of this year's race will loom up like the Leviathan alongside a canoe. In looking over the records made each year since the Nordlinger cup was first raced for, it is noticed the speed has had more ups and downs than the Wandering Jew.

It was in 1912 that the first seventy-two-mile classic was put on. The race was won by S. G. Cousiner. It took almost five hours for the little El Veinto to make the distance. The average of miles per hour made according to the records faithfully kept by Secretary E. R. Abbott was but fifteen.

PULL PUP.

The Bull Pup came into fame in 1913, when Harry Vorhauer drove it to victory. However, the Bull Pup averaged only sixteen miles an hour.

Joe Fellows, who helped Fulton launch the Folly, came out in 1914 with the Fellows II. The boat was the hit of that day and thought the last word in speed It cut down the elapsed time by nearly an hour and averaged twenty miles an hour.

Then in 1915, a setback was experienced by the motor boat men, the speed going back to an average of fifteen miles an hour for seventy-two miles. That year, C. Merritt drove the Tazus to first place.

The greatest speed made in the five years the trophy had been raced for was made in 1916 by P. H. L. ("Doc") Wilson, when he drove the Biff to first place. Wilson drove the hardest race that has ever taken place since the Nordlinger events have been held. The weather was stormy and the outer harbor a mass of chops and swells. The exhausts of his engine were torn loose and fire broke out abroad the frail craft many times and was extinguished with handy Pyrene containers. He averaged twenty-one miles an hour for the seventy-two miles.

"Uncle" Joe Fellows again climbed to the tallest pinnacle of western motor boat fame in 1917 by driving the Fellows III to first place and greatly cutting the elapsed time. He average thirty miles an hour.

Frank A. Garbutt won the race in 1918 with the Mystery IV, but the speed was again lowered, the average dropping to twenty-three miles an hour.

The real speed and something that looked like real speed boats came out in 1919, when Dustin Farnum drove the Miss Los Angeles into first place in an average of thirty-six miles an hour. He bettered that speed last year in the Eleda to forty-two miles an hour.

GARNSEY OPENS UP A NEW TROUT CREEK.

Leigh Garnsey has opened up about 1000 feet of Mill Creek for trout fishermen, who go to Rainbow ranch for their sport. The trout are large, and are being hooked without much trouble.

Joe Welch of Pasadena came back with a nice creel of brook trout yesterday.

GRANT TO HUNT.

Hearing that duck hunting has improved at Baldwin Lake, T. V. Grant, the Alaska Fur Man left for the place yesterday. He will stay several days and expects to bag a limit. Many northern flights of ducks have arrived at the lake, according to reports from there.

MORNINGSTAR IS LOSER.

San Diego Billiardist is Beaten by Welker Cochran of San Francisco; Conti Winner Again.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Ora Morningstar, of San Diego, Cal., today lost his first game in the world's 18.2 balk-line billiard tournament when Welker Cochran, of San Francisco, took his measure, 400 to 317, in sixteen innings. Cochran had a high run of 132, while Morningstar's best run was seventy. This leaves Hoppe, world's champion, the only undefeated player.

Roger Conti, young French champion, evened up his standing of games won and lost when he won his second match, defeating George Sutton, Chicago, by a score of 400 to 360.

Score:

SPRINTERS CLASH IN GRID GAME

Daggs and Spangler Oppose Each Other in Sagehen-Oxy Tilt Tomorrow.

It is seldom that two track stars of the caliber of Charlie Daggs and Tony Spangler hook up in a high-powered football game, but such will be the case Saturday afternoon at Claremont, when the Pomona Sagehens entertain Coach Joe Pipal's Occidental eleven.

The records of these two gents on the cinderpath is quite familar to every track fan in Southern California. Daggs is best known for his prowess as a hurdler, having been a member of the United States Olympic team. Charlie is credited with taking second to Johnny Norton in the Olympic Game tryouts at Pasadena in 1920, when Norton broke the world's record in the 440-yard three-foot hurdles. Daggs was inches behind the fleet Norton and timers were of the opinion that the Sagehen sprinter also broke the record. While a high school student, Daggs held both the high and low records for the south. His record of 25 1/5s in the lows still stands. Last year Charlie broke the Pomona College record in the highs, negotiating the distance in 15s. flat.

Spangler's race is the 440, and from all past performances he is some bird. Two years ago, when the memorable race between Kilby and Schiller was staged at Claremont, the speedy Spangler outdistanced the Redlands star and took second to "Speck." He has been doing great work for Coach Pipal and should he get away on an end run Saturday there is no telling how far he will run.

Bears Have Not Been Asked to Play New Years

"The California football team has not accepted an invitation to play at Pasadena," said J. J. Mitchell, president of the Tournament of Roses Association, last night, "for the simple reason it has not been invited. Following out an annual policy we never forward any invitations until all the games have been checked in.

"California is the logical choice on the Coast, but that does not mean that we have invited anyone. All that will come in due time."

Mr. Mitchell's statement spikes the blah-blah of an afternoon sheet yesterday that California and Yale had agreed to meet at Pasadena on New Year's Day.

NO CHANCE FOR BIG TEN TEAMS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

IOWA CITY (Iowa) Nov. 17.—Ohio State and Iowa State universities have not a chance to secure permission to play a post-season football game, declared Howard Jones, Iowa coach, yesterday. "Our board won't even think of violating a Big Ten rule." The Hawkeye athletic board is contemplating the erection of a stadium to seat 45,000.

Today's Games.

Poly and L. A. at Bovard Field.

Lincoln at Jefferson.

Manual at Hollywood.

With the championship still undecided, the prep football aggregations of the City League will stage their final games of the season this afternoon. Poly meets L. A. High, Manual connects with Hollywood, and Jefferson hooks up with Lincoln, while Pasadena, drawing a bye for this date, will watch proceedings from a very unstable second place.

The trio of games this afternoon is distinctive in that every contest will help in deciding the proper holder of the City League title. Manual Arts, Jefferson and L. A. High share the top rung of the ladder at present, and unless one of the teams loses while the others win, they will also be forced to divvy up the championship laurels.

Poly's affair with the Pioneers at Bovard is drawing the most interest. For years this tussle between the two oldest high schools in Los Angeles has been considered the prep game de luxe of the season, and this year is no exception. Fans have learned from sad experience that a dope sheet on this grudge fight is about as reliable as a year-old time table, for the youngsters have absolutely no respect for figures. Nevertheless, it is generally believed by everybody but the Mechanics' sympa-

Sisler's Scrappy Chaps Defeat Seals in Face of Wind.

NORTHERNERS MAULED AGAIN.

Cobb's Seals Lose to Tigers in a Nippy Wind.

Sisler and O'Connell Feature With Home Runs.

Small Body of Regular Fans Shiver During Game.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

San Francisco's deep-sea going baseball team tried to carry too much canvas in a high wind, with the result that Ty Cobb and his hired help were left standing on their beam ends.

Vernon 9, San Francisco 5. Actual playing time, 45m. Pursuing fouls and flies before the wind 15 minutes. Rubbing hands on pants to keep them warm, meaning both hands and pants, 20 minutes. Wiping nose, 40 minutes. Elapsed time two hours, rough, instead of flat.

LIMPS IN PORT.

Ty himself had his spinnaker carried away by a sudden gust, and he limped into port late with a tattered batting and fielding average. Mr. Cobb clouted only .333 for the day, which is exceedingly poor for him, and dropped one fly ball in a whirlwind. This much for our matchless climate. Yesterday we would have matched it against any climate in the world for sheer strength.

Several hundred bugs sat huddled in the stands, while their faithful flivvers huddled under the lee of the same structure, and in their mute, articulate way, told of great suffering. There is no sadder sight in the world than a Ford with the shivvers. A really humane man would blanket his flivver on a day like this, and put a hot water bottle under each rear tire. One machine contracted a severe cold in its Klaxon horn and can now hardly honk above a whisper.

ROUGHS BALL.

The wind was so strong that it roughened the ball, as well as blowing it into strange and uneexpected ports. As, for instance, in thee fourth. Blenkiron popped a tall one which started out to be a foul back of the plate, but with the help of a trade wind took a new and surprising tack and stretched itself into a two-bagger. Blenkiron hit the ball fifty feet up and fifty feet down, and while Joe Jenkins was braced to catch it fell ten feet behind the plate, it dropped ten feet in front of the plate for a two-bagger. Elapsed distance, 120 feet.

Most of the life rafts in right and left field were deserted, not more than two or three hardy survivors clinging to them until the finish, but the cabin passengers in the stand managed with a degree of comfort.

Judging of fly balls was extremely difficult. The wind caused the ball to describe caracoles and parabolas with a few Coca-Colas on the side.

EIGHT KNOTS.

The climate didn't agree with Jack Bromley and Ray Kremer, but between them they went the full eight knots. Tom Hughes did better, but he wasn't heard putting in any boosts for the weather, which Frank Wiggins would care to print. All that Frank had to say for the climate yesterday could be printed on a postage stamp in poster type, and then leave room for an Oregon pine exclamation point.

George Sisler had the Seals buffaloed right from the start, when he brightened up the color scheme of his ball team by injecting another Red Smith into the line-up. This russet athlete comes from the Texas League and as far as the vital statistics show is not linked to J. Carlisle (Red) Smith by any of the ties of consanguinity. (See Funk & Wagnallis.)

CURL WAVING.

But they made a couple of warm numbers around second and third with their crimson curls waving in the weather. Not a permanent wave because their hair became straight with the settling of the weather. It was feared that these waves dashing against their frontal bones would cause a brain storm but they didn't cause even a mild meteorlogical disturbance of the mind. So much for the power of mind over wind and hair, although wind whistling through whiskers for a protracted period has been known to drive bright men mad, yet one can hardly conceive of a really bright man taking his whiskers out in a storm unless he had them closely reefed to his face, which would prevent whistling.

With nobody on in the third, Sisler busted a homer over Cobb. Ty was playing too shallow for George, who isn't that kind of a fish. Jimmy O'Connell almost put San Francisco in the running in the fifth, when with Blue and Cobb on bases, he smashed a homer into the right field steerage seats.

In order to do this it was necessary for him to drive the ball right into the teeth of the gale, with the result that the label was almost chewed off the pill. The hit-and-run was on when O'Connell pulled his homer, but it finished in a walk as there was no hurry. This came within one or tying the count, but the Tigers increased their lead as the wind increased its velocity. Heinie Sands had a tough time in the rough going at short. He paddled around all the afternoon without making a landing. The score:

LITTLE BOXERS HOLD BOARDS.

Macey and George Feature Legion Fisticuffs.

Papke and Carmen to Clash in Semi-wind-up.

Seven Good Bouts Tonight at Hollywood Arena.

Again the little fellows will have their inning at the weekly boxing festival to be staged tonight at the American Legion Hollywood stadium. Never before has interest been so keen as in the main event and semi-wind-up and it is predicted by the matchmaker, Frank Crowley that another record-breaking throng will witness the bouts, and the arena can accommodate some crowd.

Eddie Macey and Kid George are a pair of high-class 116-pounders who will mingle in the feature bout of the evening. This same pair met once before and Macey took the decision, a very close one at that. George is prepared to even things up a bit when he faces Macey tonight. Their last match was a pippin and it is expected that these boys will again uncork a lot of battle durinb their four-round mill, if it lasts that long.

PAPKE- CARMEN.

In the semi-wind-up Young Papke will again "tee off" with Young Carmen at catchweights. Carmen defeated Papke in their first meeting and declares that he will do it again. Papke, however, is of a different mind as to the outcome of their meeting and is prepared to redeem himself in the eyes of the fans.

Willie Hunefield will make his last stand tonight in his bout with Jimmy Kramer. Hunefield will be required to whip his man or do his future boxing in Anaheim. In Kramer, Willie goes up against a tough customer who has been cleaning up everything in sight down in Texas.

ADAMS-SILVA.

Little Johnny Adams, the San Bernardino ringman, who proved the Nemesis of that good boy, Irving Glasser, will try conclusions with Teddy Silva, the nifty featherweight.

Charlie Jones drew Johnny McManus for a bout tonight and a good match it is for both lads are considered about even in ability in the 116-pound class.

It looks like Jack Spar is going in for a rough voyage against Sailor Ashmore, the 138-pound gob off the Nashung. If Jack can weather the storm tonight, he will be a lucky lad.

A couple of new faces will be seen in the curtain-raiser, they are Chick Gorman and Jimmy Berry and they box at 122 pounds.

BAG QUAIL LIMITS IN IMPERIAL VALLEY.

Dr. A. L. Sheppard and Dr. Hugh Sheppard dropped into Tufts-Lyon yesterday afternoon and reported quail limits, which they shot in Imperial Valley. Although most of the birds have been scared out of the immediate vicinity, hunters are continually reporting good shooting farther south.

BOXER IS LOOKING AROUND FOR FIGHTS.

HOOFWARE BOYS EXCITED.

Much enthusiasm is being displayed by the hoofware merchants over the ringerfest to be staged by the California Horseshoe Pitchers' Association at Glendale on Friday and Saturday, the 25th and 26th, respectively, of this month. This is the first State tournament to be held by California and upon its success depends whether or not it will become an annual affair.

There will be three divisions for contestants: The first will be for the State championship; the second for the largest number of points and the third for the greatest number of ringers in a specified number of pitches. There will be four prizes in each of the first divisions and three in the third. The prizes will amount to several hundred dollars in all. Regulation shoes may be purchased through the club's secretary. George E. Krinbill, Long Beach; and all entry applications, containing 50 cents entrance fee, should be addressed to the same person.

COMING UP.

Lincoln, climbing stubbornly from the cellar position, has an excellent chance to humble Tipton's dark-horse Democrats, but, a comparison of scores favors Jefferson.

It remains to be seen whether Hollywood can repeat her stunt of the last two seasons and lick the league-leaders. If Fred Johnson's men do it again this year by knocking the pins out from under Manual, it will be the third time in succession that they have hopped on the apparent champions. But once more our friend the dopester comes to the front, and laughs derisively at anyone who predicts a Hollywood victory over the strong Toiler machine.

Here's the way they will face each other this afternoon:

Ralph De Palma Gives His New Ballot a Whirl.

Ralph De Palma, famed Italian speed king, had his new Ballot on the Speedway at Beverly yesterday afternoon for the first time since his return from Europe where he participated in the French and Italian Grand Prix events.

De Palma succeeded in clipping one-fifth of a second off his previous record for the Beverly course, averaging 116 miles an hour for two full laps. "It looks as though Murphy will be the man I will have to beat on Thanksgiving Day" declared DePalma last night. "Little Jimmy is the toughest fellow I ever raced against but I feel confident my Ballot can trim his Grand Prix type eight-in-a-row racer."

Murphy's best time yesterday was but a fraction of a second slower than that made by De Palma. Barney Oldfield held the watch on both pilots.

Charleston Takes Navy Ball Title.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 17.—The baseball championship of the Navy went to the cruiser Charleston today, when the team representing that ship defeated the U.S.S. Arizona nine in a well-played game here today, 7 to 3. Stein, pitching for the Charlestonians, allowed only four hits, two of them being homers.

The Arizona team, winner of baseball honors in the Atlantic Fleet, was challenged by the Charleston men, Pacific Fleet winners, when the big dreadnaught was transferred to the West Coast recently. The game was one of the big events of the year in local naval circles and was witnessed by a large crowd.

HERE TO SEE PREXY PATRICK

Jimmy McAuley, Los Angeles shortstop, arrived here yesterday from his Porterville ranch, and went on a still hunt for President Joe Patrick. It is understood that he has decided to become an early bird, and wants to discuss terms for next season.

CALTEKS FACE BULLDOGS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Nov. 17.—Coach Guy Daniels of the University of Redlands will put a leash on his Bulldogs and take them to Pasadena on Saturday for the last conference game of the season, with California Institute of Technology. The Engineers have been playing hard games all season and Daniels is looking for a tough scrap.

Frank Dine, graduate of the high school here, and well-known athlete, when he was in school here, is playing a half for the Engineers this year. Redlands is anxious to win the game, for by taking it the Bulldogs can land in second place in the conference, having lost to Whittier only so far this season.

The Sherman Indians gave the Bulldogs a good workout last Saturday. Daniels started his second-string men in the game and later put in most of the first-team men, but in new combinations. The Bulldogs could not score on the Indians, who beat Whittier early in the season by a score of 9 to 0, and Daniels said after the game that the Redmen have one of the best defensive teams he has ever seen.

Redlands has one more game on the home lot, a game with the Sub Base team here on Thanksgiving Day. It is believed that it will be a fitting finish for the annual turkey feast.

hope to recover from the terrible drubbing administered by California.

Nearly every State has its own particular big game, and in the Webfoot State it is Oregon versus O.A.C. Since the two teams began playing, back in 1894, Oregon has won fifteen games, and the Aggies have won four, while there have been five ties. Oregon has scored 266 points and O.A.C., 58. This one-sided showing has not discouraged the farmers, who come up each season determined to take a fall out of their old rivals. The Aggies have a much larger student body than has the university, and its showing against teams outside the State is better than its record against Oregon. One of the great ambitions at Corvallis is to live down the jinks that besets her players when they line up against the wearers of the lemon-yellow.

HOODOO WORKING.

To an observer it looks as though the old hoodoo was working again. The Aggies began the season full of pep and ready to clean up all comers. They looked like champions in the preliminary games and in the first conference contest, against the University of Washington. Then came the Stanford setback and their stock slumped still further with the defeat by Washington State.

Oregon's record is just the opposite. They began like novices and looked like the cellar champions of the conference until they played even up with the Cougars. Now the Oregon-O.A.C. match is regarded as anyone's game, with Oregon full of confidence, remembering that her teams always play a touchdown or two harder against the Aggies than against any other opponent.

All in all next Saturday looks like a big day at Eugene. The Oregon management is planning on an attendance of 15,000, which is a great crowd for a town the size of Eugene. It is to be homecoming day at the university and thousands of old students will journey there from Portland and other parts of the State. The Aggies, too, will have a formidable bunch of rooters in the stands. There is nothing in the dope book to tell what may happen. If Oregon should win it will be a feather in the cap of Coach Shy Huntington whose stock was pretty low early in the season, but who has transformed the Oregon team from a joke into a strong eleven.

NOT FIXED YET.

Nothing so far has come of the negotiations between the Oregon Aggies and Penn State for a December game in Portland. Instead Multnomah Club proposes to take on the contest, which the Aggies would probably like to avoid anyway, in view of their slump. The Multnomah directors have approved the plan and the game, if negotiations are closed, will be played here December 10 after Penn State has taken on Bagshaw's Sundodgers. Multnomah is undoubtedly the strongest team in the Northwest and ought to make things interesting for Bezdek's men, something that the University of Washington hardly can be expected to do.

Multnomah next Saturday will meet the Ninth Army Corps in this city. On the showing of the two teams the club ought to win handily. Multnomah is also scheduled to meet the Pacific Fleet here on December 3 and that ought to be one of the best noncollege games on the Pacific Coast this year.

TURF MAY SPOIL SCORE.

fense than California, for they specialize on defense at Yale, Harvard and Princeton, and have a special coach for each man, but there is no team out this way that is as good as California on the defensive.

Toomey and Nisbet are not only great open-field runners, but very dangerous at returning kicks and also at running the ends. They can both pass the ball and receive it and they are alert on defense. They are very dependable, and at times brilliant halfbacks.

ERB GRADUATES.

Charley Erb is a wonderful quarterback. He is spoken of as a little fellow, but for this big game Charley wants it made public that he has graduated out of the middleweight class and is now a heavyweight. He says he weighs 172 pounds and the way he shrugs off the hard knocks and hands out some of his own he must have plenty of strength.

Erb does not run with the ball but he is clever at taking forward passes. It is his generalship and has ability to keep his men keyed up and moving at top speed that makes him so valuable. Erb has an uncanny knack of spotting a weakness in the other fellow's line or formations and he takes immediate advantage of it.

He has the tools and knows how to use them. He knows that California team can do about anything there is to be done in football, and he does not hesitate. He is a natural-born field leader and he means much to the California team.

The California team is superior to any eleven on this coast in defense; in a running game, in working power plays, in general line work both on the offense and defense, in punting and covering punts, in following the ball and, in addition, has shown the best forward passing game ever seen in these parts.

Not only does California work the short-passing game, but in a pinch Brick Muller can get in there and throw a football farther and with greater accuracy than any man living. He is the Babe Ruth at that stunt.

If California ever goes up against a team which will hold it absolutely even, and there was no other way to score, Brick Muller could just about win the game himself with a couple of his long heaves. If the ball was in the middle of the field, he could do it with one throw like the one he shot at little Stephens at Pasadena.

Muller will not start the game against Stanford Saturday, but it is practically certain that he will get into the fray before it is over. Folks have heard so much about Brick that they want to see him and because of his broken leg they have not had much chance to look at him this year.

So much has been written and said about Muller's ability to throw that sight is lost of the fact that there is no man in the game who can take a pass better than big Brick. And, in addition, he plays a big league game at end in all departments.

MONEY BACK.

If Brick should get in the game and not make one of his long throws, some of the customers will think they have been cheated. Just as those who go out to see Babe Ruth make a home run feel disappointed when he fails. Not every forward pass is successful. If they were, California could win a game with five men with Muller throwing the ball. The Stanford boys are not going to stand around counting their money while California is hurling forward passes, so some of the tosses may be intercepted, but if Muller should get away one of those long bullet-like throws and it is caught, those who see it will get a real thrill. His long throw at Pasadena brought 42,000 persons up to their feet with a jerk and absolutely stunned the Ohio State players.

There is no secret about the California lineup for tomorrow. Stephens and Berkey at ends, McMillan and Barnes at tackles, Cramner and Clark at guards, Captain Latham at center, Charley Erb at the throttle of the machine, Nichols, Toomey and Nisbet in the backfield. It is a formidable aggregation with at least eleven men sitting on the bench fully capable of playing varsity football and just aching for a chance to show it.

Can Stanford beat a lineup of that kind? I think not.

Coach Andy Smith and Head Coach Gene Van Gent of California and Stanford, respectively, gave out the lineups of their teams for the big game as follows:

California.	Wt.	Pos.	Stanford	Wt.

NEWS NOTES of FLEET

Capt. Powers Symington, commanding the dreadnaught Mississippi, of the Pacific Fleet, has been detached from command in naval orders just received at Los Angeles Harbor. He has been directed to report for future assignment at the Mare Island navy yard, San Francisco.

Capt. Symington's relief will be Capt. Orton Porter Jackson, who comes to the Pacific Fleet from the Naval War College Coasters' Harbor Island, opposite Newport, R. I. Capt. Jackson is a member of the War College class of 1921, which is to be graduated next month. Previous to his assignment to study at the college, Capt. Jackson was in charge of naval recruiting in the New York district. He was appointed to the Naval Academy May 18, 1889 from Pennsylvania, and was appointed to the rank of captain in the Navy on Oct. 11, 1918. He has had a total sea service of nineteen years and five months, only nine months of which have been served since his appointment as captain. His assignment to the command of the Mississippi is the beginning of two years of additional sea service required by the Navy regulations, following a tour of duty ashore.

Advices received at Pacific fleet headquarters yesterday state that the transport Great Northern, formerly one of the fastest passenger liners on the Pacific, has become the flagship of Admiral Hilary Jones, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic Fleet. The Great Northern will be the flagship of the combined Pacific and Atlantic fleets during the proposed maneuvers at Panama in January and February, it was said by local naval officers.

The supply ship Buffalo, recently assigned to duty on the Asiatic station, has sailed for Honolulu in company with the destroyer Stribling. The latter will be attached to the destroyer force and mine squadron at Pearl Harbor.

The big naval collier Neptune, which has been a part of the supply train of the Pacific Fleet, looking after the coal needs of the three coal-burning ships of the battle forces, has been ordered to the East Coast and will sail about December 1.

The newest ship's paper to make its bow in fleet editorial circles is the Compass, a four-page weekly that tells the news of doings aboard the Connecticut, flagship of the Pacific Fleet train. Its editor is Chaplain J. B. Earnest, Jr., whose activities in athletics aboard the Connecticut is fast winning him a place with the "go-get-'em" chaplains of the battle forces. Officers and men of the Connecticut are, for the most part, new to the ship and new to each other, but they are fast getting acquainted and already the train flagship is attracting notice through the showing her boxers have made at the various fleet smokers. The sporting spirit is being developed rapidly and each department of sports has been placed in charge of one of the ship's officers. The departments and the officers in charge of each are: Football, Ensign T. S. Combs; baseball, Ensign J. N. Kelty; boxing, Lieut. H. K. Leventon; swimming, Ensign E. E. Roth; basketball, Lieut. L. Realy, United States Marine Corps; track, Ensign R. C. Greenwald.

The personnel of the official staff of Rear-Admiral Herman O. Stickney, commander of the Pacific Fleet train, consists of the following officers: Lieut.-Commander F. G. Marsh, flag secretary; Lieut. J. E. Reinburg, flag lieutenant; Lieut. E. E. Stone, flag radio officer; Commander E. T. Hoopes, fleet supply officer; Lieut. Edward Ban Pelt, assistant to flag lieutenant; Lieut. A. W. Eldred, small craft supply officer.

Lieut.-Commander J. Baer, navigating officer of the battleship Connecticut on her trip around from the East Coast, has been detached and ordered to duty as engineering officer on the dreadnaught New York.

PLAYWRIGHT HERE.

WILLARD MACK ARRIVES TO PRODUCE NEW PLAY.

By Grace Kingsley.

Looking as rosy and husky as a country youth, but clad as immaculately as ever, Willard Mack, well-known playwright, and former husband, successively, of those two distinguished actresses, Pauline Frederick and Marjorie Rambeau, has arrived in town from Alaska and Canada, where he has been sojourning since last August, writing a play.

Mr. Mack came armed both with a new play and a denial that he was going to wed again. Regarding the latter matter, he declares that he has not seen Leonora Masso, the young actress to whom he was reported as engaged, for a whole year; that his communication with her was entirely of a business nature at all times, she having rehearsed in a play of his last summer, and that, in short, he doesn't know how in heck the report ever got started.

He also denied that he was to remarry Pauline Frederick, though he admits that both of them were quite willing to do so at the time the report was started, but that for some reason Polly had changed her mind.

Mr. Mack, being an expert in former days on the subject of what the Alaskans call hootch, we asked him what he thought of prohibition.

"Well, I think that love and prohibition are the greatest things in the world," answered the playwright. "But they're both in the same boat in one respect. Neither seems to work."

Concerning his fame as a consumer of that which cheers and also inebriates, Mr. Mack declares that said fame rests on the fact that when he becomes unable to carry that which he has accumulated he doesn't sleep it off in his neighbors' hen house, as other men do, but hies him to a hospital, where he can be comfortable and start on the writing of a new play.

The writing of Mr. Mack's newest play took him to the Copper River region in Alaska, and, as may be surmised, it has to do with the Northwest Mounted Police. It is called "The Scarlet Patrol," which is to be produced here, probably at the Majestic. He went to see the Majestic company in "The Wonderful Thing" on Wednesday night, and was greatly impressed, he says, with the fine acting of the Wilkes stock players.

So much impressed was he, in fact, that he does not feel the least fear of intrusting to them the interpretation of his newest, and he feels, best play. He will direct the rehearsals in conjunction with Addison Pitt, the Majestic stage director.

While many of Mr. Mack's plays have been crook plays, he demonstrated in "Tiger Rose" his ability to write the out-door stuff. "The Scarlet Patrol" has its setting in that portion of the Northwest remotest from civilization.

His hero is a sort of composite of three sturdy young fellows in the service whom he met in the North, all of whom were patrolling in search of notorious murderers at this very minute, unless indeed, they have already captured their prey.

Sloman Independent.

Edward Sloman, who achieved a distinguishing success as the director of "The Ten-Dollar Raise" for J. R. Frothingham recently, is soon to join the company of the independents. Arrangements have been made for financing the enterprise, and he is to start work about the first of the year, if not sooner.

Mr. Sloman is completing a Jewish story, titled "The Man Who Smiled." The cast appearing in this includes Mary Wynn, who is playing her first lead in a feature production; Charles French, Harvey Clark, Eddie Sutherland, Lucille Ward, William V. Mong and Fred Malatesta.

Miss Wynn was formerly a lead in the comedies for Christie, and appeared in a small part in "The Bride of the Gods," recently directed by Mr. Sloman. It was her work in this picture that resulted in her promotion to a principal part, and she is now under contract with Frothingham.

Sounds Reasonable.

Don't know where they got it, but two of 'em were standing rather unsteadily on their feet out in front of Miller's the other night after a performance of "Dr. Caligari."

"Shay," said one to the other, "wish you'd tell me what that picshure is (hic) about?"

"Aw, shut up!" said the other. "You ain't supposed to know what (hic) it's about. It's a German picture."

Edith Roberts With Read.

It's a busy life Edith Roberts leads these days. The young star no sooner finished appearing in a Lasky feature than she was engaged to play the leading role in a new J. Parker Read production, which will be commenced within a few days at the Ince studios. The name of the story is "Pawned," and it is by Frank L. Packard, of "Miracle Man" fame.

Harry Myers Signs.

Doris May's vacationing days are over. She is shortly to start work on a new picture called "Boy Crazy" at the Robertson-Cole studios. William Seiter will direct.

In order that there may be no chance of the picture failing to be a success, no less a person than Harry Myers, featured in "A Connecticut Yankee, in King Arthur's Court," has been signed as Miss May's leading man.

Irving Cummings Hurt.

There is one actor in the Hollywood colony who does not believe in doubles, and to his present sorrow. The patient will be out in a few days, the physicians report.

Irving Cummings took his company to the Yosemite Valley to make scenes for his forthcoming Maple Leaf Special. Ruth Sinclair wrote the story, and put in several death-defying feats of horsemanship, but as the wife of the star, she being Mrs. Cummings in real life, you know, advised that a double should be substituted for her husband. But the star refused.

FLASHES FIRE OF ART.

SCHUMANN - HEINK AGAIN THRILLS AT AUDITORIUM.

By Edwin Schallert.

With her smile that quickens the fancy, with her voice that flashes the fire of beauty, and with her art that is the undying art of humanness, Mme. Schumann-Heink again conquered her listeners last night at Philharmonic Auditorium. Her victory was carried far and wide among that public which assembles to hear those whose names have long glistened as popular idols. Splendid as usual was the revelation of her art and herself that she gave to the large audience.

That all of Schumann-Heink's tones have the perfected beauty as of yore, there is reason to doubt, yet I believe she is singing remarkably this season. There has come to her voice a richness as of twilight glow a finer and more radiant color. Especially is this apparent in her mezza voce. There are moments, in fact many moments, when the quality is absolutely exquisite.

It is her ability to link this attribute of tone with an ever more vivid interpretation that gives such character to Schumann-Heink's songs—a character which transcends even the song itself, as for instance in "The Rosary," an encore. She exhibited this same idealizing style in "Have You Seen Him in France" and "Where the West Begins," and "When the Roses Bloom." These become true flowers of feeling under her magic influence.

I speak of these numbers first because they are perhaps the most popular with the audience—unless we except that vivid picturesque Bolero by Arditi, which closed the program and which was repeated.

No shackles confine Schumann-Heink's classic arias, her Schubert songs, including the famed "Erl-king." You may find these numbers deficient here and there in the perfected line, but the art of the woman and the artist shines through each contour.

Arthur Loesser proved himself an able accompanist, and gave a dramatic interpretation of the "heroic" Polonaise by Chopin, among other numbers.

An ovation was given the diva at the close of the program, to which she responded with a stirring rendition of the "Star Spangled Banner."

She will give a second program Saturday afternoon.

Gilbert's New Star Film.

Jack Gilbert, who has been playing the title role in "The Count of Monte Cristo," is to continue his starship as soon as this special feature is finished. The story in which Mr. Gilbert will appear is "In the Land of Beginning Again."

Gilbert is the only one among the list of stars recently created by the Fox Corporation, who has retained his rank with that organization.

McKim On Stage.

Robert McKim, most villainous, perhaps, of screen villians, is shortly to transfer his allegiance of evil to the stage. About ten days hence Mr. McKim will start a vaudeville tour, appearing in the sketch "The Retake" by J. A. Jackson, which was recently tried out at the California Theater. Mr. McKim will play the hard-boiled director in this playlet. Mrs. McKim and Bert Hadley are also in the cast.

Following the performances of the sketch, Mr. McKim will step out of character and therefore out of his villainies and show what a perfectly genial person he is.

Gift for Mary.

They thought that a kitchen stove or something of the sort had arrived for Mary Pickford yesterday at the Mission Theater, but it turned out to be only a fruit cake weighing sixty pounds. It was a gift to Miss Pickford from James Q. Clemmer, the Seattle theatrical manager, and made by one of the most noted fruit-cake experts of the country. The dimensions of the cake were 24x20x10 inches.

Owing to Miss Pickford's absence the cake was forwarded care of Harry David, manager of the Mission Theater, where Miss Pickford's "Little Lord Fauntleroy" is showing.

Bert Wouldn't Strike Lady.

It now develops that Bert Lytell refuses utterly to strike a lady, even on the wrist. It seems that during the making of "A Trip to Paradise," now showing at Loew's Theater, a scene called for Mr. Lytell to strike a woman on the hand, knocking a cup of coffee from her grasp. Mr. Lytell refused to do the scene, and the script was altered.

Made Her a Present.

Alarm Clock Alley is agog these days with the story of how a certain well-known Goldwyn official won $72,000 playing craps the other night. At the gaming table with him was a certain beautiful young picture star.

The official in question exclaimed: "What shall I do with this money?" At the same time he swept it into the said beautiful young star's lap.

Preview Postponed.

The preview of Finis Fox's "Man's Law and God's," scheduled for this evening, has been postponed until next week.

Crowd Hears Concert by Ellis Club.

Opening this program with Sullivan's "The Long Day Closes," sung in honor of the founder of the organization, and ending with "The Voyage of Columbus" of Dudley Buck, the Ellis Club gave the first concert of its twenty-sixth season at Philharmonic Auditorium last night before a large and exceedingly appreciative audience.

Of the lighter numbers constituting the first part of the program, especially appealing were Jungst's "The Scissors Grinder" and "At the Hacienda" by Harvey B. Gaul—a charming melody written around a poem of Bret Harte. "In the Gloaming," by Greely-Harrison, was also received with enthusiasm, despite the excessive sentimentalism of both words and music.

Notable also was Schubert's "Wanderer," sung by William F. Myers. Mr. Myers has a bass voice whose range is remarkable, and he is particularly to be congratulated on the clearness of his enunciation. It is a treat, and a rare one at that, to be able at all times to hear a singer's words.

"A Song for Heroes"—music by Mrs. M. Hennion Robinson to a poem of Edwin Markham—is simply the kind of stuff the war produced, far too much of, bombastic and rhetorical, meaning less than nothing to any one who saw the war first-hand.

In the "Ballad of the Golden Sun" and "The Voyage of Columbus," which were given by the club in conjunction with the Philharmonic Orchestra, one felt much of the time that the musicians were striving bravely to make effective something that was not quite up to the promises of its subject matter. It is easy to imagine Wagner handling such a theme as the discovery of a new world. It is not so easy to hear it handled without the pomp and heroic splendor which he would have given it, and which the situation emphatically demands.

Marguerite Is Busy.

If Marguerite de la Motte has been expecting to have any spare time in which to play marbles, she's going to be very much disappointed. Having lately finished a role in a J. L. Frothingham production, she had no sooner washed the greasepaint from her classic features than she was lent by Mr. Frothingham to Thomas H. Ince to play an important role in the production of "Gen," an original story by Bradley King, which Ince is producing.

NAME ENVOYS TO BERLIN.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Complete diplomatic and consular staffs to represent the United States in Germany were named today by the State Department. Ellis Loring Dresel, American Commissioner at Berlin, whose nomination to be Charge d'Affaires was sent to the Senate yesterday by President Harding, has been instructed to request from the German government provisional recognition as Charge d'Affaires ad interim pending arrival of his letters of credence.

Frederic R. Dolberare of Hartford, Ct., and Richard E. Pennoyer, of Berkeley, Cal., are to be made first and second secretaries, respectively, of Mr. Dresel's staff. As soon as Mr. Dresel has been formally received as Charge d'Affaires ad interim, consular officers will proceed at once to their posts, it was announced. Recognition will be requested by Mr. Dresel for the following consuls:

William Coffin, Middlesboro, Ky., Consul-General at Berlin; Lewis G. Dreyfus, Santa Barbara, Cal., at Dresden; Emil Sauer, Doss, Tex., at Cologne.

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 17.—Louis G. Dreyfus, Jr., has been in the American diplomatic service for several years. He is a graduate of Yale. In the early part of the war he was vice-consul at Berlin. When the United States entered the war he was made consul at Bucharest. For two years he has been consul at Palermo, Italy.

OAKLAND, Nov. 17.—Richard E. Pennoyer is the son of Mrs. A. A. Pennoyer of Berkeley. In 1917 he married Lady Winifred Ingestre in London. His brother, Paul Pennoyer, married Miss Frances Morgan, daughter of J. Pierpont Morgan. Pennoyer has been second secretary of the American Embassy at London.

your stomach is full," the doctor tells the fat folks. Then he explains what foods they should eat to keep happy, eliminating all those which produce fat. Some of the foods they may eat in abundance are celery, buttermilk, radishes, endive, lettuce, tomatoes, watercress, clams, whites of eggs, chicken without the skin, shad, white meat of lobster, codfish, pears, apples, grapefruit, lemons, oranges, rhubarb, lean meat and skimmed milk.

"The greatest mistake people make is in the selection of their food," Dr. Copeland contends. "The average meal is poorly balanced. This is particularly so of breakfast. Imagine wanting to get thin on a breakfast like this: cereal and cream, hot muffins with butter and honey, sausage and possibly some fruit covered with sugar. This entire meal is made up of starches and sugar, which adds flesh, and very oftens as an added offense it is washed down with tea, coffee, or cocoa saturated with sugar."

Dr. Copeland lets his squad eat fruit for breakfast, except bananas. He bars sugar, prohibits white bread, and opposes the drinking of water with meals because that makes the room and inclination for more food. Cereals are all right, he says, if a tablespoon of bran is added instead of sugar.

He recommends Swedish exercises. But if the ambitious heavy insists on his calisthenics being 100 per cent American, the United States Army setting-up exercises are just as good as any other. These can be practiced within the privacy of the home provided the home is of sound construction and the neighbors pleasant. One of Dr. Copeland's squad confided that every time she began bending and jumping there came complaints from the occupant of the apartment below.

KERN DISTRICT FIELD NORMAL.

Strike Welded Permanent Body, Says Producer.

Operators' Organization is Gaining Daily.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—Conditions in the oil fields in the Kern district, where considerable excitement prevailed for a time during the strike of the oil workers, declared off a short time ago, are virtually normal today. Such was the statement today of Arthur F. L. Bell, manager of manufacturing of the Associated Oil Company and vice-president of the California Oil Producers' Association. One outcome of the trouble, said the vice-president, was the welding of the oil producers into a permanent active body.

MEMBERSHIP GAINS.

"The Oil Producers Association was created by reason of the late strike," Bell said. "It is arranging to remain as a permanent organization with an established office so as to keep the operators in touch with each other for the benefit of the industry. The membership has increased from practically nothing until it now exceeds 200."

Further commenting upon the situation Bell said:

"There has been virtually no damage to property so far, with the exception of a few instances, and the operators feel that oil workers themselves are not in favor of any depredations and it is to be hoped that there won't be any more.

"Outside of a few rare cases the strike was conducted on the part of the men in an orderly manner which was greatly facilitated by the attitude of the operators in permitting things to rest in abeyance until the men saw the futility of further prolonging the strike."

Latent damage, so called, such as the filling of wells by sand and other injurious effects upon production of that character, may have resulted in a few instances as an indirect result of shutting down the wells, Bell further declared, but on the whole, he said, the wells have responded to the pumping with what is called flush production. In fact, on account of the oil having accumulated in the wells for a time the wells were producing more than they did before they were closed down. Within a very short period, he said, oil production will be back to normal.

NO DISCRIMINATION.

Among the results of the strike, Bell said, the American plan has been established in the fields. He said:

"We won't discriminate against the union man. On the other hand we won't allow the union man to brow beat the nonunion man to force him to join any such association by coercion."

While a large number of the old employees have returned to work, the exact percentage is not known. The vice-president said, continuing:

"The companies have taken on the men as fast as they can put them to work, with the exception of those men who were instrumental in coercing and abusing the men who stayed on the properties. The companies are naturally bound to protect every man who stayed with them."

The policy of the operators during the progress of the dispute was to do nothing that would cause any undue hardship to the men, according to Bell, who further declared

"We knew we had a right to go on and operate our properties and could have forced the issue in that way, but there is no doubt that if we did, on account of the way the men had been worked up, bloodshed would have ensued, which was about the last thing anybody wanted."

YREKA WOMAN FOUND INSANE.

Accused Murderess of Husband; Murder Trial is Suspended.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

The trial of the woman for murder was suspended yesterday on motion of Dist.-Atty. Allen, who asked that a jury be impaneled to try her for her sanity.

COST AND PRICE DATA IS NEEDED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

ATLANTIC CITY, Nov. 17.—Provision for government dissemination of cost and price data relating to the basic producing industries of the nation is the "only alternative to the licensing of nationalization" of those industries, Huston Thompson, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, declared in an address today before the American Specialty Manufacturers Association.

WOULD LIMIT SUBMARINES.

Admiral Fiske Gives Views on Undersea Craft.

Principal Function is for Coast Defense.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Approval of the further size limitation or even the elimination of submarines was expressed today by Rear-Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, retired, one of the highest naval authorities in the United States, and an influential member of the advisory committee to the American delegation in the Conference on Armament Limitation.

In the view of Admiral Fiske, whose opinions are regarded as authoritative in naval circles everywhere, the principle function of the submarine is coast defense and for even this purpose aircraft are more effective. Submarines have never been used to conspicuous advantage as an offensive weapon against enemy warships and though they could be of service in operating with a battle fleet, their serviceability would not, in his judgment, justify a fight for their retention for this purpose against a movement to rule out fleet submarines of wide cruising radius.

CERTAIN OF DESTRUCTION.

Even on the surface a submarine cannot keep up with cruisers or battleships and submerged they move so slowly that the difficulty of maneuvering them with a fleet would be extreme. There is also practicable certainty of destruction as soon as the presence of the submarine is detected by the enemy.

As a mine layer along enemy coasts or in the high seas, the ocean-going submarine has high value, but no higher than aircraft, which can perform this operation with equal success. Against the admitted usefulness of the big submarine as a mine layer, there is balanced the danger of its misuse against commercial and passenger vessels, which roused the horror of the civilized world against Germany.

Legitimately used against such vessels, the submarine is not as effective as a surface vessel which can take off and care for passengers and transport captured stores. Illegitimately used, without warning, without visit and search, and with entire disregard for life and property of civilians and neutrals, the submarine is highly effective, but it is also in effect a pirate and an outlaw, according to the rules of civilized warfare.

COULD ELIMINATE THEM.

In the judgment of Admiral Fiske, the United States could view with entire serenity the elimination of the submarine if other nations consent to give them up, but if it be retained at all no good purpose would be served by standing out for a larger submarine than is required for coast defense. In the case of the United States, submarines for this purpose should be able to patrol the coast from California to Washington and from Maine to Florida. With such submarines the United States, with an adequate equipment of aircraft, could successfully defend the Philippines from attack by any power in the judgment of this naval officer.

If, however, the Philippines should be taken by Japan for instance, the United States could never retake them, whatever the composition of our fleet.

Similarly, though useful for coast defense, the United States, if sufficiently strong in the air, would not need the submarine to insure the security of her coast line.

Without going into the tactics of the proposition the member of the advisory committee, who is also a member of the administration, said today that any limitation which might reduce the size or use of submarines, or even eliminate them entirely, would be in line with the purpose of the United States in calling the international conference.

INDORSE PLANS FOR NAVAL CUT.

Chamber of Commerce of United States Voice Gratification.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ASHEVILLE (N. C.) Nov. 17.—Proposals for armament reduction presented by the American government and favorably received by representatives of foreign countries at the Armament Conference were declared matters of deep gratification by directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States today at their closing session.

They adopted resolutions expressing the hope that through the conference plans will be agreed on "which will not only reduce the great burdens the people now bear in supporting armies and navies, but will result in the substitution of arbitration and law in the settlement of disputes between nations and removal of the menace of war with its attendant evil and suffering."

KATO WILL REFER CLAIMS TO TOKIO.

JAPANESE TO SEEK VIEWS OF ELDER STATESMEN ON CHINESE PROPOSALS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Admiral Baron Kato, on behalf of the Japanese delegation to the Washington conference, today asked and received from the heads of the delegations of the nine participating powers a delay of several days to allow examination of the Far Eastern proposals submitted yesterday by China.

It is understood an important reason why Japan was asked more time to study the Chinese document is that the plenipotentiaries here are actively engaged in communication with Tokio. It is almost certain in the opinion of Japanese here, that the vital matters raised in the Chinese proposals will be subject to serious deliberation by such Japanese institutions as the Genro, or elder statesmen, and the Privy Council, as well as the Cabinet. On such a program, also, it is believed probable that the leaders of the naval and army groups would desire an opportunity to express their views.

DEMAND RIGHT OF INSPECTION.

World Must Have No Secrets in Navy Yards.

United States Willing to Show Everything.

Attaches Functioning as Examiners Suggested.

BY HENRY WALES.
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Right of inspection of British and Japanese naval shipyards and factories producing naval armament and accessories is what the United States will demand in drafting the detail agreement from the 5-5-3 plan.

America will throw open her navy yards, naval arsenals and naval manufacturing plants, baring all her secrets, to Japanese and British investigators, if they will consent to extend the same facilities to United States naval officers delegated to the task of supervision.

AFFECTS SOVEREIGNTY.

Although this problem seriously affects the sovereignty of the three powers concerned by permitting foreign officials to pry into the most private and intimate affairs of national defense, American expert opinion insists that inspection of the observance of the "naval holiday" is vitally important, forming the crux of the 5-5-3 pact.

Grave doubts are being expressed as to whether the Admiralty in London or the Ministry of Marine in Tokio will consent to be ready to reveal their hidden mysteries at the beck and call of an officer in the uniform of the United States Navy whenever he appears and asks enlightenment.

"Without mutual inspection, the 5-5-3 proposal either becomes scrapped itself or the United States is exposed to the most dangerous menace that has beset her yet," said an American naval officer in discussing the matter.

FRANKNESS NECESSARY.

"The United States has never masked her intentions nor camouflaged her policies. American newspapers have followed our naval and military plans and programs, exposing them to the world with accuracy and detail. Secretary of State Hughes has placed his hand face up on the table, and we are entitled to the same frankness and fair treatment from other powers."

Naval control committees representing the two other contracting governments should be placed in each of the three capitals, it is proposed. Such a committee would add only a few officers and officials to the naval attaches staff and would not incur any serious additional expenses.

FUNCTION AS EXAMINERS.

"The naval control investigators should function as bank examiners in America," it was suggested. "They should have access to the navy departments of the governments to which they were accredited and should be granted access to all navy yards, factories and other plants where material directly and indirectly connected with warship construction and operation is made.

"The investigators should include experts in the various lines, so that for instance, one could walk through a motor factory and tell at a glance whether airplane or automobile motors, or submarine engines were being manufactured. In visiting ordnance works, the investigators should be able to discern between naval guns and land artillery, and in steel works should be able to recognize armor plate."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 17.—The State Board of Education today adopted the McMurry-Parkins advanced geography, Parts 1 and 2, as the standard for the seventh and eighth grades in California. Further publication of the present text-book known as the Tarr-McMurry series was ordered to cease.

The board also passed a resolution recommending to State and county boards of education the prescription of geographical readers in distinction from the first book in geography for grades 4, 5 and 6.

It was decided that the high school principals' convention would be held at Pasadena during the week beginning April 10, with headquarters at the Hotel Green.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The Democratic attack on the proposal to declare Truman H. Newberry duly elected Senator from Michigan in the contest launched by Henry Ford, his opponent in the 1918 election, was opened in the Senate today by Senator Pomerene of Ohio, ranking Democrat on the Privileges and Elections Committee.

He assailed Republican methods and Republican Senators, declaring they planned to deny the Ford claims by political rather than judicial decision.

DISAGREE ON SUBMARINES.

Great Britain Would Limit Tonnage, but Views of American Experts Remain Unchanged.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Great Britain's antipathy to submarines as a naval weapon still loomed today as the outstanding point of disagreement between British and American points of view concerning restricted navies. The submarine question is being stressed in unofficial discussion and views of the two powers are so far apart that it seems likely extended consideration must be given before agreement is reached.

In the British view, submarines should be abolished as an improper naval weapon.

ARE LEGITIMATE WEAPON.

In the American view submarines properly used are as legitimate a naval weapon as battleships. No British argument yet presented has shaken that conviction as far as can be told.

The British delegation apparently does not expect an agreement to abandon submarines. There is nothing to indicate it has presented or will present any such proposal in a formal way. Failing that, however, the British will advance a project to limit the United States and Great Britain to probably 45,000 tons in submarines instead of the 90,000 tons each proposed by the United States. Coupled with the proposal will be a formal suggestion to limit the size of individual submarines, perhaps to 250 tons. The American viewpoint rejects both these suggestions.

STUDY AMERICAN NEEDS.

The 90,000-ton aggregate limitation proposed by the American delegation was derived from a study of American needs of the more than 40,000 nautical miles of coast line to be protected and of the need of the fleet in underwater craft. That being the figure arrived at as necessary for defensive purposes and to round out the fleet, it was agreeable to the United States that Great Britain should keep the same tonnage.

American naval officers disagree with the suggestion of the British that there is any inherent characteristic in submarines that makes them unamenable to the rules of civilized warfare. It is also pointed out that the United States threshed out that question with Germany before German disregard of the American view that submarines could be controlled brought this country into the war. A battleship or cruiser could be guilty of just as grave violations of the requirements of humanity, it is argued, and the fact that submersibles have a quality of limited visibility does not deny them a place in legitimate warfare.

It appears probable that American efforts will tend toward putting the question of use of the submarines over to the discussion of new agencies of war provided for in the conference agenda.

MYSTERY BACK OF JAP PLANS.

fensive ship for which Japan desires an allowance of tonnage closely approaching that of England or America, it is apparent that she contemplates building a considerably larger aggregate tonnage.

DEVELOP AERIAL WARFARE.

In some quarters it is suggested that Japan may have in mind the development of aerial warfare at sea in the future and is bent upon obtaining an allowance of airplane carriers closely approximating that of the other naval powers. Under the Hughes plan, Great Britain and the United States would have 80,000 tons of airplane carriers each, and Japan 48,000.

Among the British and French naval experts, however, it was assumed that Japan is really aiming at a large allowance of light cruisers.

"Why does Japan need more defensive cruisers if there are to be no more offensive craft?" asked a member of the French delegation tonight, commenting on Baron Kato's proposal. "Asking for more defensive craft to protect one against nonexistent offensive ships is like putting up mosquito netting in the winter in a country where there are no mosquitos."

BRITISH CHANGE ATTITUDE.

The repudiation by the British delegation of the proposal to permit the building of one ship a year instead of suspending construction entirely for ten years followed forty-eight hours' of attack on the suggestion not only in this country, but in England.

The one-ship-a-year plan was broached by an authorized spokesman for the British delegation a few days ago, and backed up with elaborate argument to the effect that if building was suspended entirely there would be no shipyard facilities at the end of the decade for the construction of replacements.

One of the members of the British delegation tonight sought to put the quietus on this version of the British attitude which had been bitterly assailed by the Liberals in England as a death blow aimed at President Harding's proposed naval holiday. He asserted that no such proposal had been made by the British delegation and added:

"Building a capital ship a year would be a complete repudiation of the American proposals."

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION.

It is reported that there is a marked difference of opinion among the British delegates on this question. One faction favors a modification of the Hughes plan to permit the construction of one capital ship a year, while the other faction, which is said to include Mr. Balfour, has counseled against broaching any proposal that would make the naval holiday "only a half holiday."

The British official who repudiated the previously announced attitude as to one ship a year went on to say, however, that there is an extremely serious problem to be solved in connection with the provisions for replacements. If armor plate plants and shipyards capable of turning out battleships are to be allowed to go out of existence for lack of business during the holiday, it will cost so much to revive facilities for replacements at the end of the ten years and to train artisans that much of the saving effected by the holiday would be sacrificed.

KATO PUTS KIBOSH ON REPORTERS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Japanese newspaper correspondents—of whom there is a small army here—planned a mass meeting tonight which was to have resulted in a round robin to Admiral Baron Kato, head of the Japanese delegation, expressing their opinion that Japan should subscribe to the American proposals for naval limitation without the reservations forecast.

All proceeded serenely until Admiral Kato heard about it. Then the Japanese correspondents received summons to appear at his headquarters.

No American reporters were invited and, inasmuch as Admiral Kato spoke in Japanese, the version of what he said is necessarily second hand. It it understood, however, that he told the journalists with some emphasis, that the Japanese government, rather than the newspapers, would determine the course to be pursued, and he outlined with lucidity how he would regard any such action as the correspondents proposed.

There was no mass meeting and the robin failed to round out.

DISAGREE ON EFFECT OF HUGHES PROGRAM.

NAVAL ARCHITECTS' CONFERENCE DEVELOPS DIFFERENCES OF OPINIONS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Varying views as to the actual degree of armament limitation that would be brought about by Secretary Hughes's program for a naval holiday and scrapping of battleships conference developed by naval experts at the opening session of the convention of the Society of Naval Architects and Engineers today.

M. S. Chase, naval architect of Boston, presented a paper in which he concluded that the airplane, rather than the capital ship, would be the supreme naval weapon of the future.

Rear-Admiral W. D. Rogers, U.S.N., presented the view that the battleship would continue "the most potent embodiment of combat strength," and that aircraft and submarine would remain mere auxiliary craft.

Rear-Admiral W. L. Capps, U.S.N., retired, predicted that the Hughes program, if adopted, would have a serious effect on the shipbuilding industry of the country generally.

LIMITATION ON EATS PRESSING PROBLEM.

ARMAMENT DELEGATES ARE SUFFERING FROM TOO MUCH ENTERTAINMENT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Armament delegates and the many dignitaries and subdignitaries which accompany them are beginning to show the effects of the grind. Not the grind of work, although that is enough, but the grind of the continuous performance of luncheons, dinners, receptions and late suppers.

Many prominent international digestions have already begun to call for "a holiday." Many snappy and close-fitting uniforms are getting closer and less snappy. The telephone girls who jingle the bells and warble "good morning" say the responses are becoming less diplomatic.

It all means that the conference is working full hours and playing overtime, and it begins to look as though there might have to be a limitation of entertainment with some sort of a replacement program to be agreed upon later.

SAYS FEMINISM IS ROBBING HOMES.

MINISTER DECLARES HAND THAT ROCKS CRADLE ALSO SHAKES FAMILY BOAT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DETROIT, Nov. 17.—A challenge to the church to assume the leadership in the home and in various phases of public life was sounded by speakers today at the national conference of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Declaring that the American home is disintegrating under influences of the new feminism, Rev. F. W. Adams, of Springfield, Mass., made a plea for changes in American home life.

"The new feminism," he said, "is drawing that best of our womanhood from marriage and motherhood, while loose ideals on the permanence of marriage are being imported by Russian barefoot dancers.

"The hand that stops rocking the cradle begins to rock the boat of our family life."

JAP OBJECTS TO CHINESE CLAIMS.

Opposition Leader Thinks Plan is Hughes's Idea.

America Has Not Recognized Independence.

Says Nippon Will Not Give Up in Manchuria.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Kotaro Mochiseuki, the leader of the opposition party in the Japanese House of Representatives on diplomatic matters, who is in Washington as an observer for his party, in an interview today asked the question why the United States had not herself submitted proposals to the conference yesterday, instead of China. He believed that in view of the fact that the United States had invited the powers to assemble for a discussion of Far Eastern questions, the American government and not the Chinese, as a matter of formality, should have taken the initiative in suggesting a program for a solution of the Chinese problem.

Mr. Mochiseuki expressed the opinion that the Chinese delegation either had a tacit understanding with Secretary Hughes, or that Secretary Hughes had inspired the document. If either were the case, he said, the Chinese delegation by presenting the proposals had merely sought to make themselves famous in China.

REGARDED AS EXPERT.

Mr. Mochiseuki is regarded as an expert on Chinese affairs and although of the opposition party may be expressing the views of a substantial portion of the Japanese people.

Speaking on China's proposal that the powers engage to respect and observe the territorial integrity and political and administrative independence of the Chinese republic, he charged that in the strict sense this term had not been recognized by the United States, as witness, he said, her extraterritorial jurisdiction at Shanghai and her maintenance of soldiers at Peking and Tientsin. Japan, he said, was ready to adhere to the open door, but China also must recognize it, lift the ban on the exportation of rice so necessary to the Japanese people and allow freedom of residence and business in the interior.

HITS AT ENTENTES.

The Japanese opposition leader asserted that the Chinese proposal with respect to conclusion of agreements directly hit the Franco-Japanese, Russo-Japanese and American-Japanese ententes as well as the Japanese alliance and insisted that agreements like these were made because China was not capable of maintaining her own integrity and was unable to protect foreign life and property.

"Can China now give such a pledge?" he asked.

OLES ELECTION IS CONTESTED.

Defeated Youngstown Mayor Outlines Charges.

Says Winner Violated Ohio Corrupt Practices Law.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

YOUNGSTOWN (O.) Nov. 17.—That contest will be made of the election here last week of George L. Oles as Mayor of Youngstown on the ground that Oles violated the corrupt practices law of Ohio when he promised during his campaign to give his salary to the community corporation, was declared here today by Mayor Warnock, whom Oles defeated for re-election by 487 votes.

Warnock, in his statement, says: "I do not deem it proper for me to make a contest of this election personally nor, in my opinion, would I benefit personally by it, as I believe it would be for the Governor to appoint some one to fill the office."

CHARGES OUTLINED.

The statement, however, outlines at length charges which it indicates might be made against the newly elected Mayor.

"Mr. Oles first announced," it says, "he would not accept any salary from the city until it was out of debt, clearly meaning he would not draw any salary during this term of office. Later on in his campaign Mr. Oles advised the public through newspaper columns and in his speeches as well, that he would give his entire salary to the community chest. The evening before election day he again advised the public he would give his entire salary to the poor of the city when he knew the city was obligated by law to take care of its poor. All this meant Mr. Oles promised the voters of Youngstown to relieve them of paying part of their taxes.

"This has been construed by courts to mean he made a direct promise and induced to voters to vote for him for Mayor. I could not afford to make a like promise to the voters. I became candidate for Mayor more than two years ago and ran for a second term with the full faith of the statutes of this State which permit rich and poor alike to become candidates on equal terms and by which the rich are prohibited from buying offices directly or indirectly."

PRECEDENT QUOTED.

Mayor Warnock's statement quotes extensively from a case in which it was decided a promise by Prentiss V. Dittmar, who had received the highest number of votes for common pleas judge of Henry county, not to draw the portion of his salary paid by the county was illegal. There also is a question as to whether Oles established legal residence in Youngstown, it is held by the statement.

In an interview at Miami, Fla., and published here today, Mayor-elect Oles said:

CALLS HIM WELSHER.

"Tell my friends in Youngstown not to worry about anything Fred J. Warnock may say or politicians may do. The world hates a welsher. I am not accusing Warnock of being one, but I am accusing him of being the victim of the worst advice it has been the bad fortune of any man in public office in recent years to receive.

"Those people who are using high-handed methods in scorning the will of the voters do so at their political peril. I am not a politician and do not expect to become one. That is why I was elected. But if these highbinders imagine for a moment that decent people of Youngstown will tolerate highway robbery by a lot of disgruntled politicians they are due for an awakening they will never forget."

The Union League Club of Youngstown, a Republican organization, at a meeting today voted not to contest Oles's election and to have nothing to do with such a movement. Those contemplating bringing the contest are said to include both Republicans and Democrats. Their names, however, were not disclosed.

PROPOSED PHILIPPINE BILL TO FORCE MALE IMMIGRANT TO BRING WOMAN.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

MANILA (P. I.) Sept. 25.—An immigration bill which imposes a condition that each male immigrant into the Philippine Islands shall be accompanied by at least one woman between the ages of 18 and 35, is being prepared by Senator Pedro Guevara of Manila, for introduction in the Legislature which meets the middle of October.

The purpose of the bill, according to the author, "is to increase the population of the Philippine Islands by at least 50,000,000 as rapidly as possible, in order to make the island withstand, both physically and intellectually, the race for human supremacy."

The bill would require an immigrant to become a citizen of the Philippines after having been a resident here four years.

MAN WHO FOUGHT WAY FROM UTAH PRISON HELD IN NEW MEXICO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 17.—Oscar Blaney, who escaped from the Utah State prison September 14, was recaptured at Albuquerque, N. M., today, according to a message received by Sheriff Emery.

Blaney was serving an indeterminate sentence for a robbery which culminated in a duel with an accomplice, Tom Burns, and the police. Burns, who was shot by Chief of Police Burbidge, shot and killed Detective Green Hamby before he died.

Blaney escaped from the prison with Ed Harris, bank robber, who is still at large. The couple, with three other convicts, overpowered two guards. Guards at the tower of the prison grounds shot at them, deterring the other three convicts from climbing over the wall to freedom. The three were found in an abandoned machine shop in the prison three days later.

Blaney is said to have had the pistols taken from the guards when he was apprehended at Albuquerque.

Tested by Time

TIME puts a terrific test on the pipe that carries the sewage of a city. Alkalies and other corrosive chemicals in the soil attack the pipe from the outside. Acids, acid gases and other destructive fluids and vapors resulting both from chemical and bacteriological action in the sewage—storm it relentlessly from the inside. To withstand these powerful, unceasing forces requires a pipe of exceptional stamina.

Pacific Vitrified Clay Sewer Pipe Is Exceptional Pipe

The inexorable test of time has proved that it will stand up and endure, where pipe made of less permanent material soon breaks down and crumbles away.

That's because the smooth, glazed surface of vitrified clay is absolutely impervious to all of the destructive agents in soil and sewage.

DAILY TRADE TALK.

Los Angeles Jobber Says Conditions Are Made to Order; Hankies Start Holiday Buying.

M. G. Cooper, president of the Cooper, Coate & Casey Dry Goods Company, is perhaps one of the best qualified men in Southern California to judge general trade conditions on the Pacific Slope. Salesmen representing his concern cover the entire territory, and are able to bring him confidential reports on the buying power of the various districts visited by them. His company is in close touch with the general retail dealers in Californa, Oregon, Washington, Nevada and New Mexico.

Basing his statement on these far-flung, inside sources, Mr. Cooper said yesterday that trade conditions throughout the entire territory are excellent. "If there has been a groan anywhere, we have not heard it," said Mr. Cooper. "Some localities may seem slightly better than others, but all are good."

That the retail business in this territory seems to be thoroughly liquidated now, is Mr. Cooper's opinion. "One of the principal reasons for the Coast's prompt and healthy recovery from inflated war and post-war conditions was the quick realization that deflation of merchandise values was the only way to put business right." The readiness of western retailers and jobbers to accept inventory losses in marking down high priced goods to meet the deflated price levels furnishes a distinct contrast to the hesitancy of eastern merchandise establishments to fall in line with the lowering prices. The West took the lead in the liquidation movement and retail prices here have not lagged behind the general trend as they have in many sections of the country. This willingness of both retail men and distributors to meet the price situation fairly and squarely during the liquidation period has been the biggest factor in the Coast's early recovery.

"I regard it as an impossibility that this wonderful territory, growing and building as it is, can be under a cloud for any length of time," said Mr. Cooper. "Our sales continue to show a healthy betterment. Comparison of this year's figures with those of 1920 or of any other year prove this. Collections are fine. If I had the making of conditions myself, I could not improve upon them."

Retail stores in Los Angeles are beginning to feel the effects of holiday shopping, according to Arthur Strassburger, merchandise manager of the Broadway Department Store. Sales of the toy departments are beginning to swell, and the handkerchief departments, which form one of the surest indicators of the approach of holiday business, are doing an increased business. The universality of the handkerchief as a gift is one of the interesting facts that a study of the sales sheet of a large department store reveals. The facts that they are a general requirement and that no difficulties of getting a correct fit are incurred, make them a favorite gift commodity among holiday shoppers. Whenever handkerchief sales start to boom, department store men know that the holiday season is under way.

"General sales continue to hold up above the 1920 totals and are showing the usual seasonal improvement that is expected at this time of the year," said Mr. Strassburger. Department store buyers are beginning to meet with some scarcity in cotton goods. The stores are replenishing their stocks for the spring trade and the cotton mills are not keeping up a production at the present time that is equal to the demand.

VEGETABLE SITUATION.

A small margin, uncertainty of tenancy, and over-competition in buying are principal difficulties that beset the Southern California vegetable shipper this year, according to an article published in the California Produce News. The combination of these three form such a serious encroachment on the shipper's profits that the industry is faced this year with the gloomiest prospects it has ever known, according to the News:

"Never before in the history of the California vegetable industry have shippers had to work under such a close margin as now. Logically, a change must come soon—otherwise those who have a limited capacity, limited capital, or a limited outlet will be forced to call a half. Growers are receiving today so near the actual selling price with the closest allowance for cost of grading, packing and loading that there is nothing left for the packer with which to first meet his fixed "overhead," and after that to show a fair interest upon his money. As one packer puts it, "the deal is simply one of working upon a feather's edge all the time so that one or two stiff losses are likely to sweep the small packer out of the running."

The rapid increase in the number of cars of vegetables shipped every month from Southern California shows a phenomenal growth. Where there was formerly an off season in the vegetable business, there is no such period now from one end of the year to the other. Nevertheless, it is said that this increased volume in business has failed to decrease overhead expenses of the shippers.

This is because rentals of packing sheds have in practically every case doubled and for some shippers have quadrupled during the past two years. The railroads, which own the lands upon which the packing sheds are built, refuse to extend the leases beyond a month or at best, a season, claiming that their present financial situation forces them to take every advantage of an increase in rentals and that they cannot be hampered by long leases. "The railroad policy now is to utilize every old shed and platform in preference to new construction," says the article.

"Just about the time the average packer thinks himself settled so that he has a fair idea of what he can and cannot do he finds he has to get new quarters. The new location may not only be inconvenient but not until it has been used for a season are the leaks discovered in the way of extra costs. Thus the deal is haphazard even at its best."

INSURANCE COMMITTEES.

Subcommittees for 1921-1922 have been appointed by Hugo Burgwald, president of the Los Angeles Fire Insurance Exchange. The Chamber of Commerce, harbor, Board of Education, city and county committees have been appointed to confer with those respective bodies and assist them in their insurance problems. The publicity committee is a newly organized body which will take up certain lines of insurance educational work, informing the public on insurance matters.

Members of the committees are: Brokerage, R. G. Hillman, chairman, Baldwin Starr, Matt T. Mancha, William Menn, John Garner, Jr.; harbor, Harry Johansing, chairman; Arthur Bond, G. R. Doolittle; Chamber of Commerce, J. L. Van Norman, chairman, Karl C. Klokke, P. J. McGarry; entertainment, R. G. Hillman, Jr., chairman, Thomas M. Bridges, Ernest Crawford, C. Q. Brady, E. Brown; agency and conference, D. W. Pierce, chairman, Harry Lee Martin, Leo Clairemont, E. J. Gruettner, Fred Siegel; county, Alex MacKeigan, chairman, J. St. Paul White, J. F. McGarry; Board of Education, C. T. Manwaring, chairman, O. Rey Rule, W. P. Battelle; city, Louis F. Vetter, chairman, P. J. McGarry, C. K. Miles; publicity, J. H. Morrow, chairman, Vernon C. Gogy, I. O. Levy.

A STAFF CHANGE.

L. A. Henry, formerly with Frank & Lewis, is now associated with McDonnell & Co., according to an announcement made yesterday by Alvin H. Frank, manager of the latter concern.

FORUM DINNER.

The Los Angeles chapter American Institute of Banking will give a forum dinner at the City Club, beginning at 6 o'clock this evening. Branch Banking is to be opened for discussion by Prof. Oliver J. Marston, dean of the college of commerce of the University of Southern California and an effort will be made to get the other fellow's viewpoint. Judge Channing Follette is to be chairman of the meeting.

CHEAPER MEAT.

Indications are excellent for a decided reduction soon in the price of meat to Los Angeles consumers. Dealers in this city assert that they are well equipped to give a royal battle to the packers should the latter undertake to establish markets of their own, and in the event of the issue being joined the retailers promise to buy direct from the producer and do their own slaughtering.

COPPER MARKET.

The demand for copper is gaining slowly but steadily and there are indications of a stiffening price. While copper is obtainable at 13 3-8 cents there is a reluctance to sell at that price and some are asking 13½ cents for this year's deliveries. Foreign demand is somewhat less insistent than earlier in the week, but the copper situation may be summarized as hopeful.

VICTORIES RETIRED.

During October Victory notes to the value of $63,820,200 were retired, according to a Dow Jones report, while from July 1 to October 31 the total volume retired was $268,645,650.

FREIGHT RATES.

The most frequent excuse advanced for high prices complained of by the consumer is that of excessive freight rates. These rates are high enough in all conscience, but there is a tendency on the part of some jobbers to take a running jump at the amount, and in most cases this jump is high. A local house which maintains an elaborate system of freight schedules has prepared a statement covering various items of dry goods which shows an average transportation cost of around 7 per cent.

SOUTH AFRICAN ORANGES.

Southern California orange growers are interested in an item in the Market Reporter, a publication of the United States Department of Agriculture which says that the production of oranges in South Africa has shown a large increase and the future seems promising provided more attention is given to the cultivation of the orange and its preparation for market. The climate is said to be ideal, and it has been demonstrated that the fruit produced is appreciated in European markets.

The exports from Cape Town for the present season are expected to exceed 250,000 boxes. It is claimed that 500,000 boxes could have been exported if shipping space had been available.

Practically all of the citrus fruit shipped from South Africa of late has gone to England as its entry into the United States was prohibited on account of the citrus canker. It is reported that this disease has now been practically eliminated.

South African citrus fruit growers feel that there is a good market in the United States during the off season since fresh fruit from that country can be landed in the United States when ripe oranges ought to sell at a price favorable to the growers.

BETTER FEELING.

The better feeling which manifested itself in the stock market early in the week persists and yesterday there was another average increase in the price of both industrials and rails of 1.33 for the former and .83 per cent for the latter. Both stocks and bonds are stronger, a condition which is peculiarly interesting because, as a matter of fact, they seldom go hand in hand. More often the movements are at variance. The public is also becoming more interested in the market, and tips are again in generous circulation after a long period during which the professional traders have had things pretty much their own way.

COST OF STRIKES.

Department of Labor records show that in the first half of 1921 the loss in wages alone from strikes and lockouts was $1,179,000,000 while the total loss for the year will foot up around $2,400,000,000 or enough to keep 2,000,000 men at work for a year at wages close to $100 a month. The wage loss is, of course, only a small part of the total which includes that to employers which is estimated at three times the loss to the workers, while the nonproduction which results from the strike is almost past computation.

SAFEGUARDING HONESTY.

A couple of swindlers, pretty well known to the financial district, were discussing the blue sky laws enacted by several States in the last few years. One of the pair had just returned from a long trip up the river, but the other had been doing business all along at the old stand.

"I should think," said the one who had recently regained his freedom, "that these blue sky laws would finish the old graft."

"That's where you're wrong," replied the other. "Those blue sky laws have been the making of the old graft. They help in two ways. In the first place, they put the suckers off their guard. Before these laws were passed, the suckers were suspicious. Now they realize that swindles are things of the past.

"In the second place, they reduce competition by scaring amateurs out of the business. The professionals have now got the field to themselves.

"Yes," the speaker continued after a pause, "I'm strong for the blue sky laws. They've kept many an honest guy from grafting."—[Wall Street Journal.

LOS ANGELES STOCKS.

Considerable strength was evident on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday. Fractional gains were registered by several of the more conservative industrial shares. Southern California Edison Company, common, advanced one-fourth of a point to a closing bid of 94¼. Goodyear, preferred, sold steadily at 64, a two-point advance over Wednesday's price. General Petroleum continued to move at 96, around which it has been hovering for the past week. The Union issues suffered slight losses, California dropping one-eighth of a point, and Delaware three-eighths. The bulk of the trading was confined to the mining issues which displayed an irregular tendency. United Eastern opened at 2.32½ and closed at 2.36, the high point for the day. Tom Reed opened strong at 38 and closed at 40, a net gain of 4½ cents. United Western advanced two points, going to 7 at the close. Virginia Louise was unchanged at 9 at the close after selling as high as 9½ earlier in the afternoon.

MARKET SHOWS REACTION.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The vigorous advance of the preceding day was not continued today in any important market. In all of them—stocks, bonds, foreign exchange, grain and cotton—a general though only moderate reaction, occurred.

Our own reserve system's ratio of cash holdings to deposits and circulation went still higher, the statement shows a still smaller increase of gold reserves than that of other recent weeks, but also reported the large reduction of $148,000,000 in rediscounts and a $22,000,000 further decrease in outstanding notes. This currency is now at the lowest total since September, 1918, and has been cut down practically 30 per cent from the high mark of last December.

PRICE MOVE UNCERTAIN.

The decrease in the system's loan account doubtless reflects the traditionally large "November settlements." Prices moved uncertainly on the stock exchange today, advances running to one or two points alternated with declines of the same scope, the last prices being as a rule below the best and the day's business smaller than that of either Wednesday or Tuesday. Railway shares made virtually no response to Wednesday's late announcement of the companies' assent to a 10 per cent increase in rates on farm products; its continuance being implicitly conditional on further revision of wages. In the grain and cotton markets also today's movement consisted of moderate reaction from the previous day's advance.

RESERVE RATIO HIGHER.

The Bank of England's statement showed ratio of gold reserve to deposits of 18 3-8 per cent, to which it had risen from 13 1-8 in the last week of October. Wartime "currency notes" have been cut down nearly 16 per cent from last December's maximum.

Autumn is the traditional period for expansion of bank note circulation; the French paper currency reached its maximum last November. Therefore, the reduction of 657,000,000 francs in the French bank circulation, during the last week, is an even more notable achievement. This large retirement of paper issues, which resulted directly from the week's repayment of 500,000,000 francs of its debt to the bank by the French Treasury, brings the outstanding notes to the lowest figure of the year and the lowest since October, 1919.

In 1921 you have the same opportunity—an opportunity that comes once in a lifetime and does not stay long. That it may be passing even now is shown by the steady rise of bond prices in the last few months.

Investment Questions

QUESTION—What taxes do Califonia stockholders have to pay on California public utility stocks?

Answer—A stock certificate is the evidence of the interest of the stockholder in the business and property of the corporation that issues the certificate. The corporation pays taxes on its property. Therefore a tax on its stock (which merely represents the stockholders' interest in that same property) would constitute "double taxation," i.e., taxation on something already taxed. For this reason, no tax is leviable on stock certificates either by the State of California or by the United States. The corporation itself pays an income tax and hence no normal income tax is imposed on the stockholders' dividends. However, if the individual stockholder's total net income exceeds $5000 per year, he is obliged to pay the Federal surtax on the excess.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Railroad shares were the most stable features in the further irregular advance of stock prices today, the proposed 10 per cent cut in freight rates on agricultural products stimulating a demand for those issues. A resumption of dividends on Hocking Valley, which is controlled by Chesapeake and Ohio, and belief that the latter soon will resume disbursement to shareholders also were primary factors in the general strength of the coal division.

Among industrials specific instances of strength embraced Pullman and Haskell Parker, whose merger is regarded as imminent; also several allied equipments, independent steels and minor motors and accessories.

New York Airbrake was heavy on the omission of its dividend, adding substantially to yesterday's reversal, and Industrial Alcohol was depressed as a result of rumors dealing with its dividend prospects, but rallied briskly before the close.

Oils followed their usual uncertain course, recording mixed changes at the finish, but chemicals, fertilizers, coppers and shippings were in better demand, metals being especially responsive to favorable trade prospects. Sales, 875,000 shares.

Call money ruled at 4½ per cent and foreign exchanges were featureless.

The bond market was strong and broad, especially for rails and utilities. Liberty and other war flotations were active at moderate advances, foreign issues also improving. Total sales, par value, $17,350,000.

Exceptional Protection for Certificate Holders

There are several strong reasons why Equipment Trust Certificates are highly regarded and much sought after by wise investors.

The fact that they are secured by title to equipment in actual use and readily marketable at considerably more than the amount of the issue is a powerful feature.

Standard Tank Car Company
$1,880,000—8% Equipment Trust Certificates

These certificates will be a direct obligation of the Standard Tank Car Co. of Pennsylvania and are secured by title to 1436 all-steel cars of a depreciated value of approximately $1,000,000 in excess of this issue. The net annual earnings of the company average $1,301,171.52.

The Certificates are due serially, from May 1, 1923 to Nov. 1, 1931. This insures a constantly increasing margin of safety for the benefit of holders—far outweighing the depreciation of the cars.

CENTRAL INVESTMENT CORPORATION
(To Be Organized)

(LOS ANGELES BILTMORE HOTEL)

Par Value $100 Per Share

This Is the Unsubscribed Portion of $4,000,000
Offered for Subscription at $100 Per Share

This proposed hotel is to be built upon down-town real estate, located at Fifth and Olive streets, 360 feet fronting Pershing Square. This neighborhood is admittedly developing faster than any other in the city.

The property is under option at the low price of $1,220,000 which, in the opinion of real estate experts, is $800,000 less than current value. Upon this ground will be erected a hotel which, when completed, will represent a total investment of $7,000,000 for the land and building, including carrying charges during construction.

The LOS ANGELES BILTMORE HOTEL has been leased, by negotiation, for a period of twenty-five years to John McE. Bowman, owner of the Biltmore Hotel of New York City, at an annual rental estimated to insure a net return in excess of 7½% on the issued capital stock. The lease also provides for a renewal for an additional period of twenty-five years at a figure based on the valuations at the time of the renewal.

An opportunity is offered you herewith to participate in this movement. In other words you are offered the opportunity to become a part owner in valuable down-town property that is certain to increase in value and with a fixed income.

Subscriptions may be made at any Los Angeles bank or reliable bond house. All subscriptions are strictly subject to allotment. No commissions or compensations are paid for subscriptions, and no payments for stock are required until the project is fully financed, at which time 30% will be required on thirty days' notice; the balance in installments of 30% at sixty-day intervals.

SALES ARE FEW ON THE POTATO MARKET.

PRICES REMAIN ABOUT SAME, BUT RETAIL BUYING IS VERY LIMITED.

Dullness in the potato market, especially in carload lots, was the feature of the trading at the Los Angeles produce terminal yesterday. Few sales are being made and there is little buying either by the jobbers or the retailers.

Some varieties of onions show a tendency to weaken, Australian browns selling yesterday from $4 to $4.50 a hundredweight compared to $4.50 and $5 a week ago. Supplies of bunched vegetables are increasing, although there was no change in prices yesterday.

Cranberries continue steady at $22 to $23 a barrel for Massachusetts late Halls. Northwestern cranberries in third-barrels are selling at $7.25 to $7.50. The first tangerines of the season were offered yesterday at 12 cents a pound.

Oranges and grapefruit continue to move well and prices remain about the same with no visible tendency to weaken. Peas dropped about 2 cents a pound on the average with the best Telephones selling at 9 to 10 cents and the best Admirals bringing from 7 to 8 cents.

COTTON MARKET IS LOWER AT FINISH.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Demand improved in the cotton market today after prices had taken an early slump, with the tone steady and trading on a modest scale, regained most of its losses, but a flurry of realizing at the close left the market 1 to 5 points net lower.

The market was unsettled early and under pressure from Wall street longs as well as from traders. The list steadied after momentary depression at the outset but then declined for a net loss of about 25 to 35 points.

In the later dealings scattered demand for local shorts and a little support believed to be from the trade, came into the ring and lifted values to about on a level with last night's close. Several options showed firmness just before the decline at the close.

Wheat Market Shows Losses at the Finish.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Wheat prices fluctuated rapidly within a range of 2⅛ to 2⅜ cents while the local element were inclined to be bullish early they received little assistance from the outside nor in the way of news developments. The finish was about the bottom with net losses of 1¼ to 1½ cents. Corn averaged higher, despite the weakness in wheat and gained ⅛ cent for the day while oats were ¼ to ⅜ cent lower and rye half to ⅝ cent higher.

Trade in wheat was light from the start and mainly of a local character, although there was fair commission-house selling on the bulges and buying on the breaks.

The export demand was reported as slow and there was little evidence of business. After the close sales of around 1,000,000 bushels were reported as having been made with mainly Manitobas to Germany the previous day with 200,000 bushels hard winter at the gulf. Premiums there advanced 1 to 1½ cents for the day with further sales No. 2 hard for November loading being 6½ cents over December early and 6 cents over later. Milling demand was inactive with shipping sales here of 10,000 bushels and receipts 48 cars, the bulk of the arrivals going to shipping houses on consignment from Kansas City and will be sent East.

Flour demand was spotted. Argentine exports for the week were estimated at 555,000 bushels and will compare none last year. Harvesting has commenced in the more northern sections of that country and Buenos Aires opened at ½ to 1¼ lower with conditions favorable.

Seaboard exporters continue after corn and with very small country offerings and some investment buying future prices averaged higher and closed with December at 48 cents, or 6⅛ cents under the May with some buying of December and selling of May by commission houses. Messages from down state indicated that New Orleans continued to outbid Chicago, at some points as high as 40 cents being offered for new grain. Country roads are in bad condition due to recent rains and the movement is greatly restricted, although the cash bids are now at a level that many farmers have been holding for.

Forecast was for rain or snow over the entire corn belt. Industries were good buyers in the sample market and with keen competition the basis was advanced ½ to 1 cent to December price for the No. 3 grades. Shipping sales aggregated 244,000 bushels, including 150,000 bushels c.i.f. Buffalo with charters for 250,000 bushels to Canadian ports at 2½ cents. Receipts, 98 cars.

Oats market was dull and while firmer early corn reacted later with wheat and closed easy with a limited trade. Heavy cash oats sell readily and show a tendency to gain on the December. Shipping sales were 25,000 bushels with receipts 60 cars.

Unconfirmed reports that 1,000,000 bushels had been sold for export combined with the sales of 62,000 bushels here to the seaboard and buying of futures by the seaboard gave the market a stronger undertone despite the break in wheat. Receipts, five cars.

CUT NAVY YARD FORCES.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—America's program for the limitation of naval armament, if accepted, will cause a virtual shutdown of most of the United States' yards as well as other industries connected with naval construction, according to Representative Kelly of Michigan, chairman of the naval subcommittee of the House, today.

Although one well-equipped navy yard on each coast would be ample to meet the requirements of the Navy, it is not considered likely that any of them will be abandoned outright. It is believed that the Navy will work out a plan to keep all of the yards in existence, but with their operation cut to a small fraction of their present-day activity.

HITS SEACOAST CITIES.

Seacoast cities which derive a large proportion of their prosperity from adjoining navy yards, are going to be hard hit if the armament limitation program is adopted. Wholesale reduction of the working forces will follow as a matter, of course. At present the United States is appropriating about $65,000,000 annually for the navy yards, maintaining a force of approximately 60,000 mechanics for the upkeep of the Navy. The lion's share of this appropriation and the vast majority of the mechanics are devoted to new construction and to keeping old vessels in repair. In view of the fact that new construction is to be suspended and old vessels are to be scrapped, the curtailment of the working forces and the reduction of navy yard appropriations will be much larger in proportion than the actual decrease in American naval armament.

The Washington (D. C.) navy yard, for instance, employs 8000 or 10,000 men in the construction of big guns. This force would be greatly reduced and only enough men kept on the pay roll to provide sufficient guns for replacement. The proving ground for big guns at Dahlgren, Md., would be maintained only to an extent sufficient to test replacement guns.

Another interesting problem arising from closer study of the consequences of the armament program is what to do with the $22,000,000 government armor-plate plant now nearing completion at Charleston, W. Va. The plant was to employ thousands of men to provide armor plate for the completion of the 1916 program. With the construction of heavily-armed ships suspended for the next ten years, it is not likely that it will be necessary to operate the costly Charleston plant. The character of this plant, however, makes it probable that the salvage will be considerable if it is found to be unnecessary to operate it.

Two naval training stations, one on the Atlantic Coast and another on the Pacific Coast, will provide all the recruits necessary to keep the Navy well manned, it is believed. Secretary of the Navy Denby has already decided to virtually suspend activities at the Great Lakes training station.

FOREIGN NEWSPAPER VIEWS ON ARMS LIMIT CONFERENCE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Following are characteristic comments from foreign papers on the arms conference:

The Journal des Debats, Paris, expresses skepticism as to the practicability of the Hughes plan, pointing out that a mere naval holiday is useless, unless at the same time the constructive capacity of the countries involved is likewise controlled. "It is useless," the journal says, "if, at the expiration of the ten years, or if the truce is broken before that time, one country is able to take the lead from the others and construct more rapidly and more ships. It is a very complicated question in which questions of raw material, plants, discipline and workers have to be taken into account."

Le Temps outlines the result of the plan in this way:

"Under Mr. Hughes's proposals there would be three main fleets, each with a special sphere of action—England in the Eastern Atlantic, the North Sea, the Baltic and Indian Ocean and the Mediterranean; America in a great part of the Pacific, and Japan in the seas of the Far East. This puts China in the Japanese sphere."

Summing it up, Temps continues:

"The astonishing beginning of the Washington conference indicates the practical idealism lying so close to the American hearts."

FROM THE GERMAN PAPERS.

The Bourse Courier says:

"German industry, in explaining its credit scheme offer, pointed out the probably long duration of the Washington conference, and is, therefore, of the opinion that there is alternating cause and effect between the outcome of the Washington conference and the state of German finances. If this is the case, then, the connecting link must be the Reparation Commission now in Berlin.

"Naturally one would utterly mistake the natural order of things if and from the German viewpoint one labored under the illusion that the representatives of the super-powers in Washington had their eyes fixed on what was taking place in Berlin between the Wirth government and the leaders of German industry or even on the activities of the Reparation Commission. Berlin, even if you conceive it, is a fulfillment place of all reparation agreements, has no direct influence on Washington, but Washington has on Berlin for even though Europe does not stand on the program of the great Washington conference, nevertheless the conference's decisions are all the more decisive for the fate of German and European affairs comprised under reparations."

BOERSE COURIER.

The Boerse Courier also says:

"Let us assume that there is a practical result of the Disarmament Conference. What effect would it have on the financial and economic distress of the world, particularly of our continent, which is indebted to the Americans? How would Washington react on Berlin (and on Paris)?

"The question of connection is much simpler than it appears. For the significance of reparation is suddenly clarified by Washington. Germany, with its reparation payments, is paying not for reconstruction costs but for the armament costs of its direct and indirect creditors. That is a simple, mathematically verifiable truth.

"The Allied debts to America amount to more than $10,000,000,000. The interest and amortization thereon amount to at least 2,500,000,000 gold marks annually. Slightly more, about 3,200,000,000 gold marks, are demanded of Germany annually. But the cost of military armaments will probably not be exaggerated if put at 12,000,000,000 to 15,000,000,000 gold marks annually.

"If it is possible to reduce these armament expenditures by even one-third, then will the non-German world save more money than it would ever expect from Germany, at the same time obtaining better security of peace and better economic conditions."

GERMAN IMPRESSION.

Another German impression, laconically told in the headlines on the conference news in the National Gazette, "Hughes the Hero of the Day," with typical German corollary. "And how about disarmament on land? It is missing in the Hughes program."

The Nationalist press discovers in the proposals of Secretary Hughes at Washington only "American Egoism" and "lies, hypocrisy and dishonesty." The newspapers declare that Germany cannot "expect the slightest relief from French cruelty carried on with a revolver on the hip along the Rhine."

Some of the newspapers express the belief that the delegates greeted the proposals of Secretary Hughes with approval in order to gain time "to put something over on each other."

LIBERAL PRESS.

The Liberal press is silent, but the radical Rote Fahne (Red Flag) says it is evident that the "four oppressed peoples—Russia, Germany, Japan and Siberia—will be the sacrificial offerings to the commercial imperialism of America and England."

"Whether England wishes it or not," it adds, "her Japan-hating dominions will force her to go with the United States. These dominions are a bigger trump card in the hands of Secretary Hughes than the billion pounds of war debt England owes."

The pan-German Tages Zietung thinks that the American program of a ten-year naval holiday probably will result in a race to construct fighting submarines and airships and the real disarmament is still far in the future.

The Taglische Rundschau says of the program:

"Despite Quaker help and milch cows, it means for us nothing but hypocrisy, lies and dishonesty. Once more this play gets under our skin. It is laughable to see England, America and Japan seeking to save each other from injury while they are secretly planning later sabotage for the whole program."

The Allgemeine Zeitung sees the prospect of an American and British agreement, and says it is certain that France will have a free hand in dealing with Germany.

The Kreuz Zeitung says that President Harding's words sound like those of former President Wilson, but that President Harding has a more workable scheme, although it appears that the President himself has no exaggerated ideas as to the success of the undertaking.

JAPANESE PRESS.

The Nichi Nichi Shimbun takes the ground that the proposal might be advantageous to America, but was quite unfair to Japan, since the formula for restriction was based upon the number of ships afloat and provided that those under construction be abandoned. The writer objected to the giving up of the two Japanese ships to be launched this month and declared: "No Japanese will agree and there is no possibility of arriving at such an agreement." The writer says Japan must have more room for building large type warships if the understanding to be reached were based upon tonnage.

"The suggestion made by Mr. Hughes," says the Jiji Shimpo, "most eloquently reflect the profound sincerity and the firm determination of the United States to extricate the world from fatal competition in naval armament and thus to establish world peace completely and upon a reliable foundation. The imperial government should be expected to give ready consent to the brave American proposition, although Japan would not be unjustified in making a suggestion of her own in the hope of consummating the American proposal."

The Hochi Shimbun says the proposal requires some investigation among the powers before a definite agreement can be reached, yet the "sincerity of American resolution which is well embodied in the suggestion infinitely multiplies the possibilities of armament restriction."

The Kokumin Shimbun voices appreciation of the sincerity and merit of the American proposal. "Peace in the Pacific," says the newspaper, "can be maintained only when the naval strength of the powers on both sides are well balanced. In order to maintain this balance Japan ought at least to have twelve warships instead of ten, against the eighteen proposed for America."

When the Casing Parted

But once in a while it shows its human origin.

We had our Texan No. 2 well down nearly 2000 feet, when one fine morning last week in setting our 10-inch casing, the lower joint (known in oil parlance as a shoe joint) parted. Alligator tongs were used in an attempt to pick it up—we caught hold of it—it must have been frozen in the sand—it snapped in two again. Fishing was out of the question. We tried to drill it up and our bit slipped off to one side—the hole was crooked.

Because of disastrous results that sometimes follow crooked holes, even after the well is producing, we have always made it our policy never to turn an oil well with a crooked hole over to a syndicate in which our clients are interested.

We, therefore, moved the rig and will drill the hole over again. This decision costs about $10,000.

Under the Foster plan, however, Foster unit holders stand no part of that loss.

They suffer nothing but delay, and only a very little of that, for we have already started our other hole.

This little incident is mentioned, not because we like to talk about our troubles, but because we believe our investors are entitled to know not only the good fortune, but also the misfortune. Foster oil production is a give-and-take proposition. We launch a syndicate, say like our present offering, "Tex-Ana"—divided into 6,000 units. Of these we retain one-half for ourselves, offering the other half to our clients, and so it is that you always find the Fosters with a considerable amount of their own money invested in their offerings.

And so, not only because it is right, but also because it is good business for us, we go right through with every well we guarantee to drill and complete them regardless of any and all things.

The Two Sides

The thing we want to impress upon you most strongly is that while there are losses and serious ones in the oil industry, these losses do not come anywhere near wiping out the gains.

Producing oil is a great, vital industry conducted on a sound, substantial basis, that will yield you handsome returns, if you invest under proper guidance and with reasonable caution. We are not the only firm with which an oil investment may safely be made, but we do feel that our record of successes gives us on unusually satisfactory position.

It was only a few short months ago that our Los Angeles office was opened and yet our clients are sharing in two successful syndicates we have developed near Breckenridge, Texas.

"TexAna," our present offering, we believe will be equally successful.

It offers a triple opportunity—it has three wells, guaranteed by us to be drilled to the depth of the Breckenridge oil sands. It has three leases and the opportunity for ten wells, the last seven to be drilled out of 25 per cent of the first three.

One "Tex-Ana" well alone, even if it gets only average production for this district, will make the entire syndicate profitable.

"Tex-Ana" is a sister property and a sister syndicate to Texan, whose first well we completed ten days ago, producing at a rate whose sustained production from one well alone will net Texan investors considerably in excess of 100 per cent per year on their investment.

"Tex-Ana" units are $25.00 Let us tell you more about them.

A COLLAPSING MOUNTAIN.

The geological freak of a great mountain disintegrating so fast that it is discernable day by day—a thing that ordinarily takes thousands of years—is occurring in the mountainous regions near Vienna. The Aussee Sandling, rising over 5000 feet, is simply collapsing. Its great cones and pinnacles of rock are crashing and tumbling as if undermined by gnomes; the forests that clothed the slopes lie flat or move slowly and steadily downward, piling into the valleys, and the turf carpet moves with them. Over three and three-quarters miles of territory are involved in the movement and hundreds of sight-seers view the convulsions from opposite slopes. The phenomenon has been in progress for nearly a year, with gradually increasing acceleration. One scientific explanation is the presence of an abnormal quantity of water in the chalky limestone core of the mountain, causing the collapse of great caverns and the slipping of strata.—[Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ARE WE LOSING STAMINA?

Infant mortality in New York City has decreased, according to a report of the Rockefeller Foundation, from 273.6 a thousand in 1885 to 81.6 a thousand in 1919. The remarkable improvement is the result of an advance in municipal sanitation and of the "better-babies" movement, with its system of baby hygiene stations and visiting nurses. It is interesting to observe that the death rate among babies of native parentage is considerably higher than among the children of foreign-born parents. The children from Russian Poland had about the lowest death rate. Does that denote a somewhat decreased vitality among our native stock? And if it does, is there anything to do except to lament the fact?—[Youth's Companion.

Prosaic Products of France

The shock of war has jarred us loose from so many of our ancient beliefs and practices that we have become somewhat hardened to surprises. But we have not entirely lost the faculty of being startled. We have known France as an exporter of bronzes, jewelry, hats, gowns, perfumes—beautiful and delicate things of adornment and pleasure. We were somewhat bewildered, therefore, to learn recently that the French are showing great activity in the making of the unlovely and prosaic brick. It seems that bricks fashioned in France are being offered in Kent at ten shillings a thousand less than the quotation on the local product. And Kent, mind you, is the citadel of the British brick industry.—[Nation's Business.

A Gentle Hint.

He (gently:) My dear, a man was shot at by a burglar, and his life was saved by a button which the bullet struck.

She: Well, what of it?

He (meekly:) Nothing, only the button must have been on!—[Edinburgh Scotsman.

WAR ON "BABY TALK."

An appeal has been made by the school authorities of Cincinnati to the mothers of that city to enlist in a war against "baby talk," and its effects on their children, and a special speaker has been appointed to carry this cause to the mothers' clubs.

While much of the talk with which fond mothers beguile their babies may sound very foolish to others, it seems to sound good to the baby, and while the claim that it makes stutterers and causes other defects in speech may have some truth in it, the "baby talk" will bear comparison with much other talk heard by children.

While good speech is important, the matter is of more importance than the manner—in fact, good matter naturally tends to good manner in speech. It is at least quite as important that parents, fathers as well as mothers, are careful to select the right subject matter for talk before and to their children as that baby talk is eliminated.

Try as they may, the teachers are likely to have a hard time anyway to convince many mothers that baby talk is not the proper language in which to address the baby, both as to subject matter and method of speech.—[Pittsburg Dispatch.

FREAKISH EARTHQUAKE.

An earthquake that shook India not so long ago was remarkable for the curiously distorting effects it produced upon standing objects. Similar effects have been noticed from other earthquakes, but seldom to so striking an extent. In an official report in the matter it is described how this earthquake twisted a lofty monument at Chatak. The monument was an obelisk of brick, coated with plaster, more than sixty feet tall and twelve feet square at the base. About six feet of the top was broken off and thrown to the south, and nine feet more was thrown to the east. Then a piece twenty feet in height was separated twenty-three feet above the ground, and twisted in a direction opposite to the motion of the hands of a watch, but without falling.—[Indianapolis News.

BARKING NOT NATURAL.

It is a curious fact that dogs bark only when they are in association with man. The dog in a state of nature merely growls, howls or whines. Possibly the act of barking is a dog's attempt at speech; it would certainly seem like it sometimes; as, for instance, when a pet dog sees you carrying food he will bark as his way of asking for some. Another dog, which is in the habit of going to bed at sundown, will bark to tell you he is ready when the time comes. It is also curious that, although the dog is so much a friend of man, his name is used in many expressions of abuse and reproach. Such phrases probably arose in the East, where dogs are considered of very little account.—[Brooklyn Eagle.

AN ELECTRIC DOG.

The electric dog which will follow a lantern in the dark—a mechanical curio constructed by John Hays Hammond, Jr.—has a rival in a French electric dog that will jump out of its kennel when a whistle sounds. The Hammond dog is controlled by selenium cells. The amount of electricity that will pass through selenium varies with the amount of light shining on the metal. With a selenium cell for each eye of the dog, and a small electric current operating a steering gear inside the toy, the dog will steer its course so as to have an equal amount of light on each eye, which means that it will keep its head toward any light. Storage batteries, and a motor, or clockwork, may be used for moving the dog.—[Christian Science Monitor.

GRATITUDE IN STRANGE GARB.

Bishop W. R. Lambuth in his interesting book, "Medical Missions," tells of a native of India whose wife went for treatment to a mission hospital. On her return he wrote as follows to the woman physician in charge of the hospital:

Dear She: My wife has returned from your hospital cured. Provided males are allowed in your bungalow, I would like to do you the honor of presenting myself there this afternoon. But I will not try to repay you; vengeance belongeth to God.

Another whose wife did not survive, expresses himself thus:

Dear and fair madam: I have much pleasure to inform you that my dearly unfortunate wife will be no longer under your kind treatment, she having left this world for the other on the night of the 27th ultimo. For your own help in this matter I shall ever remain grateful. Yours reverently.—[Missionary Voice.

Bridge Disaster Nearer Home.

Brown: Wasn't that bridge disaster terrible?

Black: Who told you about it?

Brown: The papers, of course.

Black: Oh, yes, yes, certainly. For the moment I thought you were referring to my wife losing all her pin money at the game last night.—[Boston Transcript.

WEST SEEKING IRRIGATION AID.

Congressmen Make Plea Before Secretary Fall.

Enactment of Smith-McNary Bill is Urged.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—President Harding's immediate and aggressive help to enact into law some definite and comprehensive plan of irrigation and reclamation for the West was today urged by a number of western Congressmen on Secretary Fall of the Interior Department. Among those present were Congressmen Frear, Lea and Raker of California, Sinnott of Oregon, Smith of Idaho, Carl Hayden of Arizona, Kincaid of Nebraska, Chairman of the House Committee on Irrigation; Hadley and Miller of Washington, McCormick of Montana and Arntz of Nevada.

There is now before the Congress what is known as the Smith-McNary bill, which provides for a revolving fund for irrigation and reclamation on a large scale, the object of which is to reclaim and develop large tracts of western land, these districts to be bonded and to sell their bonds when the Secretary of the Interior shall certify that the irrigated lands are worth twice the value of the bonds.

FOR REVOLVING FUND.

The proceeds of the sale of these district bonds is to be placed back into the revolving reclamation fund and the process repeated until the available fertile land capable of being reclaimed at reasonable cost is all put under cultivation.

The proceeds of the sale of bonds of the last product is to go into the treasury of the United States when reclamation funds are no longer needed. This or some similar plan, the western Congressmen asked Secretary Fall to present to the President, and secure, if possible, his active support and aggressive recommendation to Congress either in the shape of a special message or liberally referred to in his forthcoming message to Congress.

PUT FACTS BEFORE HARDING.

Knowing that Secretary Fall had made a personal inspection trip of some of the most important projects under contemplation by the Reclamation Service, the Congressmen felt that he would be willing to lay before the President the facts as they appeared to him and urge the necessity of activity in this direction, both in order to increase production, employ more labor and make farm homes for the soldiers of the World War.

No definite arrangement was perfected, but Secretary Fall promised to take the matter up with President Harding and report to the Congressmen the result of his intercession.

ARBUCKLE SOON TO FACE JURY.

Rappe. They had received their instructions and steps were being taken to secure a thirteenth juror, to serve if one of the panel becomes incapacitated, prior to swearing them in.

George R. Morgan, a marine insurance adjuster, and one of the first to be examined last Monday, asked for permission to speak before being sworn in. He said that, while hearing other jurors examined, he became possessed of an opinion regarding circumstantial evidence, which gave him ideas as to what occurred at the Arbuckle party, and as to what was responsible for the death of Virginia Rappe; that, conscientiously, he could not be an impartial witness as he would not care himself to be tried by twelve men of the same frame of mind as his own.

MORGAN EXCUSED.

Mr. Morgan was excused from jury service, and frantic efforts were made to secure the twelfth juror before the adjournment hour. Edwin H. Pauson, an oil and real estate dealer, was called. He possessed an opinion favorable to the defense and Attorney U'Ren challenged him for cause. Chief Counsel McNab opposed the challenge and the prosecution was forced to use its fifth and last peremptory challenge to keep him off the jury.

As the jury now stands, it consists of August Fritze, salesman; John J. H. Dierks, former liquor dealer; Henry J. Reef, expert accountant; William H. Torpy, retired business man; Arthur H. Crane, powder expert; Clarence C. Sayre, contractor; Mrs. Helen M. Hubbard, Mrs. Kitty L. McDonald, Mrs. Dorothy O'Dea and Mrs. Adeline M. Nelson, housewives; Miss Louise E. Winterburn, all of whom have been accepted by opposing counsel, and Andrew Granfield, who will know his fate the first thing tomorrow morning.

TO SAVE LANDMARK.

Officials to Act on Tearing Down of Adobe Houses in Park.

City officials today will make inquiry concerning the tearing down of a part of one of the old adobe houses in Griffith Park. The two houses which have stood there for many years are regarded as among the most valuable landmarks in Southern California, and complaint has been made to city officials concerning their removal to make room for an additional golf course at the park.

When workmen tore down a portion of one house Wednesday, the matter was called to the attention of Mayor Cryer, Councilman Mushet and others, who had the work stopped at once. Native Sons of the Golden West will ask that the damaged structure be restored. The donor of the park is said to have spent $3000 in restoring it some years ago, but yesterday, according to reports, only the bare walls were left standing.

HERRICK GIVEN DEGREE.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

NANCY (France) Nov. 17.—Myron T. Herrick, the American Ambassador, arrived here yesterday to receive the degree of doctor of laws from Nancy University.

APPROVE UNION OIL MERGER.

pany and will in addition have about 27 per cent of the stock of the Union Oil Company of California. Other local companies which will be included in the merger are the Columbia Oil Producing Company, Western Union, Dunlop Oil, United Western Consolidated and several smaller wildcat concerns. The merger will also control fields in the Texas and midcontinental districts, but it was pointed out that the foreign company has not increased its holdings to any great extent except for its interest in the Union Oil of California.

It was believed here the consolidation was originally planned to obtain control of the California company. To date this effort has been checkmated and plans are being consummated in Los Angeles which should prevent the great California producing company from passing out of the control of American interests.

However, it was stated yesterday: The foreign interests will have 27 per cent of the stock of the California company, the British financier has plenty of patience and has the backing of the Bank of England if needed. If the British are seeking control of the California company it certainly behooves those interested in keeping control in the hands of Americans to watch what they are doing for the next several years. The Britons, Dutch and others have made an excellent beginning toward carrying through their ambition to control America's great petroleum fields.

MR. CLARK'S STATEMENT.

"Should the Union Oil of California pass from under control of patriotic Americans it would be a serious matter," said E. W. Clark, executive vice-president of the company. He added that plans now under way for formation of a holding company were progressing satisfactorily to those interested and he expected sufficient stock would be turned in to assure the protective company being formed.

"With the holding company there is sufficient stock held in this vicinity to control forever," he explained. "Control of the Union Oil of California if purchased in the open market would mean expenditure of around $25,000,000, while under the plan of the holding company it will be possible for an investment of about $13,000,000 to accomplish the same purpose. The latter sum is obtainable in California and we expect to complete our plans within the near future."

HOLDING OF STOCK.

The holding company will hold 51 per cent of the total stock of the oil company and by controlling 51 per cent of the holding company, control of the production of oil in this State will remain in the hands of American interests.

When the consolidation of the American and British interests was first broached, widespread opposition was voiced and the subject was presented to Congress for investigation. The solons were too busy to take any definite action, but business interests throughout the country and particularly in Southern California began taking defensive measures at once. There are many stockholders of the Delaware company in this section, but their efforts to obtain information regarding plans of their company were met by evasions and generalities that told nothing.

Stockholders have been requesting information regarding affairs of the Delaware company for several months, but the requests were met with the statement that "if they would attend the meeting in New York, all proper questions would be answered." Those who did not have the opportunity of traveling across the country to attend the meeting were forced to content themselves with a circular sent out over the name of President Schlacks in which much was promised, but no definite statement regarding affairs of the company could be found.

VISITING CAPITALISTS.

When the Delaware company was being promoted, two or more years ago, a party of capitalists visited Los Angeles and interested many local persons in the concern. One statement made was that Percy Rockefeller, nephew of John D. Rockefeller, intended to build an oil company of his own which would rival the Standard Oil. He wanted oil men here, principally the Union Oil interests, to become partner in his enterprise. Those of the local crowd who did become interested have become to believe Mr. Rockefeller had something in mind quite different from what they had been led to believe.

The Dutch Shell company, which with its 73 per cent of the stock of the consolidated company, and with fifteen of the nineteen directors to be named will have absolute control, has been interested in California fields for more than ten years. It first entered the field by shipping gasoline from the East Indies, mostly to take a slap at the Standard Oil, which company had been invading fields of the Shell company in other parts of the world. The foreign company was on the ground when the wealth of the State in oil was first discovered, and investments were made in the Coalinga field and a large refinery built on San Francisco Bay. Extension of the company's holdings followed at every opportunity and recent discoveries of oil along the beach found the Shell company in control of the property.

SCHLACKS'S REPLY.

The efforts to obtain information regarding the plans and purposes of the Delaware company caused The Times to telegraph a list of questions to President Schlacks. His reply to the telegram follows:

"Replying to your telegram of November 11, the details of the proposed merger of Union Oil Company of Delaware with the Shell company of California, the Roxana Petroleum Corporation, the Ozark Pipe Line Company and the Matador Petroleum Company were set forth in a circular accompanying the notice of the special meeting of stockholders to be held November 17, which circular you can no doubt procure from any Los Angeles stockholder. At this meeting, which the board of directors hope will be largely attended, the consolidation contract will be read and all proper questions relating to such contract, its performance and the general affairs of the company asked by stockholders or their authorized representatives will be gladly answered."

This telegram was supposed to answer the following questions asked by The Times at request of stockholders of the Delaware Company:

"(1.) What are the details of the deal between the Union of Delaware and the National Exploration Company?

"(2.) What is the proper interpretation of 'Surplus indebtedness' of $2,000,000 of Roxana and Shell of California?

"(3.) What were the agreed values of the properties of Union of Delaware which are to be conveyed to the Consolidated Company?

"(4.) What was the agreed value per share of the stock of Union of California which is to be conveyed to Consolidated Company?

"(5.) What are the nature of the costs and expenses involved in the transfer of properties and shares from Union of Delaware to Consolidated Company, and does this include commissions and fees for negotiating transactions; if so who gets the commission and fees, and what is the amount of money to be so expended?

"(6.) In order to consummate transaction will Union of Delaware have to acquire any properties from National Exploration Company, or other companies, and if so, upon what terms and what is to be the consideration?

"(7.) Has Union of Delaware agreed to pay, or have they paid any moneys or assets or shares of Consolidated Company to any person, group or syndicate as compensation for negotiating or closing deal?

"(8.) Is there any agreement or understanding between any of the companies or parties to the deal, or any persons, group or syndicate interested in any of the companies, other than the agreement which will be submitted to the stockholders of the Union of Delaware for their ratification?

"(9.) Why were the producing properties in West Virginia retained by the Delaware company? Does not the Consolidated company desire producing properties?

"(10.) From whom were these properties purchased? I mean the actual owners, not necessarily the record owners. How much was paid for them?"

WATERPROOF CEMENT.

Portland Company at Monolith Announces New Process.

The Monolith Portland Cement Company has developed, it was announced yesterday at its large plant at Monolith, a process for manufacturing a plastic waterproof cement.

It is used very extensively for plastering the exteriors of the finest residences and public edifices for purpose of keeping moisture from the interior of the buildings, and also is used extensively in all classes of waterproof concrete and for reinforced concrete construction, to protect the steel reinforcement against attack of acid and alkaline solutions which might deteriorate ordinary concrete.

WILL HEAD NEW OFFICES.

C. I. Christensen, until recently assistant manager at San Francisco, of the Pacific Coast offices of the International Mercantile Marine Lines, is in Los Angeles en route to Cleveland, where he will have charge of a branch of his firm, it was announced yesterday at the United Steamship Company's offices.

SKULL CRUSHED BY PROPELLER.

Rich Angeleno Near Death After Plane Tragedy.

Fatal Accident Prophesied Years Ago, Says Wife.

William Tierney Well Known in Racing Circles.

William Tierney, 58 years of age, wealthy proprietor of the Lobban Apartments at 1038 West Eighth street, formerly an associate of George Wingfield and Tex Rickard in Goldfield and Tonopah and well known as the manager of the race track at Tijuana for the last two years, was perhaps fatally injured at March Field, Riverside, yesterday when he stepped into the whirling propeller of the airplane in which he had just accompanied Hubert Kittle from Los Angeles. His skull was crushed.

His wife was prostrated by the first news of the accident, which reported instant death.

"Oh, Joe, oh, Joe, I begged him not to take the flight today," she moaned. "I reminded him, with my arms around his neck, that it had been prophesied that he would be killed in his fifty-eighth year by an accident in the air, but he only laughed, petted me and told me not to worry, that everything would be all right.

"Twenty years ago, when I was a girl of 17 in Germany, I was engaged to be married to another man. A woman, I do not even remember her name, told my fortune. She said that I would not marry the man to whom I was then engaged but that I would go far, far west and marry a man much older than myself and that he would be killed in an accident in the air in his fifty-eighth year. Foolishly, I told Joe of this; we have often referred to it and I have worried about it terribly of late."

Mr. Tierney with Mr. Kittle as pilot, flew to March Field yesterday, arriving about 4:30 p.m. According to witnesses of the accident, the plane had been stopped and the occupants of the cockpit had alighted and were being greeted by Army officers at the field. Mr. Kittle, who is well known to the Army aviators, was talking to a group of men with Mr. Tierney standing at the opposite side of the plane.

With no apparent reason Mr. Tierney was seen to walk directly into the revolving propeller. The plane had been on the ground several minutes, so that the blades were not revolving at high velocity. It is said that had the accident occurred a few seconds sooner, the [illegible] would have been decapitated.

Mr. Tierney was hurried to the military hospital at March Field. It is reported that he has a badly crushed skull and that his condition is critical.

The injured man has been married eleven years and has a son, Dr. John L. Tierney of 4478 Maryland avenue, St. Louis, by a former marriage. Two months ago he bought the Lobban Apartments and his sister, Mrs. J. Roney, was assisting his wife in its management.

Mrs. Tierney left at 10 o'clock last night in an automobile for March Field in the hope that her husband would be alive upon her arrival.

HITS ARMS TRAINING IN SCHOOL.

W.C.T.U. Woman Urges Military Work be Banned by Board of Education.

Abolition of military training in the Los Angeles public schools was advocated at a meeting of the Board of Education yesterday by Mrs. Martha W. Law, speaking for the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of the city. A delegation, headed by Mrs. Law, consisted of Mrs. A. E. Uphal, president of the Central Union of Los Angeles W.C.T.U.; Mrs. E. A. D. Blair, superintendent of children's work of the State and nation, W.C.T.U.; Miss E. L. Elrose, a member of the organization, and Mrs. Minnie Stevens, president of the Women's Shelley Club and a W.C.T.U. member.

"In a meeting which we have just held, the federation of all the Woman's Christian Temperance Unions of Los Angeles unanimously adopted a resolution favoring the abolition of military training—and this includes the R.O.T.C.," said Mrs. Law.

"We women would rejoice to see the continuance and the further establishment in the schools of the most adequate methods of physical training, but we would have that training constructive in its ideals."

Mrs. Law was thanked for her address and assured that the board will take her request under consideration.

A communication was read from Sheriff Traeger, who informed the board of a great increase in the use of narcotics and requested that the board co-operate with him in an attempt to find a remedy for the evil. This matter will be discussed today at 1 p.m. at the Music and Arts Hall, when Sheriff Traeger will confer with Dr. E. J. Lickley and members of the board.

SONS OF AMERICA TO PICK LEADERS.

Four officers from each of the ten camps of the Sons of America in Los Angeles will meet in Room 504, Central Young Men's Christian Association Building, tonight, at 6 o'clock, to organize a training class to provide leaders for junior groups of their organization, which will care for boys from 9 to 12 years of age.

WINS IN RACE AGAINST DEATH

Mrs. S. K. Rindge Rushed Here from Arlington.

Operated on Immediately After Dash in Auto.

Well-Known Society Woman is Appendicitis Victim.

How an automobile won a spectacular race against death became known yesterday when it was learned that Mrs. Samuel K. Rindge, well-known young society woman, was rushed from Arlington to this city on Wednesday for an immediate surgical operation at the Good Samaritan Hospital.

The run from Arlington, near Riverside, was made in remarkably fast time, and everything was in readiness for the operation upon the patient's arrival. Surgeons removed the troublesome appendix in quick time, and last night it was reported that the patient was making satisfactory progress toward recovery.

While at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willits J. Hole, on Rancho la Sierra, Mrs. Rindge was suddenly stricken by an attack of acute appendicitis last Sunday. Her condition late Tuesday was so unfavorable that surgery was thought to be the only means of saving her life. Wednesday morning the family made arrangements to bring her to this city at topmost speed, and almost immediately after her arrival at the hospital she went under the knife.

BABE FOUND DEAD; AUTO IS BLAMED.

Man Mysteriously Injured is Picked Up in Street; Boy Also Run Down.

A baby boy was crushed to death and one boy and a man perhaps fatally injured in traffic accidents early last night. The body of the baby, Roberto Bendites, age 10 months, was found in front of 412 North Main street. Police believe that the child, a Mexican, was playing in the street and was run over by an automobile. Detective Sergt. Kimbraugh was detailed to investigate. The body was removed to the J. B. Button undertaking establishment.

James H. White, age 13 years, of 145 North Normandie avenue, was struck down by an automobile driven by E. H. Hanssler of 606 North Ardmore avenue at Ardmore avenue and West Third street. He was rushed to the Receiving Hospital, where it was found he had suffered concussion of the brain, a possible skull fracture and abrasions.

John R. Robinson, age about 35 years, a watchmaker of Winfield, Kan., was found lying in the street at East Twenty-seventh and Maple streets by C. J. Raffety of 1014 Portola street. Mr. Raffety took the man to the Receiving Hospital, where it was said he was suffering from a possible fracture of the skull and concussion of the brain.

Police officers investigating the case stated they believe that Mr. Robinson had been struck by an automobile. The man was in such a condition late last night that he could give the police little information as to how he had been injured.

TWICE THEFT VICTIM.

Man on Way to Report Burglary is Robbed by Pickpockets.

While George H. Bishop of 332 Lorraine Boulevard was on his way from his home to Central Police Station yesterday morning to report that burglars had ransacked his residence and escaped with a fur coat valued at $800, pickpockets robbed him of his purse and $25. According to Mr. Bishop, who discovered his loss after arriving at Central Police Station, the purse must have been stolen while he was riding on a crowded street car.

Life is Saved by Fast Motor Trip.

MURRAY'S RUN DOWN BY AUTO.

"My Fault," Says Captain of Police, Badly Hurt, as He Has Driver Released.

Capt. A. W. Murray, commander of University Police Division, was seriously injured late yesterday afternoon when he was struck down by an automobile while attempting to board a street car at Thirty-second and Hoover streets. Rushed to the Receiving Hospital, Capt. Murray was treated by Police Surgeon Dodge for a fracture of the left arm, a possible fracture of the ankle, lacerations on the left leg and face, and slight concussion of the brain. The surgeons say the captain will recover.

From what could be learned of the accident, it appears that A. E. Collingham of 1503 Fairman street who was driving the automobile that struck Capt. Murray, was not to blame. Capt. Murray declared that as he approached the intersection of Thirty-second and Hoover streets he saw his car passing and ran into the street to swing on board. The automobile struck him just as he was reaching for the handles of the moving vehicle. On instructions of Capt. Murray, Collingham was not detained by the police.

INJURED WHEN TRAIN CRASHES INTO AUTO.

Sidney Simpson of Lodi is in the Pacific Hospital suffering from injuries as the result of a collision between his automobile and an inbound Venice Short Line Pacific Electric train at West Sixteenth street and St. Andrews Place early last night. Pacific Electric officials reported that Mr. Simpson attempted to cross the tracks ahead of the train after passing behind an outbound local car. The train, traveling, it was stated, at about ten miles an hour, struck the automobile, throwing it to one side. Motorman C. J. Smith and Conductor J. M. Hockmouth were in charge of the train.

MAIL TRUCK PILOT SHOT BY MARINE.

Hit in Arm and Leg When Automatic is Accidentally Discharged.

Frank T. Johnson, 610 Macy street, driver of a United States mail wagon, was shot through the arm and leg last night at the Belvedere postoffice substation by Private L. R. Arendell of the Marine Corps guard.

The shooting is believed to have been accidental. Private Arendell was taken to the Sheriff's office, where he stated that a pistol was discharged in his hand without pressure on the trigger.

Constable Ballenger of Belvedere investigated the case. He was told that the marine and the mail driver had exchanged automatics to examine the weapons. Mr. Johnson had the marine's automatic pistol, it was said, and returned it. The pistol was in the marine's hand when it was discharged twice.

The wounded man was taken to the County Hospital.

Private Arendell was placed under arrest by Deputy Sheriff Hotz and turned over to Lieut. Chesley G. Stevens, in command of the postoffice marine guards. Under the articles of war the marine may be court-martialed on two charges, namely, accidental discharge of his weapon and yielding the weapon to another while on duty.

Because of two accidental explosions of rifles in the hands of marines guarding the mails in and out of the local postoffice, hereafter they will be armed with sawed-off shotguns, it was stated yesterday. These will carry shells containing nine buckshot, and will make effective weapons.

The difficulty with the rifles is that they have been used as range guns, with hair triggers necessary for long-distance shooting. The delicately adjusted triggers are sprung at the slightest jar. Private Bahman, who caused a commotion in the postoffice Tuesday evening still maintains he did not touch the trigger, and military authorities say that by reason of the filing down of the mechanism such accidents may easily occur.

Must Go East to Face Trial as Embezzler.

Henry Williams, who has been under observation in the psychopathic ward of the County Hospital, was released by Judge Weyl yesterday to be taken back to Minneapolis, where it is said he is wanted on a charge of embezzling $5000.

Mr. Williams was met on the streets of this city by friends from Minneapolis. He asserted at that time that his name was Watson. He appeared to be suffering from a complete loss of memory. After he had been taken to the Receiving Hospital, an insanity complaint was sworn out against him and he was sent to the County Hospital.

Until his release, the authorities were not able to determine whether Williams is a victim of amnesia or pretending he has lost all recollection of his past.

If cleanliness is next to godliness, then a near religious wave has struck Los Angeles. The steamer Harry Luckenbach, Capt. A. L. Sears, is at Los Angeles Harbor with 400 bathtubs, consigned to Los Angeles plumbing concerns. The ship arrived yesterday morning from New York and Philadelphia.

FREEDOM HOPE FOR MADALYNNE

Date Set for Hearing on Her Plea for Release.

Habeas Corpus Arguments to be Made on Monday.

Mrs. Obenchain Ill in Bed; Burch is Silent.

Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain, awaiting trial on a charge of murdering J. Belton Kennedy, scored an important point yesterday when the State Supreme Court set next Monday as the date for arguments before the District Court of Appeal here on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus to secure her release.

This means that the State will have to show cause why Mrs. Obenchain is being held and the prosecution will, it is expected, submit the indictment and facts of the murder affecting the defendant. Ralph Obenchain, attorney and former husband of the defendant, wired Attorney Charles Erbstein at Chicago last night of the new developments.

Attorney Obenchain stated that he expects Mr. Erbstein to return to Los Angeles in time for the arguments on the writ, but that in the event of a delay, he will represent Mrs. Obenchain.

San Francisco dispatches last night stated that justices of the Supreme Court conferred yesterday in chambers on the application of attorneys for Mrs. Obenchain for a writ of mandate to compel the Superior Court of Los Angeles to grant her an immediate trial.

The application was filed Monday at Sacramento, but the court has not announced whether it will be made returnable and argument permitted.

Mrs. Obenchain was confined to her bed at the County Jail all day yesterday. She has been suffering from a severe cold for several days. She refused to receive any callers except Mr. Obenchain. Her mother, Mrs. Emma Smart, called at the jail late in the afternoon and sent up a note and a bouquet.

Arthur Burch, charged jointly with Mrs. Obenchain in the murder of the young broker, retreated into a shell of almost complete silence yesterday. The nearness of his trial is believed to be the cause of his refusal to discuss any phase of the case. He determinedly told interviewers that he had no comment of any sort to make on the case.

FIND BODY IN WELL.

Two Boys Discover Near-Skeleton in Vicinity of Acton.

Two boys, digging in an abandoned well a mile west of Acton, yesterday found a half-buried body, according to a report to the Sheriff's office yesterday by John Haisch, a storekeeper. It was indicated that the body was almost a skeleton. Deputy Sheriffs Bright and Modie were detailed by Superintendent Manning of the criminal department to investigate the find.

BOOKS USED IN SCHOOLS CRITICIZED.

Congress of Mother's Urges State to Invite Free Bids on Supplies.

Resolutions urging the State Board of Education, now in session at Sacramento, "to invite free competitive bidding in securing the best text-books for boys and girls of California, irrespective of the source from which the same may be obtained," were sent to the State capital yesterday following a meeting in the Hall of Records of the official board of the First District, California Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations, representing a membership of 12,000.

The resolutions were unanimously adopted by the thirty members of the board present, after a warm discussion concerning antiquated text-books and a remedy for their abolition in favor of up-to-date ones. It was asserted that, because of the system of State publication of text-books, California is lagging behind in the number and quality of school books in use, and that the children of the public schools are entitled to a sufficient quantity of the best and latest books available.

As an instance of the unreliability of certain books, printed several years ago and which, though dusty and torn, in many cases are still being used in the State's public schools, it was pointed out that the geographies are fourteen years behind the times.

Another resolution of interest, introduced by the department of education and which will be sent to the managers of newspapers of Southern California, expresses appreciation of the inestimable educational value of the public press and suggests to publishers that they discontinue printing the details of criminal and divorce cases. The printing of such details, it was said, has a seriously demoralizing effect on the minds of the students, who are advised by their instructors to keep in touch with the great news events of the world.

The board discussed the advisability of taking steps toward having the news stands stop the sale of publications of a questionable character and it is probable that a method of legally attacking the printing and selling of salacious literature will be taken up at a future meeting.

ARREST PHYSICIAN ON FORGERY CHARGE

Charged with forgery of a receipt and check, Dr. David G. Gustason, Los Angeles physician, was arrested yesterday by Constable Moore and taken before Justice Powell of Sherman, who admitted him to bail of $2000 and fixed the preliminary hearing for next Wednesday. The complaint charges that a patient gave the doctor a check for $150, with a notation in the corner "payment in full of account," and that the check, when cashed, had a slip pasted over the notation, bearing the words "payment on account."

ULLEN & BLUETT
QUALITY IN MEN'S WEAR SINCE 1883

omen's Taste In Ties

The feminine taste in Christmas neckwear has been much maligned, when the real fact of the matter is that women, as a rule, have better taste than men.

But at Christmas time they are often forced to make their selections from "Holiday Neckwear" of colors and patterns bizarre and grotesque.

Unless they have discovered that Mullen and Bluett never offer "Holiday Neckwear" but rather present a comprehensive selection of ties, fashioned from imported French and English silks in colors and designs which not only appeal to women's artistic taste but also receive a sincere welcome from the men in the case.

TRAIL OF GIRL LEADS TO RAID.

Police Smash Way Into Den in Chinatown.

Capture Suspects, Money and Lottery Tickets.

Maiden Unwittingly Shows Location of Game.

In the winding alleyways and crooked streets of Chinatown little Fan San Suie, a Chinese girl, is known as the best card dealer on the Coast, but yesterday, unwittingly, she brought down Capt. Heath, Sergt. McCarron and a squad of police officers in a spectacular raid on 512 North Los Angeles street, where she was employed.

Early yesterday morning Sergt. McCarron, the head of the Chinatown squad, heard rumors that fourteen lottery and gambling houses in Chinatown were to be opened. He investigated the report and found it to be true. From one house to the next the police officer went and ordered them closed. All obeyed but one.

FOLLOWS GIRL.

Shortly after noon yesterday Sergt. McCarron spied little Fan San Suie tripping through a Chinatown alleyway and the big police officers followed her. In front of 512 North Los Angeles street, a known lottery den, the girl stopped. She glanced behind her and then slipped through the door.

From a near-by telephone Sergt. McCarron notified Capt. Heath that the Chinamen on 512 North Los Angeles street were playing. He knew it by the presence of little Fan San Suie.

Armed with sledges and axes Capt. Heath and a squad of men descended on the establishment. The Chinamen refused to open the doors and they were smashed down. Chairs, tables and even the floors were smashed and ripped by the officers. Toy Wong and P. Somay were arrested. Almost $1000 on the tables was seized and bales of lottery ticket found. But Fan San Suie, leading almost a score of Chinamen and Japanese escaped through a rear door while the police were breaking into the front of the house.

Hospital Will Hold Shower for Children.

The public is invited to attend a Thanksgiving shower at the Children's Hospital at Sunset Boulevard and Vermont avenue next Wednesday and Thursday, according to an announcement issued yesterday by the board of managers of the hospital. Visitors are requested to bring gifts to make life more happy for the children at the institution. All are to be met by a committee and the hospital will be open for inspection.

Among the gifts most desired are: Sheets, 63x99 and 72x99 inches; table cloths in 2x3 1-2-yard lengths; dimity spready, 78x82 inches; napkins, 22x22 inches; bath towels, 20x36 inches; huck towels, 17x28 inches, or flannelette by the bolt; gray double blankets, pillow cases, fruit, jelly, jam and other food of all kinds.

PAINTER IS BANKRUPT.

Nitrate King's Property to be Placed on Sale

By a court order entered yesterday property of the late Andrew J. Keating, nitrate king, known as the Washington Street tract, consisting of 113 acres, will be offered for sale.

Harry Culver, appointed referee in the Keating matter, submitted a report to the heirs of the nitrate king, partitioning the property among them.

Edward, Alfred and Walter Keating, sons of the deceased, objected to the report, which came before Judge Walton J. Wood yesterday. J. Wiseman MacDonald, also interested in the property, declared that it ought to be handled as a whole rather than partitioned. Judge Wood announced that he would order the tract sold as a whole. The appraised value is $150,000.

REWARD FOR MISSING DOG.

Snookie is a bob-tailed, silky-haired toy terrier. He was either stolen or lost some time Sunday afternoon near Twenty-eighth and Trinity streets. Billie's mother, Mrs. C. O. ARMY, NAVY MEN LAUD RED CROSS.

Rear-Admirals and Major-General Tell of Work Done by Organization.

Expressions of thanks for services rendered by the American Red Cross and of well wishes for the success of the fifth annual roll call, now in progress, were received yesterday by the organization headquarters from Rear-Admirals Roger Welles and A. S. Halstead, commandants respectively of the Eleventh and Twelfth Naval Districts, on the Pacific Coast, and from Maj.-Gen. W. M. Wright, U.S.A., commanding the Ninth Corps Area, with headquarters at the Presidio, San Francisco.

The three officers unite in declaring that the Red Cross has been of invaluable assistance to the men of the Army and Navy in aiding them in time of need, and voice the hope that the roll call will result in a public response that will permit of a continuance of the good work. In his letter Rear-Admiral Halstead says:

"My personal interest can be expressed as the interest which any citizen of the United States has in an organization which so clearly fulfills the humanitarian spirit of the American people. The excellent work which the Red Cross did during the late emergency is too well known and too comprehensive for me to attempt any further praise. The work of the American Red Cross has been and is appreciated by the Navy Department and by the officers and men of the United States Navy."

Rear-Admiral Welles says there are about 1000 families of officers and men of his command living ashore, among whom there are constantly arising cases where relief is necessary, which relief is always gladly furnished by the Red Cross.

"It is sincerely hoped that the activities of the Red Cross will not in any way be curtailed by a lack of funds placed at its disposal, or by any regulation that would not permit it to continue its good work in all its branches," he says.

On behalf of the Army, Maj.-Gen. Wright says:

"It is with a sentiment of keen appreciation that I recall the invaluable service you have rendered to the Army in the past and, because of these benefits, which proved so valuable in the war, the Red Cross has been extended at the request of the War Department to our peace time organization.

"Every American soldier is aware of what the Red Cross accomplished in the war and I feel sure you will have their support in your membership drive. The presence of the Red Cross is a very positive factor in the morale of the troops. You have my sincerest wishes for the complete success of the drive."

JURY DELAYS ACTION ON WOOLWINE OFFICE.

COUNTY BODY EXPECTED TO TAKE STEPS ON INQUIRY NEXT MONDAY.

According to present plans the county grand jury will not take up as a whole body the question of the conduct of the District Attorney's office when it meets today, it was indicated yesterday. The jury was to have brought the whole controversy to a crisis on Wednesday or today, but it is understood that the matter was postponed because of numerous other subjects before the inquisitorial body, but will be revived Monday.

The jury had previously asked Atty.-Gen. Webb to appoint a deputy to handle an investigation of the conduct of Mr. Woolwine's office. The Attorney-General replied by asking for more information. Then the transcript of testimony taken before the public office committee of the jury was forwarded, and the jury was asked for more specific information. A third communication was forwarded and the Attorney-General replied that he desired additional information upon one matter. The jury then decided not to communicate further along that line and to bring the matter to a crisis.

WOMAN AND CHINESE HELD ON DRUG CHARGE

Caught in a house on Channing street when police officers and State inspectors raided the establishment early yesterday morning in a search for morphine and other drugs, Florence Hamilton, 26 years of age, and Louie Way, 45 years of age, a Chinaman, were arrested and charged with violations of the State poison laws. A quantity of morphine was seized by the raiding officers. At Central Police Station the young woman confessed that she is a drug user and stated that she had called on the Chinaman to purchase some morphine.

GYM CLASSES POPULAR.

The Y.W.C.A. gymnasium classes for reducing and physical upbuilding are proving popular and many entrants seeking to rid themselves of excess avoirdupois weighed in from fifteen to twenty pounds lighter at the beginning of the second month, which has just opened. Systematic exercises are prescribed the class members for reducing or for putting on flesh, as is desired. Classes meet at the association's temporary gymnasium headquarters, 1003 West Seventh street, and are open to new entrants. Information can be secured regarding them by calling Miss Stevens, Broadway 2713, or the Y.W.C.A. general headquarters, Main 362.

OLD TESTAMENT FILMS.

First of a series of Old Testament narratives, which have been in process of production at the Glendale studios for over a year, "Creation," will be presented as a special feature at the California Theater next Sunday, in conjunction with the Goldwyn production "The Man from Lost River." This series which, beside "Creation," includes such titles as "Adam and Eve," "Cain and Abel" and "Noah and the Ark," is said to be a most dramatic and educational presentation, and gains interest from the fact that, contrary to the usual procedure, no publicity has been given to the actors employed.

If you're free from constipation show this to some sufferer!

One of the greatest benefits to humanity that has been made available to every man, woman and child in America is Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled. Kellogg's Bran will relieve constipation permanently if it is eaten regularly. If people of this nation generally would eat Kellogg's Bran nine-tenths of all sickness would be eliminated.

Physicians indorse Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, for constipation because constipation is naturally relieved through proper food. We guarantee Kellogg's Bran will relieve constipation if at least two tablespoonfuls are eaten daily. We advise as much as necessary for chronic cases.

Kellogg's Bran acts as a sweeper, cleansing and purifying. But it is not a "remedy;" rather a nature food! Unlike pills and cathartics, which are not only irritating to the delicate intestinal tract, and afford but temporary relief at best—bran is not habit-forming. Effects of pills and cathartics wear off and it is necessary for the sufferer to find some new and more violent bowel agitator. Kellogg's Bran never ceases its regular work.

Kellogg's Bran at the same time will clear a pimply complexion and sweeten the breath.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is one of the most delicious cereals you ever ate. Its nut-like flavor is delightful. Or sprinkle it on your favorite cereal and use it in various foods such as bran bread, muffins, pancakes, gravies, etc. Recipes are printed on each package.—[Advertisement.

THE BIG HOLIDAY.

If we are to have another legal or national holiday this naval holiday strikes us as being about the right size.

BREVITY OF SPEECH.

There is a tribe of Indians in Mexico having a vocabulary of less than 300 words. The members of that tribe do not spend much of their time in writing letters to the newspapers.

SOMETHING TO YAP ABOUT.

The American and Japanese delegates may think they have settled the Yap controversy, but wait until they have heard from the United States Senate. There can be a lot of yapping yet. In the language of Senator Johnson, "We have only begun to yap."

THE KNOCKOUTS.

The new excise bill fixes a tax of 100 per cent on brass knuckles. The government is trying to take the kick out of every brand of punch. If the price of brass knuckles is to be boosted some of our most enterprising bandits may be compelled to seek other aisles of effort. With the price of knockout drops almost prohibitive this means much.

FOR REVENUE ONLY.

The new prohibition agent points out that Long Beach has added $25,000 to her exchequer recently by pursuing and prosecuting bootleggers. The authorities of the cities are urged to go to it for the sake of the revenue. He figures that Los Angeles could get $250,000 more a year from fines if the police would go after the bootleggers in earnest. If bootlegging cannot be stopped let it at least pay a stiff price for its existence. That is one way of looking at it. We used to license the saloon. Why not make every bootlegger cough up a million dollars or so for the sport and profit he is having?

IMPOLITIC—PERHAPS.

The attitude of the Arbuckle defense against the clubwomen of San Francisco impresses us as being peculiarly impolitic. It is by no means a case in which it would seem desirable to antagonize women, no matter what their motives in forming a vigilance committee to watch the trial.

The Times deplores any condition in the courts of justice that seems to inspire the formation of a vigilance committee, and it criticized and deplored at the time the apparently callous behavior of that committee which organized for so tragic a purpose over a hotel banquet. Nevertheless the committee was well within its rights, and there is no reason to believe that the clubwomen of San Francisco or anywhere else are not capable of forming a just judgment on the evidence in the case.

If Arbuckle is innocent he needs the friendly judgment of women to a marked degree, and if he is guilty in any measure, it will be well that antagonism against him should be modified to the uttermost for his own sake. Either way, the aftermath of feminine opinion will count tremendously. Acquitted, any hopes of reinstatement he may harbor will depend largely upon the attitude of women, the mothers of those countless thousands of children who have laughed with and enjoyed the fat comedian in the past.

KING GEORGE AND THE COST OF LIVING.

King George and the English royal family have felt the higher cost of living like the rest of us. His Majesty recently gained the permission of Parliament to sell some of his royal property, rather than ask for an increase in his governmental allowance—a step that will reduce his income by $25,000 a year.

It is not generally known that the English people's contribution for the King and the Prince of Wales amounts to rather less than 5 cents a year per head of the population. Before the war the Kaiser received half as much again from the German people and the Czar of Russia eight times as much. In fact, the English have always been rather stingy with their sovereigns, and in spite of the terrific increase in the cost of things, King George only receives 20 per cent more than old Queen Anne, who, thrifty housewife that she was and the mother of eighteen children, ran into debt nearly $6,000,000.

But in spite of the higher cost of living, King George not only kept out of debt but instituted such economies in his household that he saved nearly half a million a year throughout the war, every penny of which went to help the funds for the disabled service men. However, he finds he cannot quite live within his income now, but he has refused to accept another penny from Parliament, asking permission rather to sell off some of the property appertaining to the royal Duchy of Lancaster estate. And he is entering very heartily into England's economy campaign, and practicing his enthusiasms in this connection upon his own household. Even now, vast as the British Empire is, King George's parliamentary grant is far below that of the King of Italy.

One reason why King George remains so strong in the affections of his people is that he usually practices what he preaches. When temperance was being preached so assiduously to help win the war, King George was the first to go on the water wagon, both publicly and privately. When the people were being urged to give, King George headed the lists with generous contributions. And now that they are being urged to save, King George is among the first to set a practical example and cut out superfluous luxuries.

HELP THE RED CROSS.

Americans no longer have to be told that the Red Cross is one of the finest and most valuable organizations which functions in this country and throughout the world. That has been proven not only upon the fields of Europe but in every catastrophe which has in recent years overtaken this or any other land. The Red Cross stands for the highest type of service—and delivers it.

All that Americans need to be reminded of in connection with the organization is that it must always have more money and more members if its work is to expand as it should.

The present drive for membership (100,000 in this community are expected to become members or to renew their memberships) comes at a most appropriate time. The nation has just paid its tribute to the unknown hero who gave his life for his country. It is now quickened with the vision of a new world order which the Washington conference inspires. The Red Cross stands for devotion to an ideal, for the highest type of service and for doing good in every land. It gives practical expression to the desire for doing something friendly and helpful which is voicing itself at this time in the demand that all nations co-operate toward a better understanding and a sound foundation for lasting peace.

The Red Cross lessens suffering in time of war and stimulates the peace yearnings of all peoples in times of tranquillity by pointing the way toward unselfish, intelligent and untiring service.

The Red Cross belongs to all of us and benefits all of us, in one way or another. Make the membership drive a complete success in Los Angeles!

GAINSBOROUGH'S "BLUE BOY."

For a community to possess one Gainsborough is for it to attain distinction as an art center. For it to have four of the best works of that master is for it to attract the attention of lovers of the beautiful in every land. It is for that reason that the bringing to Los Angeles by H. E. Huntington of Gainsborough's "Blue Boy," which he recently purchased from the Duke of Westminster, will mean so much to this city. This remarkable portrait will be added to three others by Gainsborough which Mr. Huntington owned prior to his latest purchase.

Thus it is that Los Angeles moves forward to her destined goal of the art center of America, blending as she does the English, the American and the Spanish types of culture at their highest.

A list of some of the artists now making their homes here would contain many of the best known names in this country and Europe. In the realm of music this cultural zone can boast Paderewski, Schumann-Heink, Cadman, Godowsky and Carrie Jacobs Bond. David Edstrom is internationally recognized as one of the best sculptors of our time. Among the painters are Hosep Pushman, the Armenian; Symonds, Wendt, Payne, E. B. Smith, Vysekal, J. Wilkinson Smith, Thomas, Barton, Forsythe and C. P. Townley.

Highly significant is the bringing to this city from Paris by Mme. Rodesno of one of the finest collections of Spanish and Italian tapestries and paintings to be found anywhere in the world. From every quarter of the globe artists and patrons of the arts are turning to Los Angeles as to the Athens of the Americas.

But of all the art treasures which have come from the Old World to the New, none could be of higher interest to Americans, and particularly to westerners, than this "Blue Boy," which is soon to be added to this community's wealth of beauty.

Gainsborough, living in one of the most quickening periods in English history, painted this portrait at about the time of our Revolution. He was essentially revolutionary himself, both in his outlook upon life and in his art. This particular work was done in a spirit of revolt against the dictates of artists who had come to worship form instead of substance, rules instead of results.

One of the axioms of the artists of that time was that blue could not be used successfully to give the keynote to a painting supposed to give the impression of being alive.

"Very well," said Gainsborough in response to this dictum, "I will do a portrait of a boy strictly in blue and will prove that you are wrong." He broke one of the basic rules of the pedants and one of the most admired portraits ever produced was the result.

There was nothing slow or squint-eyed or plodding about him, either. He stood off at a distance of seven feet from his canvas, putting his colors on by means of a brush which had a handle almost six feet long. He whirled along at his painting, paying no attention to niceties regarding northern lights, etc., of which lesser men make so much. Indeed, some of his best work was done in semi-twilight. He never stooped to photographic accuracy, but placed the very soul of the painter on the canvas, and yet there was no lack of detail, no failure to delineate truly. Of him it was said that he could make a hoggish man look more like a hog than any other portrait painter without sacrificing any of his human qualities in so doing.

He painted as one who was sure of himself and as a man he walked as a king among men. Just at the time when men were choosing between the old order and the new in Europe, he stood out wholeheartedly for the new, both in his art and in his life.

And this portrait which ushered in a new era in art, which has become one of the most coveted paintings in the world and which cost Mr. Huntington close to $1,000,000, brought Gainsborough $200! Art is long, truly, but short is its pay roll.

THE UNIVERSAL EYE.

The slow-motion camera is being developed to the point of perfection. Pictures can be taken at the rate of 200 a second and then projected at a desired speed that enables the spectator to follow every motion. For educational purposes this will prove invaluable. The language of the eye is universal. All peepers look pretty much alike. With the aid of a moving picture a western cowboy can show a maiden of Madagascar how to snare a broncho. All the arts can be demonstrated. Surgical operations can be shown so deliberately as to explain themselves. Lessons may be made simple and attractive. The motion camera opens a wonderful world to the young of all races. The projection room is apt to be the schoolhouse of the future.

NOT GROWING UP?

Scientists, studying the records of the intelligence tests applied to American soldiers, have reached the conclusion that these men had on an average the intellectual development which is considered normal for a boy 14 years old.

This does not seem very flattering to us as a nation, but it is borne out by Thomas A. Edison, who has been conducting some intelligence tests of his own on men who apply to him for employment. He expresses himself as amazed at the low average of intelligence which his tests have revealed. He says that not more than 2 per cent of the adult population can understand a self-evident fact when it is put before them.

These disturbing opinions from high authorities are supported in a way by the new school of psychologists. Their investigations tend to show that an individual who is not given proper opportunity to develop his mind and personality does remain a child in all those respects in which his development is retarded. They would say that the typical American man of business, while highly developed in his special line, is "infantile" as a whole, because he is undeveloped in so many other ways.

This view of course excites the antagonism of every good American, but it is perhaps worth examining just for the sake of understanding a point of view we cannot share.

Many women are wont to remark that their husbands, brothers, or even their fathers are just big boys, but a good deal of evidence can be brought forward to show that women are on an average even more infantile than men. Men, in order to make a living, have to achieve a certain degree of maturity. They may have boyish traits but they cannot afford to have the helplessness of children. Women, on the other hand, know that an appearance of helplessness, if accompanied by good looks, is often a great asset in the pursuit of a husband. Thus society encourages women to hold on to any infantile traits they may have. The "cuteness," the helplessness, the ignorance, which so many of them affect, are infantile. The woman may use these tricks consciously in pursuit of a man, but the mere fact that she does it is an indication, according to the psychologists, that she has never become fully adult. This prevailing infantilism of women is widely recognized in popular slang and popular songs, which reveal far more of our folk-psychology than does our formal literature. "When grown-up ladies act like babies, I've just got to love 'em, that's all!"

It is not possible to summarize here all of the evidence which might be brought forward to prove that the public as a whole has never grown up. Our tastes in reading, movies and theater are specially significant, however. The adult desires to understand life. The child wishes to cultivate his illusions about it. Children read fairy stories. Most of the stories in our magazines, nearly all of our movies, most of our novels and most of our stage plays are fairy tales in effect. That is, they all foster lovely illusions about life, rather than study the truth of it. The American public is nearly always antagonized by any work of art which sets forth the truth about life.

"Why write about such ugly things when there are so many pleasant things to write about?" is the formula always used.

"Tell me a nice pretty story, daddy," is what the same individual was saying at the age of 10. How much has his point of view changed? asks the psychologist.

Do other nations differ from us in this respect? It is probable that in all parts of the world most men and women never grow up, but in the highly civilized European nations there is probably a larger percentage of real adults, as indicated by the much larger proportionate number of persons who show a mature taste in literature, drama, art and music, and have a mature outlook on life.

What then is the cause of our failure to bring ourselves to a real maturity? Mr. Edison has the support of most of the experts when he lays the chief blame on education. Our education teaches the child a lot of rigid beliefs, instead of teaching him to think. But above all it bores him. Literature, science, history—the things which help any individual to understand and appreciate life—are dull for the youngster.

"The moment school is not play, it is an injury," says Mr. Edison. "I don't know quite the age at which a child's mind atrophies, but it is somewhere between the ages of 11 and 14."

Here Mr. Edison bears out the psychoanalysts to perfection. The child's intellectual development is arrested by boredom somewhere between 11 and 14, and along some lines it never advances thereafter. A little later the child becomes interested in making money, and that remains the individual's most vital interest all his life. His character and personality mature after a fashion, but these can never reach a full maturity without an all-round mental development. Hence the fact that the grown man so often has the tastes, the viewpoint and the amusements of a high school boy.

THE STUDENT AND THE CONFERENCE ON ARMAMENTS.

In his memorable Phi Beta Kappa address at Harvard College forty years ago Wendell Phillips brought serious indictment against certain aspects of higher education in America. His topic was "The Scholar in a Republic."

Citing the great crusade against slavery, he scathingly declared: "Amid this battle of giants scholarship sat dumb for thirty years until imminent deadly peril convulsed it into action, and colleges, in their despair, gave to the army that help they had refused to the market place and the rostrum." The burden of his great address was this admonition: "I urge on college-bred men that, as a class, they fail in republican duty when they allow others to lead in the agitation of the great questions which stir and educate the age."

The great "Agitator" would find a marked difference if he could revisit the American colleges after forty years. The scholar has been awaking to his responsibility and his matchless opportunity in the American republic.

No event has given such impetus to this tendency as the World War and the great events flowing from it.

A significant illustration of this in current history, which is likely to have consequences of the most far-reaching character, is found in the intercollegiate conference of Princeton University on the limitation of armaments. Between thirty and forty colleges and universities accepted Princeton's invitation to send delegates to this unique gathering.

Princeton has received congratulations on having the provision to hold such a conference. Among those who have expressed hearty approbation are President Alderman of the University of Virginia, President Harry A. Garfield of Williams College, President W. H. P. Faunce of Brown and President H. P. Judson of the University of Chicago.

Among those taking prominent part in this conference we find the names of President Hibben and Prof. Kemmerer of Princeton University, President Frank J. Goodnow of Johns Hopkins University, Col. D'Oller and Dr. Vernon Kellogg, well known as director of the American Commission for Relief in Belgium.

Thus we witness an illustration of the fact, which is more and more clearly emerging, that the traditional chasm between the academic and real life is rapidly being bridged. Indeed, the alleged gulf that separates the university from practical reality has already become for the most part a mere phantom. More and more is it becoming recognized that higher education and all education must serve the common good. Nothing short of the general welfare is a sufficient goal for the development of our educational institutions in the American republic.

Easier to Earn Than to Beg.

Be a gentleman; a home owner, a good mechanic, an agreeable neighbor, a good citizen, a good and successful farmer, foreman, superintendent, business man or millionaire, instead of a poor man howling for help. The help the poor get from the government and their neighbors is scanty. It is always easier to make a living than it is to beg it.—[E. W. Howe's Monthly.

We predict that the coming winter will be the most talkative season we have ever had.

AL HUYBBUB, THE NOISE-MAKER.

The Story of Caliph Hy-Ram and the Thousand and Three Cloaks.

BY RANDOLPH LEIGH.

There was on a time and in a certain age and period, in the land styled the free, a caliph named Hy-Ram, and the place of his temporary residence was Wan-Untum. He had about him scores of fair damsels who chewed of the fruit of the gum tree and made sweet music with the instrument of the scribes and dispatched date seed and harmless missiles to the lowly fellaheen of his distant realm. But he had not been blest, for all his surroundings, with a sense of security, and he reflected upon this, one day, and lamented that the greater part of his term had run out and that another might take away his kingdom, which he had won with mighty words. So the utmost grief and vexation befell him on this account.

Now while he was sitting thus one day, a mameluke from his outer tent came to him and said: "My lord, at the gate is a messenger from a great distance and his look is troubled and he has about him the odor of the tule mists."

Whereat the caliph sighed and said: "Show him in."

And he that entered, yea, a sheik, salaamed before the caliph and said: "My Lord, I bring tidings from thy realm. The fellaheen are in revolt!"

"Those to whom I have given the great bull, and the pasture of undying adjectives and the mirage of ever-fresh promises and the princely bricks of gold—are these in revolt? Look well to thy neck, sheik, if thou speakest falsely, but say on."

"My Lord, they say that thou warrest on them in arming thy camp against ambassadors from other realms now gathered to treat of peace among all the tribes. They say that thou art to blame for the system of heavy tribute and the countless commissions that waste thy own land and mock thy people. They charge that thou sayest to the fellaheen of the bazaars that thou art one of them, and that when with the pashas thou art as one that loves only those who are robed in silk, but that of a truth thou art only concerned for thyself.

"The scrolls whereon the peace yearnings of thy people are written could not be carried by fifty she-camels, and yet thou art reported as warring on those seeking peace. Thy Emir, Stay-Fens, in the great mosque at Sacry-Mentu hath burdened thy people and his Eminences of the Highways make desolate the routes of the caravans from oasis to oasis, so that thy cities suffer. Commissioners and beys and lovers without number of the soft places lay tribute upon thy people and the fellaheen groan and murmur under the tax-gatherers."

And Caliph Hy-Ram said:

"As for peace, let it be unto Abdul Harding and El Hu-Ghez Effendi, even as it was unto Wilson Pasha. As for me and my people, I will pose for them beside this, my tent, which they have given me, and will have photographs made of me in a robe which will please them, and thou shalt take them back to my people and cause them to love their caliph as of old. Which cloak would you prefer?"

And the sheik, who was also a receiver of the baksheesh which the caliph was wont to distribute among the faithful, replied: "My Lord, thou art a man of many cloaks. It is not for one so humble to make the choice."

Then the crafty caliph, turning to the mameluke of the filing system, said:

"Bring out those cloaks in which I have most delighted the people and order the damsels and those who loiter here to sit in judgment on them. These are of the same mind as my people, and what pleases them will suffice also for the fellaheen of my distant realm."

And the mameluke did so.

"This," said the mameluke to the onlookers, "is the cloak of My Lord's Progressiveness that gladdens the heart of the dawn. When a man who is really progressive wears it, he becomes like the rays of the morning. If a dissembler puts it on he becomes invisible and darkness fills the place in which he stood."

"Ah," said the caliph, "I have worn it often and with effect," and he threw it over his shoulders.

"But," said the sheik, "I cannot see My Lord. There is a cloud between me and where he stood."

"Nor can I," said a damsel.

"Nor I," said the others in turn.

Then out of the darkness where the caliph had stood came a voice to his attendant: "Snatch it off and let it not mock me further."

Having removed the cloak, the mameluke emerged with another.

"This," he said to the gum-chewing damsels, who were beginning to titter, "is the cloak of the Prophet Theodore, which has fallen upon my master and fits him as if it were his own."

Whereupon he threw the cloak about him and put a jeweled fez upon his head and stood back. And, behold, the caliph was as one engulfed! The cloak covered him and piled up in folds upon the floor and fold upon fold was about his neck. The fez, whereon in precious stones the likeness of a bull moose was wrought, came down below his chin, so that it was with difficulty that the caliph breathed.

"But, My Lord," said the sheik, "it is a little large for thee, and thy people might not understand."

Once more the damsels tittered and rolled their eyes at the mamelukes of the mailing department and said in a whisper one to another: "Poor man, he cannot fill it."

As for the caliph, he extricated himself from the folds, and said:

"Yet one more cloak and I am certain that I will impress them. Bring forth the robe of forty colors, yea, the cloak of the commissions."

And the mameluke bowed low and said: "My Lord, it is well."

And he came bearing a robe such as man never wore before. On it were forty patches, each more glaring than the other, and all held together by golden threads. The nameplate of the maker, though evidently intended to be hidden, could be read by all beholders, and the letters were these: "POLITICS."

And the caliph drew the robe about him and swelled himself up and walked over toward the window where the evening sun might stream upon him in his glory—and the beholders were amazed!

"Oh, My Lord," said the sheik in an agonizing aside, "I seem to see the eyes of millions of people in thy caliphate, yea, thy fat Caliphornia, looking through at thee, and, My Lord, in it thou standest as one that is naked and exposed utterly."

"Thou are but speaking that thou knowest and not from what thine eyes tell thee," replied the caliph in a whisper. "These who are from my people cannot know these things."

And, turning to the damsels and mamelukes and certain fellaheen who had wandered into his tent, he said:

"Speak out boldly. What see ye?"

"I see, My Lord," said one trembling damsel, "close to two score patches, lurid, squirming, held together with what looks like gold. There are holes in each patch and they alternate thus, one group of holes making the letters WASTE and the other EXTRAVAGANCE. And, My Lord, if I can believe my eyes, it seems that each patch is making way for another patch, more lurid and hungry-mouthed than the one from which it springs."

"I see," said another damsel, who had forgotten to chew of the fruit of the gum tree and who no longer flirted with her mameluke, "I see the coat as if it were a sieve, through which the money of a mighty people is streaming, and little men dip down into it and take all that they can get away with, and still others come and do the same, and all around the people look on in anger."

"And I," said a fellaheen who had drawn so near that his outstretched hand almost touched the caliph, "I see the day of reckoning near for thee."

"Send them away," commanded the caliph.

"But, My Lord," replied the mameluke of the disguises, "thou hast a thousand other robes, dazzling, baffling, carefully woven, valuable to conceal. Use these as thou hast done in the past."

"Nay, but do as I say and send this rabble forth."

And it drew toward dusk. The caliph and the sheik stood before the tent and looked out toward that quiet river, yea, the Poto-Mack. Deep-tinted clouds, like the soft-shod caravans of Allah, moved across the sky.

"I hear a far-off sound as of many voices," said the caliph.

"My Lord, it is the countless multitude of those who are demanding peace."

And the caliph went back into his tent, and covered his face with his hands, and was afraid.

THE DOCTOR BOOK.

"Don't eat that pie," I say to Freddy; "don't eat that cake," I say to Jane; "the doctor book declares, already, that such a diet is insane." The doctor book I highly cherish, it reeks with wisdom unalloyed, and it predicts that kids will perish who fill with pies their aching void. "Don't eat that jam," I say to Sammy, "or I'll apply corrective gad; this volume says that rhubarb clammy is better for a growing lad." The man who wrote the book was clever, but down on human joy, I fear; it seems he's saying "Don't" forever and darkening some young career. "Don't drink fresh milk," I say to Lizzie; "don't eat those prunes," I say to James; "this volume says they'll make you dizzy and undermine your growing frames." The kids are always being chidden, to sage advice there is no end; the things they like are all forbidden, the things they hate we recommend. And wise old lads are always writing big books on "How to Train Our Boys," where everything that's uninviting is given as a cure for joys. I read the volume and deliver its message to the kids, unspoiled; I say, "Don't swim in yonder river until the water has been boiled. If children would not come a cropper they must obey their sires, gadzook; and when you don't know what is proper, ask me and I'll consult the book."

AIN'T IT JUST SO?

Professor Dink Beeson says he Saw a picture the other day of
The arch that is to commemorate
The hundred years of peace that
We have known with Canada, and
He guesses the arch that Trajan
Built required the labor of more
Men, but the men that built our
Arch were free, and the pyramid
That Cheops built went higher
Up in the air, but our arch has
A broader foundation, that of Mutual trust and tolerance, and
The ancients used to brag about
How far away the Colossus of
Rhodes might be seen, but ours
Must have been seen further, for
How far away the Colossus of
Old must have been privileged
To see it with the eyes of the Spirit what time they spoke
From out their vineclad hills
Of Palestine and said "They Shall not learn war any more."

THREL FALL.

REFUSED THE PRINCE'S TIP.

Prince Joachim Albrecht, notorious for his restaurant adventures, has had another experience at the Hotel Adlon, which he has avoided since he was fined eighteen months ago for assaulting a French officer.

Most of the Berlin restaurants are closed owing to the waiters' strike, and the Prince was compelled to dine at the Adlon. When he paid the bill he left a tip for the waiter, who said, "Please take your money back. You insult me by the offer."

The Prince answered: "Take the money. You do not know who I am." Whereupon the waiter replied: "Because I know you I consider it an insult."

The Prince jumped up and made as if to strike the waiter. Then he turned around and hurried out, crimson in the face with anger.—[From the London Express.

It Never Rains But It "Pores."

A wild looking individual rushed into the dentist's office and confronted him with: "Do they give a fellow gas here? Honest, now, tell me."

"Yes, sir," said the dentist.

"Can a fellow feel anything at all when he takes it?"

"No."

"Well, I'll take it."

"All right, sir; which tooth?"

"Tooth be hanged! I want you to take off a porous plaster."—[Science and Invention.

PATIENTS TO SEE FILM.

California Hospital Inmates will Have Show Brought to Them.

Inmates of the California Hospital are hereafter to have motion-picture entertainment, despite their temporary incapacity to visit the picture houses themselves. Arrangements have been made by Marshall Neilan, producer, to bring a portable projector to the hospital at 7:15 p.m., this evening, when his latest film play, "Bits of Life," will be shown before an audience of patients who probably have not seen a motion picture for weeks.

The portable projector will be operated by Wesley Barry, the actor, who has promised to entertain the patients.

HEAVY INHERITANCE TAX AGAINST ESTATE.

The office of State Controller Riley, through Edwin P. Werner, inheritance tax attorney for Southern California, yesterday received notice of the assessment of a tax of $179,076.67 against the estate of John B. Roby, who died in this city Feb. 21, 1920. The will of Mr. Roby, who was unmarried, was executed, according to the records, some fifteen days prior to his death and disposes of stocks, notes, bonds and real property amounting in the aggregate to almost $2,000,000. More than $1,000,000 of this total was invested in stocks and half as much more in bonds. Division of the estate is made, in the form of annuities and life inheritances, between ten heirs of Mr. Roby, including a cousin, nieces and nephews and the children of the latter.

Wholesale Druggist Here Protests City License Tax on Liquor Business.

When the famous Mr. Volstead and his act whirled into action, the wholesale liquor dealers were knocked out of business and the work they were doing was automatically thrust on the wholesale druggists, L. D. Sale of the Western Wholesale Drug Company told the members of the Finance Committee of the City Council yesterday afternoon. And, said Mr. Sale, the wholesale druggists do not like the business which was thus "wished upon them."

"It is not profitable," said Mr. Sale, "and requires such minute care in the matter of permits, in handling the orders that come to us from retail druggists, that I am sure that we should be glad to have the government take the job off our hands and do its own distributing of liquor for medicinal purposes to retail druggists."

Mr. Sale was protesting against a license tax by the city of $250 a month on the liquor business of wholesale druggists, and said that if the city imposes it, he will surrender his liquor-selling permit to the government.

Mr. Sale's statement was made at the opening of a hearing between representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and members of the Finance Committee of the Council, in the matter of proposed readjustments of the occupational or business license tax. Because of the absence of President Criswell, a member of the committee, the conference was postponed until next Monday afternoon

HUNT MISSING YOUTH, GONE SINCE TUESDAY.

Missing since Tuesday morning, when he left his home, at 411 Isabel street, ostensibly for school, Milton Graves, 16 years of age, is sought by his parents and the police. Mr. and Mrs. Graves say they think the youth joined a trio of Kansas City boys, whom he met here Sunday, and is endeavoring to earn enough money to take him out of town. The youth is five feet, six inches tall; has dark hair and blue eyes. He limps and wears a brace on his right foot,

POLICE SEARCHING FOR MISSING GIRL.

FATHER REPORTS DAUGHTER STARTED TO SCHOOL AND VANISHED ON WAY.

Mysteriously missing from her home since Wednesday morning, Lillian Brattin, 15 years of age, of 1033 North Broadway, was sought by the police yesterday. The girl was reported missing by her father, W. N. Brattin.

According to Mr. Brattin, his daughter left her home Wednesday morning for school and failed to arrive at the school or return to her home. She had $1.25 in her purse when she disappeared.

Mr. Brattin notified the police yesterday that several times within the past month his daughter had been molested by a young man who followed her from the school to her home. Twice the stranger spoke to the young girl and once offered her a ride in his automobile.

TEN DAYS UNIT IN SANTA ANA.

Marriage Lasted as Long as Term for Speeders, Divorce Suit Shows.

Ten days is what Santa Ana jurists generally give speeders, but the custom is not supposed to apply to marriages as well. Anyway, yesterday Calvin A. Eaton sued Marjorie Knapp Eaton for divorce, stating that the union, which was formed on Elopement Lane in Santa Ana, lasted but ten days after Nov. 11, 1919. Mrs. Eaton is said to have left and is now in the East.

DECISION DEFERRED IN MALIBU ACTION.

JUDGE TO VISIT ROAD OVER WHICH RINDGE INTERESTS AND COUNTY BATTLE.

Decision on the suit brought by the Marblehead Land Company to compel the county to construct a certain type of road across the Malibu ranch, as, it is charged, the county agreed to do, was withheld by Superior Judge McCormick yesterday after four days' of argument by attorneys for the Rindge interests and the county. The court stated that he would render his decision on the 25th inst., at 5 p.m.

The Marblehead Company, through its attorneys, former Judge Grant Jackson, Nathan Newby and William H. Anderson, is attempting to compel the county to build a standard highway through the Rindge properties in the Malibu region. It is charged that contrary to the county's agreement, which called for a fence and a twenty-foot road along the beach, a narrow road was built with no fences, and only insecure wooden bridges.

Judge McCormick stated that he will visit the highway before he makes his decision. He refused the offer of the attorneys for both sides to accompany him on the trip.

More than 100 volumes of citations and references were brought to court by each side to prove their contentions. It is said to be the largest display of books used in a case in many years.

SEEKS HUGE DAMAGES ON SLANDER CHARGE.

FORMER EMPLOYEE OF REALTY FIRM ASSERTS HE WAS FALSELY ACCUSED.

Suits against the members of the Shipley-Harrell-Trapp Company, real estate dealers, asking damages aggregating $75,000, were filed yesterday by Benjamin H. Woodcock, formerly in the employ of the company.

The complaint, prepared by Attroney, V. H. Koenig declares that the defendants slandered him.

M. C. Trapp is charged with having said January 15 last:

"Ben Woodcock stole an automobile from us. He is a leech and a parasite, and lived with us for six months, doing nothing."

A. L. Shipley is charged with having stated in the offices of the First National Bank of Venice:

"Mr. Woodcock stole an automobile from Shipley-Harrell-Trapp Company and also some money."

On last January 1, Mr. Shipley stated, according to the complaint, that "Mr. Woodcock stole an automobile from us and for that reason we discontinued his services."

The charge against O. J. Harrell is that he said:

"Mr. Woodcock stole an automobile and $2000 from us."

This is asserted to have been said in the presence of a woman. Mr. Woodcock declares that this woman paid him $200 while he was in the employ of the defendant company and that he turned the money into the treasury of the company.

The complaint says the statements purported to have been made are false and malicious. A demand of $25,000 damages is made in each of the three suits.

MAKING .. IT .. AN .. EARLY .. CHRISTMAS.

Needlework Guild Workers Busy at Their Headquarters.

DISTRIBUTING nearly 25,000 new garments among sixty-five charity organizations in this city, the Los Angeles branch of the Needlework Guild of America, made it an early Christmas by closing its November campaign here yesterday. The work was conducted under the direction of Mrs. Boyle Workman, and its scope was broader than in any previous year since its inauguration, it was stated.

The garments were sorted into packs yesterday by women who have been taking part in the campaign, and were sent to the various charity organizations from the basement of the Scottish Rite Cathedral. The Los Angeles Transfer Company delivered all of them free of charge, the committee stated.

Mrs. Workman said last night that the Los Angeles branch was third in the United States last year from standpoint of the number of garments distributed, and since this year's distribution far exceeds that of last season, she hopes Los Angeles will rank second in Guild activities.

According to the committee, the work is conducted on a nonsectarian basis, and donations of new garments are obtained by women working in four sections. These sections call upon private individuals, clubs, churches and business men. The needs of the various charities are learned through questionnaires, which are sent out early in the fall, and in purchasing the garments the guild keeps these needs in mind.

BELLBOY BACK HOME FROM TRIP ABROAD.

SAYS VISIT TO EUROPE HAS MADE HIM REALIZE HAPPINESS HERE.

James Leggett, bellboy No. 18, after a six months' visit to Europe, accompanied by his wife and two children, is back on the job which he has held at the Rosslyn Hotel for seven years.

"We saved a long, long time for the trip, but it was worth every shilling and franc it cost just to find out what a rtuly wonderful place Los Angeles is," he said yesterday. "I believe the happiness father and mother and my wife's father and mother were the object of our trip to England—just to see them again, for seven years had passed since either of us had been back. Now they all want to come.

"My wife had four brothers in action in the World War and they all came through alive. They say they were saved to come to California. As an example of conditions in England, I have three sisters, each of whom is engaged to be married, but none of them can get married because it is impossible to find a place for a home.

"Accommodations are very bad. I would rather be a bell hop in California with my wife and kiddies than an M.P. on the other side. Happiness is all that counts and California has a corner on the market."

COUNCIL DEALS BLOW TO TAXICAB OWNERS.

BILL TO LEGALIZE STANDS IN CONGESTED DISTRICT IS PIGEONHOLED.

The City Council, by its action yesterday afternoon in agreeing as a committee of the whole to pigeonhole a request of the Board of Public Untilities to legalize the standing of taxicabs throughout the day until 4 p.m., dealt a business blow at more than 175 taxicab owners who have stands in the congested district of the city. The present Board of Public Utilities permits for these stands will expire January 1 and unless the City Council changes its position before that date, no new permits will be issued.

This action by the City Council will make illegal after January 1 the long rows of for hire automobiles which have stands on the west side of Hill street at Pershing Square, as well as stands along Spring street near Fifth and Sixth streets, and those in other parts of the downtown section.

The Board of Public Utilities will, after January 1, issue permits only for taxicab stands in places outside of the congested district.

After January 1, it will be necessary to telephone for a taxicab, or to hail one as it cruises along the street or as it is temporarily anchored along a downtown street.

STEPHENS FOR BONUS. JAPANESE EXCLUSION.

Gov. Stephens outlined his position regarding soldier legislation last night before 200 members of the Western Avenue Business Association, of which he was guest of honor at the organization's monthly dinner. The Governor declared himself favorable to the soldier bonus movement, defended the cost of administering the affairs of the State government and reiterated his stand for Japanese exclusion. President Bering of the association, who introduced the Governor, closed the meeting with a plea for a more active continuation of work on the organization's part in behalf of the Western-avenue business district.

ANSWERED LETTERS.

Mary: "Is there any book I could purchase by mail that would tell me how to make all kinds of candies and bonbons at home—including chocolate creams?"

Answer: Send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I will send you the name of such a book, together with the name of its publisher. Then you can write to the publisher, inquiring the price of the book plus the parcel postage you would have to pay on it.

A Soldier's Mother: "Is there any way that I can keep my boy's letters, written to me when he was fighting in France during the war, from fading or blurring out? They were all written in pencil and I prize them so much. Some day I may have a daughter-in-law and grandchildren who will also want to keep them."

A.: Yes, you can preserve their original state by this simple method: Boil a kettleful of clear water until steam is coming from the spout with a rush. Hold one sheet of the letters at a time in the cloud of steam, turning it all ways so that every part of the writing is steamed. When the page feels quite limp, pin it up for a few minutes. Then mix ½ cup of milk and ½ cup of cold water together in a bowl and, with a soft brush, spread this milk-and-water mixture over the surface of the letter. The letter must lie flat on a table while you do this. Hang the letter up, then, until it is almost dry. Then place it between two large sheets of white blotting paper, with books heaped on top to weight down. I know just how precious those letters must be to you. Many mothers are framing them.

Reader: "I have a cousin who lives in a near-by city and works in a cleaning estblishment. She frequently has to clean gloves, collars, ribons, etc., by hand and she is troubled by the odor of gasoline which remains on the hands even long after she has touched gasoline. When her gentleman friend takes her out in the evening she is embarrassed by this clinging odor. What can she do?"

A.: A handful of ordinary table salt rubbed on the hands after using gasoline, will take away the odor. I would advise your cousin to keep a jar of salt at her place of business, and beside it a bottle filled with either bran-water or oatmeal-water. The salt removes the odor of gasoline and the oatmeal or bran-water applied to the hands immediately after using salt, keeps the skin from becoming irritated from the salt.

D. R.: "Kindly repeat your recently published recipe for dill pickles. I missed it."

A.: To put up one quart of dill pickles: Fill a glass jar with cucumbers the size of a finger and between them sprinkle a few dill seeds. When the jar is filled, add 1 tablespoon of salt and pour cold water into the jar till full. Put more dill seed on top of pickles and a few grape tendrils if you have them, then seal air-tight. Each day put the closed jars in the sun. The water will get cloudy and then, in time, it will clear again—then the pickles are ready for use.

Tomorrow—Planning the Thanksgiving Dinner.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman, in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department, will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be inclosed with the question.—The Editor.

SAN DIEGO WOMAN TO BE PRESIDENT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA ANA, Nov. 17.—Mrs. F. W. Haman of San Diego, is to be named the next president of the Southern District of the California Federation of Woman's Clubs, it was made known here today, following the announcement late yesterday of the resignation of Mrs. A. Wohleford of Escondido, present executive.

Mrs. Haman was named by the executive board as the successor to Mrs. Wohleford and this appointment is expected to be confirmed at the next session of the executive board at Riverside, December 15. Mrs. Wohleford's resignation is due to take effect at that time. The illness of Mrs. Wohleford's husband, who is a banker at Escondido, is the reason given for her resignation.

Tomorrow morning will be the close of the three-day session at which more than 500 women have been in attendance. Excursions to Lemon Heights near Santa Ana and other points of interest as well as boat rides on Newport Harbor are to be features of the final day.

Last night the ladies enjoyed a banquet at St. Ann's Inn. Speeches and an evening of especial interest and enjoyment were featured.

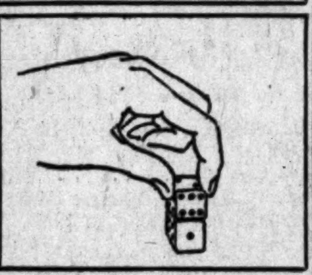
Recruits will be sought for service in Hawaii with the Nineteenth Pursuit Squadron, and the Twenty-third Bombardment Squadron. Men without previous military service will be accepted, it was announced, but men with dependent relatives will not. The party, will be under charge of Sergt. Wilson of March Field. It will remain only the one day.

After-Dinner Tricks



No. 6—The Magnetized Dice.

A pair of dice are taken and the five side of one placed against the five side of the other. This causes the dice to become magnetized, so that they adhere to each other. It will not work when any other sides are used and the spectators are unable to do it at all.

The trick is accomplished by secretly moistening the five side of one dice. When the dice are placed together they will adhere. When they are drawn apart the thumb quickly wipes off the moisture. Of course, it will work with any sides of the dice, but by laying the "magnetic power" to "peculiar properties" of the five side, suspicion is drawn from the real secret.

The Daily Fun Hour.

BY HONOR WALSH.

BOTANY BAY.

This is an English country game, the origin of which may be traced to the "tansportation" of punishments of the eighteenth century.

Here comes the Old Soldier from Botany Bay;

Have you any garments to give him today?

The player questioned must reply with neither yes nor no. Other forbidden words are black, white and gray. Thus, a player may answer: "I have a brown coat for you," or "I have a plaid overcoat," or "a green suit." As men do not wear red, purple or yellow suits, these colors are taboo for all but sweaters, ties and socks—and even these must be of such colors as men are likely to wear. The Old Soldier may vary his question, asking for hats, coats, belts, etc., always with the prefix, "Have you—?" Players who answer thoughtlessly with yes or no, or who put any tabooed color into their answers, are required to pay forfeit.

If the Old Soldier changes off to requests for food, he alters the forbidden colors to suit provisions, not permitting the players, for instance, to use the words white, red, yellow, sweet or fresh in their answers. It is understood that an adjective must be introduced, such as crusty bread, tender steak, ripe apples, etc. This is a very dramatic game when the Old Soldier can act a little, as he is supposed to bend over, carry a stick and limp as he makes his requests in the quavering tones of feeble old age.

HURLS DEFI AT "PAVING TRUST" MEN

Mallard Reopens Battle Against Forcing Street Work Over Protests.

The battle to resist the efforts of "Paving Trust" lobbyists to force through street improvements over the protests of majority property owners was renewed yesterday in the City Council. This time Councilman Mallard hurled a defi or two at the paving contractors. Councilman Conaway had recently tackled the "Paving Trust" lobby in the matter of the attempted paving of Lyon street, in the Plaza depot industrial district, over the protests of majority property owners.

Councilman Mallard's ire was aroused yesterday when four street improvement petitions were presented by minority owners for the Los Angeles Harbor district, and each calling for paving the streets with patented pavement which is controlled by contractors who are members of the so-called "Paving Trust," which maintains a paid lobby at the City Hall. Councilman Mallard accused the Council of ordering work done under minority petitions. In many of these cases, said Councilman Mallard, majority protests were subsequently filed, and the city was forced to abandon proceedings and pay preliminary costs. The matter of paving the Los Angeles Harbor streets was referred to the Council's Public Works Committee.

Nabs Reputed Swindler; Says Hunted Year.

After having searched the city streets for almost a year for an automobile salesman charged by him with having swindled him out of $800, H. A. Bodine late yesterday afternoon found the man he accuses at Sixth street and Broadway and held him until the police arrived.

At Central Police Station the prisoner, who gave the name of G. Farhnam, 30 years of age, was questioned by Police Detectives Hamilton and Smith. He denied knowing Mr. Bodine and stated that he was guilty of no crime.

Mr. Bodine informed the detectives that almost a year ago Farhnam sold him an automobile for $800 cash. Some time later the car was claimed by an automobile firm and papers were produced to show that Farhnam had purchased the machine on contract payments and then sold it without completing the installments. The machine was returned to the company and Mr. Bodine was forced to accept his loss of $800.

The Wohlfelds were married in Minneapolis Sept. 27, 1916, and separated in New York, Jan. 27, 1919, the complaint states. Mrs. Wohlfeld is represented by Attorney Fay Robertson.

MICE PHENOMENAL JUMPERS

Mice can make people jump. Can they jump themselves?

The answer is in the affirmative, and, according to an incident related by F. C. (Halifax,) they are real darbs at it. The other day he came upon a mouse on a six-foot wall. The mouse ran away, and, finding no means of gradual descent, took its life in its hands, and jumped to the ground. The ground was a hard-beaten footpath, and, to the astonishment of my correspondent, the little creature alighted without injury, and scuttled away for all it was worth.

"A mouse's leg will be barely one-eighth of an inch thick," concludes F. C., "and if we work the incident out proportionately we find the little creature's jump equivalent to that of a man at over 131 feet. Imagine a man taking a sheer donward leap of 131 feet, alighting on a hard surface, and running off uninjured!"

I am not sure whether F. C.'s formula is correct, but I agree with him that his little mouse certainly was some jumper!—[London Answers.

HOLIDAY SPIRITS SEPARATE PAIR.

Suing Wife Says Husband Celebrated by Booze an. Family Rows.

Apparently Martin J. Flynn's idea of a holiday celebration was to become intoxicated and have a family row, for yesterday in a divorce action filed by Ruth D. Flynn, it is recited that the epoch-making events of their married life occurred on St. Patrick's Day, Easter and Armistice Day.

In her complaint, which was prepared by Attorneys Rosecrans and Emme, it is stated that on St. Patrick's Day Mr. Flynn came home with two friends, all drunk, and that a family row resulted that rocked the neighborhood. Then on Easter Sunday Mr. Flynn packed his suit case and said he was leaving, but he came back the next day. On Armistice Day, when the rest of the world was celebrating peace, the couple separated. They were married on June 19, 1918.

NEW STAGE TROUPE IS AMONG US.

Two Directors, Horse and Seven Actors Arrive Here in Special Car.

The Vagabond Marionettes, a theatrical troupe consisting of two stage directors, seven puppet actors and a stage horse, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday, prepared to sign up with local impresarios for a successful winter season. Their heavy baggage—one trunk—was unloaded from their special car—one flivver—and stored at their new headquarters, 4137 Sunset Drive.

The troupe includes Miss Helen Peabody of Boston, and Miss Vera Pilat of Santa Barbara, also seven very accomplished actors. Their repertoire consists of a series of serio-comic dramas, written especially for the Vagabond Marionettes, by Miss Peabody, who is a recent graduate of Radcliffe College. The actors and their costumes, as well as the stage horse, are the creations of the deft fingers and active imaginations of Miss Peabody and Miss Pilat.

The Vagabond Marionettes have just finished a season of private and public appearances in Santa Barbara, where the puppets, manipulated by strings from the top of the miniature stage, entertained hundreds of children and adults. A number of performances were also staged at the St. Francis Hotel, and elsewhere in San Francisco.

Aside from her puppet-dramatic work, Miss Peabody is interested in painting.

At 7 p.m. Dr. Frederick Beckman of the southern branch of the University of California, will conduct in room 416, Baker-Detwiler Building, a class for beginners in Spanish. William Gilmore Beymer, at 7 o'clock, in room 828, Pacific Finance Building, will give the opening lecture of the course in advanced scenario writing. This class is limited to thrty-five members.

SPEEDERS GIVEN NEW HANDICAPS

Four More Motorcyclemen for Force Which Runs Down Traffic Violators.

Four motorcycle officers will be added to the county squad as a result of action taken by the Board of Supervisors yesterday, when a committee representing the Motor Car Dealers' Association, the Automobile Club of Southern California and the Associated Automobile Editors requested a larger squad for the further curbing of reckless driving.

The committee also suggested that an open patrol rather than a trap be used. The trap does not prevent fast driving, but the open patrol might, it was stated. The Supervisors decided to maintain the trap system, but the highways also will be patrolled. More of the officers will be in plain clothes. An automobile will be supplied in addition to the motorcycles.

It is now up to speed fiends and reckless drivers to keep their weather eye out for traps along the highways, for plain-clothes men and for officers in an automobile.

Fail to Solve Deserted Truck Mystery Here.

Who owned the truckload of furniture found by the police yesterday in a vacant lot in the 3300 block on Council street?

Police Detectives Posner and Adams worked all day yesterday trying to find out and failed.

In their written report the detectives declared that they were notified by persons living in the neighborhood that a two-ton truck loaded with furniture, ranging from the fence for a chicken yard to beds, was standing on Council street.

The officers learned that the truck had been standing fully loaded for two days and nights in the same spot. No one had been near the furniture, according to reports. The truck is registered to R. W. Diddock of Visalia.

TAX OF MILLIONAIRE'S WIDOW IS SUBMITTED.

An order fixing at approximately $92,000 the inheritance tax of Ellie R. Frees, widow of a millionaire lumberman, who died in San Diego May 28 of last year, was yesterday submitted by the office of the State Controller, Ray L. Riley, to the Superior Court of San Diego county. The order is a reversal, by the State Supreme Court, of the decision of the Superior Court of San Diego county as to the amount of community property involved in the widow's inheritance of $933,301.47. As originally construed, the taxable property of Mrs. Frees would have yielded but $15,000 to the State. In his will, Capt. Frees, a veteran of the Civil War, who had resided in Southeern California for the last eleven years, bequeathed $100,000 each to the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. of San Diego; $50,000 was left to the Y.M.C.A. of McCook, Neb., the former home of the Frees family.

ARRESTED AS FORGER.

Following the swearing out of a warrant signed by Postoffice Inspector Sharon, Edward H. Hicks has been taken into custody at Pasadena and will be arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Long this morning, charged with having, on October 27, forged the signature of J. B. Alexander, postmaster at Tapicitoes, N. M., to money orders aggregating $257.

This little bit of advice may help you to regain your Health, Strength and Vitality

Thousands of people suffer from nervousness. They are run down and miserable without knowing the reason why.

The People and Their Daily Troubles

Elizabeth Jordan's Column.

THE BRIDE'S PUPIL.

It was clear to everyone who observed them as they entered the big hotel dining-room that they were bride and groom. They were very young, very self-conscious, very much in love and very unsophisticated. Their clothes were extremely plain and not very well-fitting, but they were shiningly new—as new as the bride's wedding ring, which, obviously, had been put on her finger that day. She was extremely pretty. The groom was a big, good-humored, awkward chap with a country air. With crimson faces and eyes straight ahead, they followed the head waiter down the long aisle and to a table. Here they sank limply but gladly into their chairs and exchanged one long, eloquent look of mutual sympathy and hope.

JUST DAZED YOUNG THINGS.

It had been awful, the look seemed to say, but surely the worst was over now. Surely, now, they could eat their dinner and be forgotten by the brilliant gathering in this strange, new world they had strayed into. But they were wrong. Already a waiter was placing before each of them a long, engraved menu. There were dozens and dozens of different dishes upon it, most of which the newlyweds had never heard of. Neither of them knew how to meet this new demand.

The bride glanced expectantly at the bridegroom. The bridegroom took out his handkerchief and wiped his face, which was very red and hot.

Then he picked up the menu and for five minutes gazed upon it with unseeing eyes.

SIMPLE WEDDING DINNER.

"Roast beef!" he ejaculated at last, hoarsely.

"Yes sir," said the waiter. "What else, sir?"

"Mashed potatoes." As the waiter still lingered, he added, desperately, "Tha's all!"

The waiter turned to the bride.

"Perhaps the lady ——," he began. But the lady quickly shook her head.

"No," she said. "I'll—I'll have just the same as he has."

The waiter moved majestically away. The bridegroom again wiped his face and gazed stonily into the distance. The bride gazed at the couples at tables near hers. She observed that her fellow-guests were eating oysters on the half shell, soup served in silver tureens, broiled chicken, asparagus, hot-house peas, sherbets, salads of all kinds, and delicious desserts of every variety. One man at the table across from her had ordered as his simple dessert, peach pie, pineapple ice cream and hot-house grapes—the grapes served under a foam of shaved ice. Perhaps she already knew that each dinner served at that hotel cost $4. Certainly she knew that she and her young husband were not getting all they were entitled to, and the corners of her pretty mouth suddenly drooped like those of a hurt and hungry baby.

Those Table Manners.

The roast beef and mashed potatoes were promptly served. The young husband seized his knife, filled its blade with potatoes, and began to shovel it into his mouth. For a few moments the bride, whose table manners were self-conscious but correct, did not observe him. When she did a look of absolute horror came to her face. She grew crimson and laid down her fork. For a moment she hesitated, but after this brief reflection, she daintily finished her roast beef and potatoes.

Their dinner was over in less than half an hour. The bridegroom rose, grinned a sheepishly at his bride, and clumped down the aisle, the little bride vainly trying to keep up with his long strides.

Presto, Change.

We did not see them again until the next evening, when they were escorted to the same table, as on the night before. We had then watched them sympathetically. Now we looked for a repetition of the little tragedy. But tonight all was different.

The bride took the menu. She ordered for them both, oyster cocktails, cream of tomatoe soup, chicken-a-la king, pineapple fritters, fresh vegetables, raspberry sherbert, lobster salad vanilla ice cream with chocolate sauce, cake and coffee. When the food came and the groom brought his knife into action she smiled and raised her eyebrows and he hurriedly seized his fork. When he reached across himself to seize his coffee cup with his left hand something in her expression checked him. But he was happy. He beamed at her ecstatically. In one day she had learned everything, he decided. He needn't worry anymore. She would see him through!

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

Beautiful, That's All.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The press is crammed today with disarmament talk and the public, hysterical after Wall street propaganda, loudly proclaims for disarmament and universal peace through its mediums of women's clubs, civic leagues and such like. But does this public realize why the United States sponsors disarmament and the effect it will have upon the world?

A beautiful idea, or rather idealism, but it is not practical and is founded and bred in deceit. First Wall street is the "Man behind the screen." Financiers fearful of the nonpayment of the Allied war debt see by disarmament and abandonment of warcraft construction a chance for the United States to regain her money. An excellent economic idea but also putting Uncle Sam in the role of a pawnbroker.

Now the effects of disarmament upon the world and civilization. The start of the Greek-Roman civilization began with pacifism, idealism and feminism. We are treading that path. Also it must be remembered that the colored races outnumber their white cousins three to one and are physically stronger. Already they are overpopulated and seek expansion. Expand they must and with disarmament what will be the outcome? It will be Germany on a larger scale. The war with her was inevitable. She was a country teeming over with talent and restricted energy. She was denied the privilege of colonizing in the quiet, sane manner of England and chose a wrong course. She should have taken her natural outlet, Russia, i.e., Siberia, which would have been in accordance with natural laws, the subjection of a primitive people by those more progressed.

Disarmament is also impractical from this view, differences of temperament, nations like individuals are different in vision, mentality and temperament. There will always be differences between nations as with individuals. Wars are inevitable, blood letting is good and a stoppage of wars will be a direct hindrance to progress. We have progressed during and after every war. All wars with the few exception of eastern religious wars are fought over economic or trade reasons. The world cannot live without barter, hence we will always have wars. I am no prophet but clear, sane reasoning backed by facts of history shows the futility of disarmament.

GEORGE Z. KANEFELL.

No Going Back.

COVINA, Nov. 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I have just finished my day's work of fourteen hours, then sat down to read The Times, and somewhere in the news columns—I shall not turn back to look it up again, as it's now 9 p.m.—but it was so interesting that I must reply, even though it be to the waste-basket. Prof. Batcave says it will take us twenty years to get back to where we were before the war. Now if it's going to take that long, let's don't go. It would be like going from California back to "Arkansaw," anyway, and we would never stay back. That's too much time to waste. Life is too short. It's human nature to want to go back to the old "swimming-hole" and to the "old oaken bucket." But, as a rule, when we get back and get the old bucket poised on the curb, then it occurs to us that almost any old goblet would tempt up to leave it. And we always find the old swimming-hole full of tadpoles. Even a Chinaman will go back. Now, if we want to get something for nothing, let's go to China.

This talk of getting back to prewar times is only habit. No one really wants to get back; it's just the habit of talking nonsense because others chatter nonsense. Certainly it takes more money to float us now than was required at the close of the nineteenth century. The circulation must now be stronger because there are more people. It takes more water to irrigate 110,000,000 trees than is required for 80,000,000 trees. True, the trees may live on a reduced circulation, but we are not proud to show people our dried-up, stunted orchard.

Surely we don't want to reduce the circulation of money and produce a nation of ragamuffins such as we were in 1890.

I have observed that whales in the ocean enjoy rain. A good, strong circulation refreshens and gives new life everywhere. The profiteer never worries me. I am glad we have him. I never got a drop of the war cream, but am glad to see others get it. Let 'em keep on swimming; I don't care for cream, anyway. Let's all look at it that way.

Sidewalks Crowded.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 18.—[To the Editor of The Times:] With "free-ride" touters occupying the center of the sidewalks, and professional beggars sprawled on the edges, the pedestrian has very little room. This is the case, especially if he wishes to dodge these noisome nuisances who jump in front of him and insist upon reeling off their invitations to "go with us today" and get a hot-dog dinner, free. They stand in the stairways and jump out in front of the hurrying pedestrian, and he must walk around them. Then, an insulting remark is frequently made as he passes through the crowd of solicitors. There are usually three or four in a bunch, each shouting the same story, and each in turn shoving a greengoods circular into the hands of the possible victim. If these fellows do not pay taxes, it is an injustice to real estate men who pay office rent and advertise their business, legitimately, in the newspapers. But, whether they pay taxes or not, they should be driven from the streets. They block the sidewalks, which are very much overcrowded, and their persistent solicitations looks bad for the city.

As to the beggars, two or three to the block, they should be sent to the hospitals. The taxpayers maintain these institutions for their benefit—that is, for those who are really deserving of aid. To permit them to beg on the streets is a detriment to the city, and the money given them by the public is a double taxation.

J. M. SCANLAND.

Everybody Get In.

PASADENA, Nov. 15.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Why not form people's world disarmament clubs in every country in the world to bring pressure on representatives if presure is needed, and to co-operate with the representatives if pressure is not needed?

It is safe to assume that the majority of the peoples of the world want permanent peace. They why should they not have it?

The people are the principals, the officials their representatives. They should truly represent. The officials who do not represent the will of the people in this cause will not survive politically.

By charging one dollar dues in these clubs yearly hundreds of millions of dollars could be raised annually for peace. However, compulsory dues should not, perhaps, be charged; after the individual becomes a member he will voluntarily want to subscribe or lend his aid in some way by writing representatives or otherwise.

Counting property destroyed, producers killed, etc., this late war cost more than the world can bear again.

The next war might be one of chemicalized extermination. A Prussianized Russia allied with Japan is a possibility, but of course not a present probability.

Private citizens, of course, do not know the difficulties encountered to gain disarmament, but we do know that as property owners and as fathers and mothers and Christians, we want wars abolished.

Militarists hold the views that wars have existed for so long that they cannot be abolished quickly; they hold that the armament and war machine creates jobs and industry—but they do not tell us that wars cause high taxes and pay no dividends.

The same money invested in good roads, development of rivers, harbors, draining of swamps, watering of arid lands, would not only create jobs, but would actually pay dividends and would not create taxes that bankrupt the world. The peace industries, are not only better economically, but from a humanitarian standpoint. Peace is constructive; wars destructive.

War or thought of impending war puts a damper on ambition? Why strive for success to be taxed or killed for war? Why raise children and educate them to have them plucked off by war; especially wars of conquest? A war against invasion has some justification.

America's representatives are a fine lot of men and citizens should write and telegraph them their support; they need support and letters from taxpayers are effective. David Starr Jordan says: "The most effective pressure is to write direct to the representatives."

As long as there are high taxes caused by war land owners cannot lower rents, and rents are a link in our financial chain.

Disarmament can be accomplished. It is said Collis P. Huntington's motto was "What ought to be done can be done." The difficulties can be removed even if we have to buy them off. It is cheaper, for instance, from a financial standpoint and otherwise to buy Japan an island to colonize on (if she really needs to expand) than to fight her.

It would seem bad business to let debtors cancel our loans to them. The United States should use her great influence on the other nations for permanent peace while she is the creditor nation. We are in a position we may never experience again. We should make a supreme effort.

It looks like if Germany was not punished by the sword she should not be exempt economically—that is, we should not have to adjust our affairs to the German mark.

Bryan says, "Peace is normal, war abnormal." Henry Ford says: "Peace is no longer an ideal, but an economic necessity."

If we remember rightly, Senator Capper writes that: "One-tenth of our time in United States has been spent in war, and nine-tenths of our national expenditure has gone for war."

If this conference fails will the people take another conference seriously? Of will they rise up in dead earnest and tell their representatives all over the world to do their will?

The people all over the world (and Jordan says they are in Japan) are in dead earnest for disarmament, and if politicians and diplomats and officials cannot accomplish, the people certainly can by forming world disarmament clubs.

War is a sin, and against God's teachings. The Kaiser remarked: "I hope God is on my side." Abraham Lincoln prayed, "I hope we are on God's side." Peace is on God's side.

Pray for it; write for it; give for it. Do not be selfish, that is, if you have good ideas write them to your paper, even if you think it will hurt you to have your name in print.

Styles change quickly. Peace is modern, wars antique. We gave up the horse and buggy for the motor car; coal-oil lights for electric lights. The grumblings we hear about prohibition today remind one of the rumblings of distant thunder after rain; soon you will hear no more of it.

Football Talk.

IOWA CITY (Iowa) Nov. 11.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Mr. W. Sampson's article in your paper dated October 23, making an appeal for the Yale football team to play the California team in Pasadena on New Year's Day and referring to the Iowa football team and the Iowa State University in very slighting terms should "See America First" and then express his opinion.

First of all, he would be greatly in the minority, as an easterner, in watching a football game in California, which is made up largely of people who have made money in Iowa and moved to California to retire.

What Mr. Sampson does not know about Iowa and its State University and its football team would doubtless fill a book.

The Mid-West and western football teams are passing up many of the eastern football teams as would a passenger train pass up a "hobo."

As for Iowa University, let it be known that this great university has graduated railroad presidents, judges of the Supreme Court, nominees for President of the United States and, in fact, men in many walks of life too numerous to mention, who are helping to make this country a real democracy. Iowa University has over 6000 students, larger than the combination of two prominent universities in the East. Has a medical college which ranks third in the United States. Oh, well, what's the use—"where ignorance is bliss it is folly to be wise." The salt water brine has doubtless covered the vision and human elements of the correspondent referred to.

Getting back to a team of the Middle West, or of the East, playing the California eleven and beating them—well, it is about as impossible as anything could be, unless the game is played during a season that would permit both teams to keep in practice up until the time of the game and in a climate where the temperature would not handicap either team. Furthermore, eliminate a long journey by rail of either eleven, prior to the date of the game. Condition of the players is most essential, and to transport a team from a colder climate to a warmer atmosphere weakens the ability of the men. Did you ever hear of the "spring fever?" Well if you have, that is a good illustration.

The eastern, Mid-West and western elevens cannot, by a ruling, go into practice before early fall. By the time they are developed the season is too late to play a team which is used to a warm climate on their home field. Practice cannot be kept up by these teams in winter weather, to prepare for a game in a climate like California.

For the information of Mr. Sampson, Iowa can beat Yale or Princeton. He mentions Rutger's team. Notre Dame beat them, 48 to 0, and Iowa beat Notre Dame, 28 to 7. Notre Dame also slaughtered the Army team. Iowa has not the "swelled head," but thus far they have put up clean, stiff football and they are receiving very favorable mention from knowing football critics all over the country. They may be of the "fresh water" variety which our all-knowing Sampson refers to, but they have the "black bass" fight in them and might fool some of the clams and "crabs" about which Mr. Sampson boasts.

Mr. Sampson should get a "stop-over" on his ticket when he returns to New England and see Iowa, which is part of "Seeing America First."

A Danger Signal—Tender and Bleeding Gums

Healthy teeth cannot live in diseased tissue. Gums tainted with Pyorrhea are dangerously diseased. For not only the teeth are affected, but Pyorrhea germs seep into the body, lower its vitality and cause many ills.

Pyorrhea begins with tender and bleeding gums. Then the gums recede, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of the poisonous germs that breed in pockets about them.

Four out of five people over forty have this disease. But you need not have it. Visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection. And keep Pyorrhea away by using Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress—if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums hard and healthy, the teeth white and clean. If you have tender or bleeding gums, start using it today.

Brush Your Teeth With Forhan's—How to Use It

Use it twice daily, year in and year out. Wet your brush in cold water, place a half-inch of the refreshing, healing paste on it, then brush your teeth up and down. Use a rolling motion to clean the crevices. Brush the grinding and back surfaces of the teeth. Massage your gums with your Forhan-coated brush—gently at first until the gums harden, then more vigorously. If the gums are very tender, massage with the finger, instead of the brush. If gum shrinkage has already set in, use Forhan's according to directions, and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

STAR .. TO .. BE .. OFFICER'S .. BRIDE

Fay Bainter to Wed Lieutenant-Commander Here.

Fay Bainter.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the engagement of Fay Bainter, star of "East is West," which is to be seen at the Mason next week, to Lieut.-Commander Reginald Venable of the U.S.S. Arizona of the Pacific Fleet, was made here yesterday by her mother, Mrs. Mary Bainter of the Ansenia Apartments.

Lieut.-Commander Venable will not be here when Miss Bainter arrives on Monday, as the Arizona leaves port tomorrow for the north. But he expects to return some time during the week.

The pair saw each other last week in San Francisco. Lieut.-Commander Venable being on leave at the time. He rejoined is sip here a few days ago.

The romance dates back to three years ago when Lieut.-Commander Venable first saw Miss Bainter on the stage in New York. He sought an introduction through mutual friends. The wedding day is not yet announced, as the family of the bride declare the marriage may not take place for some time. Miss Bainter will not leave the stage after she is married, it is stated.

GARLIC AS A CURE.

Said to be About as Efficient as Any of the Onion Tribe.

Art is long in more senses than one, and medical art is of a length which leads to lapses of memory and the peroidical revival of old things as new. Especially is this apt to be the case when the sales of specifics may be not too indirectly affected. Even in Homeric days the panacea was furnished by a gralic, the fabulous herb moly; all through the ages members of the garlic tribe have been an important element in the food of most of the races of Europe and the East and have been reputed to process great powers of benefit to health.

From time to time enthusiasm rises higher and moly reappears full-clad in magic. There was such a manifestation during the great influenza epidemic, and there seems to be another in prospect at present. It is useful to get as near the facts as may be, but not in these day of popularized medicine is it always easy for the general man to do so. Let him know then, that onions, leeks and garlic are all wholesome foods and good for the eater in various ways; they may be eaten with benefit both in health and sickness, and afford the simplest and cheapest way of administering their essential oils. As a specific in any disease of bacterial nature they are probably as useful as any other, for we have no specific for these diseases nor are any likely to be found. Under conditions of sickness it will be better to use some preparation of the essential oil as being more medicinal in aspect and so more helpful to the patient's faith.

The facts behind the talk may probably be reduced to a real beneficial influence from a moderate dosage of any of the onion tribe or their essential oils, not specifically curative; to the much underestimated tendency to recovery from sickness in spite of medicine if only the general conditions are not too unfavorable, than to a curious tendency familiar to every doctor, for the early groups of cases treated in any new way to give unduly favorable results. Had the garlics possessed a fraction of the curative values assigned to them from time to time it is incredible that disease should not have been eradicated before the dawn of history, or that the nations of Southern and Eastern Europe should have any mortality from tuberculosis or influenza. Here for centuries the garlic cure has been pursued beyond at least the limit of tolerance of the bystander, if not of the patient.—[Manchester Guardian.

MAY ALTER HISTORY.

Shoe Print in Hawaii Indicates Spanish Visited There.

The discovery of what is described as the imprint of "a practically perfect Spanish shoe, with narrow toe waist of the foot and heel being clearly defined," in the surface of an ancient lava flow on the west coast of Hawaii, near the ancient city of Refuge, known as Honaunau, has aroused great comment an dspeculation throughout the territory.

The first Spaniards to touch the island were said to have come in 1575, when tradition said that a Spanish vessel was wrecked on the southeast coast of the island. But the city of Refuge was built in the eleventh century and there is no evidence that any lava flow came down the mountainside of the volcano Mauna Loa, which rises 14,000 feet above the city of Refuge, since the city was built. Consequently it is presumed that the lava flow containing the shoe imprint is of a much more ancient day than 1100, indicating that Spaniards visited the island long before 1575.

The seashore at the base of Mauna Loa, near Hohaunau, is one of the few remaining sections of the Hawaiian territory in which life proceeds along much the same lines as it did a century ago. Like many of the other strange things contained on the 4000 square mile volcanic island of Hawaii, the problem of the "Spaniard's foot" probably will never be solved.—[New York Herald.

HOG SENTENCED A JUDGE.

Six weeks with his foot in a cast is the sentence pronounced upon Judge W. R. Mitchell by hog last Tuesday. District court isn't in session just now, and Judge Mitchell was at his favorite occupation—farming. Tuesday he was hauling a load of hogs to town when one of them tried to get out of the wagon. The judge turned around in the seat and administered a judicial reprimand by kicking it on the ear. This caused a riot in the wagon and one of the hogs jumped against the seat with such force as to overturn it and the judge fell off the wagon. He landed on his heel and broke a bone in the back part of his foot. So it's six weeks with his foot in a plaster cast for Judge Mitchell, with a chance for time off for good behavior.—[Jewel (Kan.) BIRTHDAY CAKE CANDLES.

The custom of placing candles on a birthday cake—one for each year—comes from Germany. The Germans placed a thick one in the center, called Lebenslicht, the light of life.

Only he or she who declares his or her birthday may put out the light of life; it is unlucky if done by any other member of the family.

The lights are symbols of life and its portions the years. For persons advanced in years one candle must do duty, as otherwise too many would be required—[Tit-Bits.

CRIME WAVE IN PUBLIC SCHOOL.

Pasadena Teachers Appeal to Police Department.

Returned Traveler Says Air Traffic is Heavy.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Nov. 17.—Pasadena High School authorities have asked the Pasadena Police Department to assist them in checking and stamping out the crime wave at the school.

This action followed the latest of a whole series of thieveries at the high school, the breaking open of a locker and the stealing of a wrist watch belonging to Allen Pierce, 2509 North Lake avenue, a student. Recently a new overcoat belonging to a boy student, and another belonging to a girl student, were stolen at the school. Several instances of thefts of money have been reported.

Earlier in the school there were a number of thefts, and a girl student, whose name was suppressed by the school authorities, was indefinitely suspended. But the thefts have continued despite the secret investigations of the school authorities, who have now asked the police to help them.

EUROPE TAKES TO AIR.

Passenger travel by airplane line has been taken up on an enlarged scale in Europe, says W. T. Jefferson, 35 North Grand avenue, who has just returned from abroad. He accompanied his daughter, Miss Suzanne Jefferson, who is attending school in Paris this year. Returning to Paris after a visit to Belgium, Mr. Jefferson went by the air route. He says the air lines have a sort of union station on the outskirts of Paris. The lines seem to be getting enough traffic to make the venture profitable.

URGES WOMEN'S COLLEGE.

Upon his return from the East Dr. C. C. Bragdon of this city reiterated his suggestion, made here some years ago, that Pasadena be made the locale of a high-class women's college. He believes that this city offers a fine field for such an institution.

Klock is general chairman of the fair; Mrs. Clayton R. Taylor chairman of the building fund committee and Mrs. Leo G. MacLaughlin is chairman of the club.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTERVILLE, Nov. 17.—The first killing frost of the season visited Porterville district last night and a cold north wind has blown all day, fitful clouds suggesting the much-needed and long-hoped-for rain.

Temperature last night registered 66 and 40 deg., ten less than any previous record this season. A thin film of ice was found in standing water in shady places this morning, but no damage occurred anywhere.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Nov. 17.—Nearly 400 fathers and sons applied for admission to the "Fathers and Sons" banquet at the Y.M.C.A. last evening, and not all could be accommodated, although the tables were spread in the gymnasium.

Dr. J. Lewis Gillies, who recently was transferred from Des Moines, Iowa, to fill the pastorate of the First Methodist Church, was the speaker of the evening. He characterized the gathering as one which he had not seen approached in cities of many times the population.

ASK HARGRAVES IF MOTHER IS TITLED.

COMPLAINANT IN EXTORTION CASE UPHELD BY COURT IN REFUSAL TO REPLY.

Questions relating to the parentage of James Hargraves, complaining witness against six defendants, accused of both kidnaping and of extorting $1170 from him, were objected to by the witness yesterday and Justice Hinshaw instructed him that he did not have to answer. W. Joseph Ford, defense attorney, asked the complaining witness if he is not the son of a titled woman of England, giving the name of the noblewoman. The question was not answered, the defendant saying he did not see what it had to do with the case.

Mr. Hargraves asserts that he was enticed by Mrs. A. B. Moore, a woman said to be twice his age, to a hotel and that later she and the other defendants forced him to give them $1170, and held him under guard overnight in a cabin at Redondo Beach. The defendants deny the charge. They are Mrs. A. B. Moore, Mrs. Joe Palmer, Joe Palmer, A. B. Moore, Harold McCollum and Charles Palmer.

During the trial Mr. Hargraves is guarded by John M. Ousby, an investigator for the District Attorney's office, who arrested the defendants.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Costello, finished direct examination of Mr. Hargraves, who has been on the stand three days, and the prosecution rested its case. The hearing will be resumed on the 25th inst.

BATTLES ALONE NOW.

Brophy Acts as Own Attorney When Woman Withdraws Aid.

Appearing as his own attorney, Glen W. Brophy, who was recently rearrested after being released to the custody of Mrs. Angelina Kauffman, was held to answer yesterday by Justice Hinshaw on a new charge of passing a fictitious check.

It was charged that Brophy bought jewelry valued at $95 on the 8th inst., from the Angelus Shop, 309 West Fourth street, using a fictitious check. Testimony adduced by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Costello was that the check was for $100, and that Brophy received the difference in cash. The name of Thomas J. Brunton was signed to the paper. Mrs. Kauffman has said she will not aid Brophy any more.

SPEEDOMETERS SOUGHT.

Automobile Club to be Asked by Council to Work Out System.

The Automobile Club of Southern California is to be asked by the City Council, it was stated yesterday, to work out a plan for providing by ordinance for the installation of speedometers and other speed-measuring devices on automobiles and trucks operated in the city of Los Angeles that will be satisfactory to owners of vehicles and will meet the demand of the police and the City Prosecutor's office, for some method to assist in the enforcement of the traffic laws. Mayor Cryer has vetoed an ordinance requiring speedometers because the truck owners declared that it is technically impossible to operate speedometers accurately on trucks.

NEW INDUSTRY AT BEACH CITY.

Oil Company to Build Million-Dollar Refinery.

Plant Comes Without Bonus of Any Kind.

Concern to Handle Oil from Many Fields.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Nov. 17.—Plans for the immediate erection in Long Beach of a $1,00,000 oil refinery to serve the entire Southern and Central California field were announced today.

H. L. Hagerman, treasurer of the Red Seal Refining Company, a California corporation, is here today completing details for the building of the huge plant.

The refinery will be built on West Anaheim Road at the junction of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific railroads. Crude oil from as far north as Taft and Bakersfield will be refined in the local plant.

Officials of the Red Seal Company quietly acquired a twenty-one-acre site asking for no grants of land bonus or other assistance in locating here. "We choose Long Beach," said Mr. Hagerman, "because we believe Long Beach to be the psychological place for an oil refinery. There is no sentiment in the matter. It is simply a hard, cold business proposition. Your city offers us the best advantages and we are building our plant here. The present refinery at the harbor is really for export business but even were there two or three more refineries here we would still maintain that this is the best place for our plant.

"There are three things essential to a refinery. First, a supply of crude oil, second, a properly constructed and operated plant, and third, a market for fuel oil. We have all the crude oil we can use coming from as far north as Bakersfield. We will have pipe lines from the Huntington Beach and Signal Hill fields. An absorbed freight rate from Taft or Bakersfield makes it a rational proposition for us to establish the refinery here."

BID FOR INDUSTRY.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FRESNO, Nov. 17.—Decision to raise money for the purchase of an industrial site to be offered to the Sugar Pine Lumber Company as a location for its new $5,000,000 mill and railroad in the San Joaquin Valley was reached today by the industrial committee of the Fresno County Chamber of Commerce. This announcement was made following a conference of members of the committee and Elmer Cox, president of the company.

Charles H. Cobb was named director of the campaign to raise the money. Both Fresno and Madera are seeking the new mill, which will cut lumber from the White Friant holdings of the company.

PASADENA MERCHANTS STAGE BIG BANQUET.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Nov. 17.—Several hundred business men of this region attended the annual banquet of the Pasadena Merchants' Association tonight. It was the largest affair of the kind ever held by the organization.

The principal speaker of the evening was Dr. Remsen DuBois Bird, the new president of Occidental College.

Plans were made by the association to greatly enlarge its membership and its part in community affairs. E. L. Pauley is president of the association. Capt. C. S. Conner, the new secretary, was at the banquet.

BOTTLE, NOT BRUSH.

Court Reverses Judgment in Favor of Woman.

It was not a hairbrush that Rose Abbott is asserted to have threatened to use on F. C. Williams, the house detective of the Coronado Beach Company, but a bottle, according to the written opinion of the District Court of Appeal.

That court has reversed the judgment secured in the San Diego Superior Court for $2000 in favor of Rose Abbott against the Coronado Beach Company for an asserted assault upon her by Williams.

The written opinion says. "The plaintiff, an able-bodied woman, without any cause or provocation on the part of the defendant, became angry and excited and raised a bottle which she had in her hand with which to strike him, whereupon he grappled wit plaintiff and using no more force tan was necessary, took from the plaintiff the bottle with which she was armed."

The altercation between Mr. Williams and the woman arose from the fact that her services had been dispensed with by the hotel management, and when Williams went to her room to break the news, the trouble followed.

NABBED AS ROBBER.

Salesman Drugged Woman and Took Valuables, is Charge.

Charged with having lured Mrs. Ira Weiss of the Georgia Apartments, Fifth and Bixel streets, into a downtown hotel, where she was drugged and robbed of three diamond rings, valued at $1200, and $250 in Liberty Bonds, M. M. Sax, 35 years of age, a jewelry salesman, was arrested yesterday by Police Detectives Stelzriede and Johnson. Sax, in a statement to the police, denied the charges against him.

Sax was apprehended after a complaint had been made to the police by Ira Weiss, the woman's husband.

The rings and bonds were not recovered when Sax was arrested.

FEDERALS ON BORDER ARE BUSY.

Events Being Watched for New Outbreak, but General Says All is Quiet.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 17.—Troop movements in the northern district of Lower California are being watched with interest here with the expectation in some quarters that the nipped-in-the-bud revolution of last Sunday may have a sequel in another skirmish at any time.

Gen. Rodriguez, in command of the Federal forces below the border, announced today that the situation had improved to such an extent that martial law would be lifted in a day or two, followed by the reopening of the border. At the same time word was received here that two battalions of Yaqui Indian Federal troops had landed at Ensenada. It is presumed they came from Sonora.

Whether or not the Yaquis would be brought to Tijuana could not be confirmed this afternoon. Armed bands were reported to have been seen some miles south of Tecate, which is on the American side of the line, and about forty miles east of San Diego.

Release of several thousand rounds of ammunition to Mexican Federal authorities has been ordered, according to instructions received today by the Collector of Customs. Another interesting development was the purchase of $500 worth of medical supplies in this city by Mexican officials.

Electors Favor New Sites for Public Schools.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, Nov. 17.—Electors of Ontario last night at a mass meeting at Central grammar school auditorium, called for the purpose of selecting additional school sites, authorized the city Board of Education to purchase a five-acre tract at D and Allyn streets for $9200 for the erection of an elementary school building, and a tract of five acres lying between J and Fourth streets, just west of Chaffey High School, for $9700, for the erection of an intermediate school.

J. S. Armstrong, president of the Board of Education, explained the purpose of the meeting and H. E. Swan was elected chairman of the evening. The overcrowded conditions in the present five grammar schools of the city was pointed out and after the various sites on which the board had been able to secure options had been recounted, the meeting took prompt action in authorizing the purchases.

Authorization of the site purchases paves the way for the calling of a bond issue to finance the proposed new buildings and action in this matter is expected to be taken in the immediate future. While no amount has as yet been specified, it is said that the proposed issue will probably not exceed $100,000.

Are You Using "THE BEST" in Your Home?

Mrs. Mary Blake SUGGESTS

WHEN you are baking pumpkin pies this Autumn you may find you get an even richer and more delicate flavor by using Carnation Milk in this manner:

After you have added sugar, spices, etc., to your cooked pumpkin, reduce the desired amount of Carnation slightly with water and add it with your beaten eggs. Always remember that Carnation is twice as rich as ordinary milk.

By following this simple rule you will insure that creamy lusciousness so desirable in pumpkin pies.

I can send you a really excellent pumpkin pie recipe in a book of 100 recipes: also I will gladly send you a complete set of my Cooking Lessons free, if you will write me for them. Address me care of Carnation Milk Products Co. of Cal., 340 N. Main St., Los Angeles.

PORT MAY GET NAVAL STORE.

Government Plans Salvage Depot on Coast.

Move to Scrap Ships Would Increase Stocks.

Proposed Step Part of Federal Economy Program.

A Navy reclamation store for the salvaging and storing of reclaimed Navy materials may soon be authorized at Los Angeles Harbor, according to word received in Pacific Fleet circles yesterday. The establishment of two such stores, one for the Atlantic and one for the Pacific Coast, have already been authorized by the department.

The Atlantic Coast store will be at Hampton Roads, Va. While the location of the Pacific Coast store has not been definitely decided upon by the Navy Department, it has been indicated, officers in the fleet say, that Los Angeles Harbor is the logical spot, being the base of the Pacific Fleet.

The Navy Department controls a large site west of the Submarine Base and it is said that in all probability this property will be developed and used for salvaging purposes.

Stocks in these prospective stores or warehouses will be greatly augmented if the Hughes naval limitation proposal is adopted at the Disarmament Conference, Navy officers point out. The scrapping of Navy vessels under the proposed plan does not necessarily mean that the ships designated will be sunk or otherwise completely destroyed. Each ship in the Navy carries a large fortune in fittings and equipment of various kinds and it is very probable, Navy officers say, that all this equipment will go to the reclamation stores.

Delicate gun sighting apparatus, navigating instruments, communicating gear and the thousand and one costly bits of mechanism that go to make up a modern fighting ship will be reclaimed in the event that the disarmament program is adopted, it is said.

The move to establish salvage bases is part of the naval retrenchment program, adopted some time ago, by which it is expected naval appropriations will be reduced. Formerly much of the salvage from ships that became obsolete and were scrapped was sold as junk to private concerns and frequently resold to the Navy at much higher prices, it is asserted.

CHRISTMAS SHIPS LOAD.

Santa Claus Vessels for La Paz and Mazatlan in Port Here.

The folk of the little Mexican town of La Paz, most northern of seaports in the Gulf of California, are on their toes, figuratively, in anticipation of the arrival there of the power schooner Jeanette R in about ten days. The Jeanette R is the Santa Claus ship of the gulf this year, and will be the first American craft to call there in six months.

With 1000 pounds of toys stowed away in her hold, the Jeanette R sailed from Los Angeles Harbor Wednesday for La Paz. For the jefe politico and the commandante there will be shiny new Fords purchased by the Mexican government.

Forty tons of flour, 60,000 feet of lumber, and thirty tons of groceries for the town's storekeeper are in the hold of the Jeanette R.

Payment for some of the ship's cargo will be made in coffee. The coffee berry is grown successfully on the farms about La Paz, but the natives have nothing in which to ship the berries north. So the Jeanette R is taking to them 5000 empty coffee sacks.

Another Christmas ship will be the Pacific passenger and freight liner Cuban, on which Capt. C. J. Holland will play Santa Claus to the children of Mazatlan, in the State of Sinaloa, when the Cuban calls at the Mexican port next week. The liner arrived here Wednesday night to load passengers and freight for Mexican and Central American ports. In her cargo will be 20,000 pounds of Christmas candy consigned to Mazatlan.

EXTENDED SHIP SERVICE

Vessels of United American Line Will Call Here Oftener.

Foreshadowing an extension of the United American Line's service on the Pacific Coast, Harold S. Ebey, former director of operations of the United States Shipping Board on the Pacific and now managing head of the Williams-Dimond Company, and H. R. Hanlin of New York, manager of terminals for the United American lines, were at Los Angeles Harbor Wednesday to make a survey of port conditions.

Mr. Ebey denied that he was on a mission of any great importance.

"Both Mr. Hanlin and myself feel that the best way to become acquainted with a situation is to get on the job and look the ground over carefully," he explained.

A liner in the United American service will leave New York every Thursday for the Pacific, with an alternate schedule for Boston and Philadelphia, Mr. Ebey said. The ship leaving New York on one Thursday will call at Philadelphia and the ship leaving New York the following Thursday will call at Boston.

On the east-bound schedule, one ship will load at Pacific Coast ports for New York and East Coast ports and the following week the ship departing for the East will load for European ports.

SOCIETY TO GIVE DANCE.

The Junior Auxiliary of the Jewish ex-Patients' Home Society will give a dance next Tuesday evening at Kramer's Studio, Fifteenth and Figueroa streets.

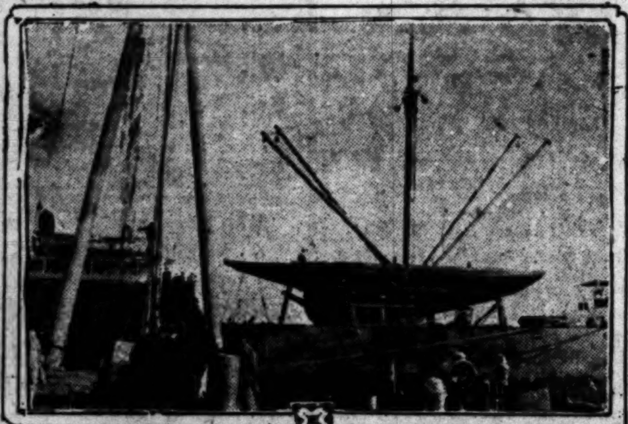
YACHT .. BROUGHT .. ON .. SHIP.

Pleasure Craft Carried on Deck to Local Harbor.



Yacht Idalia on Deck of Steamer West Haven.

C. B. EYER, president of the Golden State Woolen Mills at Long Beach and an enthusiastic yachtsman, has solved the problem of bringing to Southern Pacific waters the product of the best yacht-building talent of the eastern coast and has, incidentally, given a great stimulus to the yachting spirit centering around Los Angeles.

During a recent trip east V. R. G. Wilbur, son-in-law of Mr. Eyer, and associated with him in the management of the woolen mill, purchased the yacht Idalia and arranged to send her around to Los Angeles on the deck of the West Haven, Atlantic Gulf and Pacific Coast Steamship Company ship.

Upon arrival at Los Angeles Harbor yesterday the West Haven took position under the 100-ton shear legs of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry-Dock Company. Slings were adjusted under the yacht where she lay in her cradle on the West Haven's deck and she was lifted clear of the ship. The West Haven was then swung out into the basin away from the dock and the Idalia was lowered into the water.

The yacht, which is seventy-four feet six inches over all, and which has a beam of eleven feet, weighs fifty tons. Her massive leaden keel weighs seventeen tons.

The Idalia was moored alongside a fitting wharf of the shipbuilding company's plant and will be completely rigged.

On the East Coast the Idalia was known as the Black Streak. She is Lawley built, from a Lawley design and is rated one of the fastest boats of her type afloat. Local yachtsmen are predicting that the enterprise of Mr. Eyer will result in the adding of more good sailing yachts to the lists of the Los Angeles and other local yacht clubs and that the "sport of kings" may be developed as the climatic and harbor conditions here so thoroughly warrant.

DON HANNA LEFT MILLION TO GIRL.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Because Daniel R. Hanna wished to create a trust fund of $1,000,000 for his favorite daughter, Ruth, aged 13, he canceled the marginal notations on the will making bequests to June Avis Evans, actress, according to Mrs. Mary Stuart Hanna, one of the four wives who divorced the dead millionaire.

Mrs. Hanna declared today that two weeks before her former husband's death, she went to the theater with him. There he told her that he thought that their daughter Ruth had a "special mission in life" and that he intended to set aside a special trust fund of $1,000,000 for her. Neither she nor her daughter would contest the will, she said.

The reason for the break between Miss Evans and Hanna, according to Mrs. Mary Hanna, was because Ruth begged him not to marry the actress. Mrs. Mary Hanna says that her divorced husband promised her daughter that the marriage would not take place.

Mrs. Hanna confirmed the story that Hanna embraced the Catholic religion on his deathbed.

Leslie C. Ferguson, attorney for Miss Evans, explained today that he would not attempt to have the will set aside.

Rain Spoils Manila Celebration.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

MANILA, Nov. 11 (Delayed.)—Observance of Armistice Day in Manila was marred by torrential rains that lasted through the day and necessitated abandonment of parades. Scheduled open-air ceremonies were held indoors. Gov.-Gen. Wood delivered addresses at the Episcopal Cathedral, the Normal School and at a dinner given by the American Legion and Allied veterans.

FIGHTING FOR SHIP CONTROL.

Railroads in Battle Aimed at Merchant Marine.

Would Favor Coast Cities in Freight Rates.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—A fight between the United States Merchant Marine and the transcontinental railroads for control of shipping to the Pacific Coast was opened today before Examiner William H. Disque of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Edward Chambers, vice-president of the Santa Fe Railroad, presented the case for all transcontinental railroads. He gave the railroads' reason for petitioning for permission to reduce rates to the Pacific Coast without reducing rates on shorter hauls to intermediate points.

He declared that the railroads will direct the full force of their influence toward defeating the proposed free use of the Panama Canal. He said the railroads have arrayed against this proposal representatives of scores of industrial communities west of Pittsburg. He argued that free use of the canal would seriously retard industrial development in the Middle West by giving Atlantic seaport cities an undue advantage in freight rates.

This petition of the rail carriers affects more than 100 manufactured commodities. Representative of what the roads ask permission to do is a change in the rates for steel. They propose to charge a flat rate of $1 per hundredweight for steel shipped to the Pacific Coast without lowering the present rate of $1.62½ per 100 pounds from Pittsburg to Denver.

Scores of traffic managers and representatives of shippers and manufacturers' organizations and Chambers of Commerce from Chicago and other cities between the Rockies and the Alleghenies were present to further the railroads' side of the case.

But many representatives of seaboard interests were present to block the proposal. They were led by Attorney Frank Lyons, Washington, D. C., representing several coastwise steamship lines, and the representatives of forty-two other shipping firms.

"This petition is a proposal to throttle the merchant marine which is just getting on its feet," Mr. Lyons declared. "It is not made for public benefit. The proposal to reduce rates is only to draw the wool over the eyes of the public, making it think it will get cheaper freight rates than it actually will.

"If they wanted to help the public, they would reduce rates to the intermediate points across the continent, instead of asking only for a flat rate to the Coast."

This same position was emphasized by Carl Knox Gartner, former Interstate Commerce Commission examiner, here as representing 168 associations of commerce in the Middle West.

Paul P. Hastings of the Transcontinental Freight Bureau, pointed out that Section 4 of the Commerce Commission Act states that carriers cannot charge more for a short haul than for a long haul in the same direction on the same road. He said that the railroads desire lawful permission to contravene this clause.

FUTURE OF DENTISTRY

Many Problems to Be Solved. Better Practitioners Needed.

Dentistry's progress in the near future will be on the scientific side, according to Dean Eugene H. Smith, of the Harvard Dental School.

"The next decade will undoubtedly see the same sort of advance in dentistry that is taking place today in medicine," says Dean Smith. "Scientific research and scientific knowledge will teach us more about the causes and effects of ailments of the teeth, and about how to prevent them.

"The dental profession reached its peak of sheer technical competence a few years ago, so far as we can see now. The leaders of the profession now show amazing skill in doing the excessively difficult and careful work of repairing and straightening and filling the teeth, and while new instruments and apparatus will probably be invented which will enable such work to be done still more effectively, nevertheless it is not along this line that we look for dentistry to make its big advance in the immediate future. The big advance will undoubtedly be on the scientific side.

"There is room for advance in the study of the chemical relation between diet and healthy teeth, and of the relation between decay of the teeth and rheumatism, neuralgia, heart-disease of various kinds, and many other ailments. At present we know that there is a connection between decay of the teeth and rheumatism, but there is a lot of loose thinking done on the subject, and a lot of teeth are taken out by some dentists to stop rheumatism which oughtn't to be taken out at all. This whole side of dentistry needs to be put on a firmer scientific foundation."

CHAMBERLAIN VICTORY SEEN.

Convention to Settle Fate of Coalition.

Conservative Clubs Meet in Liverpool.

Irish Conference Now is at Standstill.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The eyes of all the politicians in the United Kingdom are directed toward Liverpool, where 2000 delegates from Conservative clubs are assembled for the national convention which will determine the fate of the coalition government, as well as the Irish negotiations.

Every indication points to a sweeping victory for Austen Chamberlain, the present Conservative leader, which means a victory for Prime Minister Lloyd George and the probable success of the Irish negotiations.

"DIE HARDS" LEADERLESS.

The "die hards" have not been able to secure an outstanding leader. Col. Archer-Shee will lead the attack on the government's Irish policy. He is a typical military fire eater without political reputation. The Duke of Northumberland will lead the attack on the continuance of the coalition. The duke is a clever man, but his critics say that he has a Bolshevist rebellion on the brain and the fact that he is a duke would be a great handicap in the leadership of even the Conservative party of modern England.

The delegates were all gathered in Liverpool last night and caucusing was going on in every hotel. The Ulsterites have hired sandwichmen to parade the streets bearing placards reading: "Are you going to sell loyal Ulster, whose sons died for you, to the rebel Sinn Fein, who stabbed you in the back?"

AT A STANDSTILL.

In the meantime the Irish conference is at a standstill. Lloyd George left London yesterday for Bournemouth, for a few days' rest, with his wife. Most of the Irish delegates are returning to Dublin for the week-end.

Sir James Craig is busy with his reply to Mr. Lloyd George's last letter, but he will not send it until he has been in Liverpool and consulted with the English Conservative leaders to see in what direction the wind is blowing. Then he may decide not to send it at all.

Liverpool is being deluged with letters and telegrams from Ulster organizations, but the real party wire pullers, I am told, are determined to sacrifice Ulster rather than the party.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN DIES IN BROOKLYN.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Charles T. Hudson, the last survivor of those who personally aided in the capture of Jefferson Davis, June 2, 1865, died at his home in Brooklyn today at the age of 83 years. Until he was retired from the customs service by the age retirement law, six months ago, Hudson was a United States storekeeper of the customs service in New York, which position he had occupied since 1897. Before that he had been in the customs service in Detroit.

Hudson was promoted to lieutenant-colonel for the important part he took in the capture of the Confederate leader. He was born in Chenango county, N. Y., May 6, 1838. His widow and three children survive.

Youth Sent to Sing Sing Scored as Leper, Plague

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Elwood Adams, aged 21, today was sentenced to ten years in Sing Sing for burglary by Judge Talley, who denounced him is a "leper" and "a plague."

Three times married and five times a father before he reached the age of manhood, young Adams indulged in another love adventure by leading astray Jean Cunningham, a servant in his mother's home.

Then, after he had induced her to loot the homes of wealthy persons where she was employed as a servant of $5000 worth of furs and jewels, he deserted her and married another woman, Jean Cunningham told the police.

Finally Adams pleaded guilty of having persuaded Jean to rob the homes of Lawrence Crawford, broker, and Mrs. Myrtle Tannehill, actress. Judge Talley, in the Court of General Sessions, told Adams he regretted the law did not permit him to give a sentence that would keep him in prison for life.

ORGANIZE NEW LODGE.

Knights of Columbus Form Chapter at Porterville; Other Tulare News.

PORTERVILLE, Nov. 17.—With an attendance of about 400 a lodge of the Knights of Columbus was instituted with initiation of forty-five candidates in a ceremonial held in the I.O.O.F. Hall. Formation of this organization is the culmination of the efforts of Rev. Father M. J. Stack of St. Anne's Church, who has been assisted by members of his congregation.

District Deputy M. E. Griffith of Fresno acted as installing officer, and a degree team from Bakersfield conferred the first degree.

Election of officers and directors resulted as follows: Grand Knight, George O'Brien; Deputy Grand Knight, Ralph Willis; Chancellor, Clark Matthews; Warden, Sam Flynn; Treasurer, Joe Dunn; Financial Secretary, William F. Tholcke; Recording Secretary, J. E. Sousa; Trustees, Frank Bartheldi, Felix McCabe and Frank Less; Lecturer, Joe Maurer; Inside Guard, Pete Sustariach.

William O'Connell of Porterville had charge of a smoker which followed the ceremonies. David Skinner, a blind Knight of Bakersfield, and Rev. Father Harnett of Fresno, gave a number of pleasing vocal selections. The major degree will be conferred on the local lodge by degree teams from Los Angeles and San Francisco on December 11.

NEW AUTO ROAD.

PORTERVILLE.—By the end of the month autoists will find the new Camp Nelson road completed. The way is already opened to Morehouse cabin and only about 3500 feet remain to be constructed connecting the two roads, one from the Forks, built by the county, and one by the Camp Nelson management. Continued favorable weather has permitted the work to be carried on without interruption.

Camp Nelson is one of Tulare county's favorite hunting and playgounds. From it sportsmen pack back to Jordan Hot Springs, many beautiful mountain meadows and canyons, through which tumbling streams flow, on back to Mt. Whitney, "The Top of the United States."

In season deer, bear, quail, gray squirrel and trout abound in this region. Hitherto travel to Nelson's has been by motor from Porterville to the Forks, and thence by pack animal or on foot, over a mountain trail into the beautiful meadow where the resort is located.

POULTRY PROFITABLE.

TULARE.—Growth of the poultry industry in this section is demonstrated by report of the local poultry association at a meeting of the directors. October business, despite price cuts on all lines han- Roy Gardner es Aprehendido. dled of from 25 to 50 per cent, still shows a total volume surpassing that of last year by nearly $2000. Eggs this October were 15 cents per dozen under last year, and yet in October the association marketed over $7000 worth, which is only a portion of the output from Tulare.

The October business volume this year is $17,687.75, as compared with $16,084.90 last year. The organization marketed $7000 worth of eggs, shipped $4500 worth of poultry, distributed $6000 worth of feeds and supplies and placed $300 worth of baby chicks.

DISTRICT MEETING.

TULARE. — The Fresno district convention of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society will be held in the Tulare Methodist-Episcopal Church the 17th and 18th inst. Delegates will be entertained on the Howard plan.

The program includes reports and addresses by a number of local and out-of-town leaders, among whom are Rev. W. C. Geyer, Mrs. N. G. Nelson, Miss Grace Wythe of Nayoga, Japan; Rev. Howard Taylor, Selma, Mrs. George B. Smyth, branch president; Mrs. W. I. Allen, Delano, and Mrs. S. F. Johnson.

BOOST NATIONAL PARK.

VISALIA.—The Automobile Club of Southern California has joined the Tulare county organization boosting for Sequoia National Park. Several hundred automobile post signs are to be installed bearing the inscription: "See the snow, forty-nine miles to the snow line in the Sequoia National Park, forty-four miles to Hospital Rock."

This mileage will be changed in accord with the location of the signs which will be placed on the Auto Club's sign posts everywhere in the county. Col. John R. White, superintendent of Sequoia and Grant parks, reports a large attendance in Giant Forest already with many people hiking or riding up Hospital Rock trail to spend the night in the forest.

ELKS' MEMORIAL.

VISALIA.—Elks of Visalia have completed plans for the annual memorial day of the Elks, which is to be held on the evening of December 4 at the Municipal Auditorium. The services are in memory of the thirty-one members of the Visalia lodge who have died since its institution.

Judge Frank J. Murasky of San Francisco will deliver the oration and James M. Burke of Visalia will give the eulogy. The Exeter Choral Society of sixty voices will sing appropriate songs and Keeners' orchestra will participate.

COMBINE TO FIGHT COMPANY.

San Joaquin Valley Towns Opposed to Higher Power and Light Rates.

BAKERSFIELD, Nov. 17.—Intimation that Bakersfield would take an important part in forming a combine of cities and counties to oppose the San Joaquin Light & Power Corporation's application for a readjustment of its rates, the organization of communities to be, in effect, the same as the combine of cities and counties in Southern California against a similar application by the Southern California Edison Company, has been made by City Manager F. S. Benson.

Mr. Benson told the City Council, meeting in regular session, that he has communicated with different valley municipalities with this view in mind, but as yet has received no replies.

City Attorney Edward F. Brittan can handle the city's interests, he reported, at the hearing on the utility corporation's application for increase in rates before Railroad Commissioner Chester Rowell at Fresno, December 13. Benson was instructed to investigate the situation, after Brittan told the board that it was a matter in which expert technical advice was needed rather than legal advice. It is a business proposition, pure and simple, Benson asserted, and one that Brittan is well fitted to handle.

If favorable replies are received from the valley towns and cities, Benson stated, steps will be taken to work out a scheme of co-operation to present the cases to the commissioner.

The hearing will be of utmost importance to the whole San Joaquin Valley, the City Manager declared.

TO COMPLETE NEW HIGHWAY.

Road Will Provide Route to Coast Resorts.

Brings Fresno Within Four Hours of the Sea.

Seek to Annul Marriage of Young Girl.

FRESNO, Nov. 17.—According to information received at the Chamber of Commerce the State Highway Commission is now preparing to start construction on the remaining link of the Yosemite-to-the-Sea highway which when completed will give Fresnans access to Santa Cruz, Monterey, and Pacific Grove in four hours by way of the Pacheco Pass. This highway will also connect the San Joaquin Valley counties with the coast counties crossing the mountains directly west of Los Banos and affording access to all coast cities. These beach resorts are popular with Fresnans who have heretofore been under necessity of going by way of the bay to reach these resorts. This will give Fresnans an opportunity to reach the coast in four hours of driving. This highway has been included in each of the three highway bond issues but nothing has been done in the matter until recently. L. A. Nares has carried on the fight for this highway for years and has finally been successful. He was president of the State Automobile Association until recently. When completed the Pacheco Pass route will connect with the State highway that traverses the valley at a point in the northern part of Madera county. A total of 56.9 miles will be necessary to connect with the Santa Clara line. Fourteen miles have been completed out of Merced. When completed the highway will comprise the Santa Clara line, over the Pacheco Pass to Los Banos, thence to a point near Fairmead in Madera county. Following the valley highway to Merced it will then go over the Merced-Yosemite highway to that valley.

Julia A. Johnson has brought an action to annul the marriage of Hazel M. Moss with Clarence Moss, alleging the girl was but 14 years old when the marriage took place, which was without the consent of her parents.

THEY JUST STAY ON.

Aleck, the colored janitor at the Dispatch, is a great baseball fan, but he admits that he doesn't know a whole lot about football. Last Sunday morning, with some other of the faithful employees of the Dispatch gathered on the fifth floor, he was rehashing the wonderful game.

One remarked to the crowd, "Well, as long as Ohio State has brawn and brains and Wilce as a coach, I guess they'll keep right on winning."

Aleck looked puzzled at this and then questioned:

"Say, boy, when do Brawn and Brains graduate, anyway?"—[Columbus Dispatch.

ASK FOR THE RED RECORD

For Thanksgiving

When the music of the Thanksgiving spirit is singing in every heart—That's the time of all times you want a Vocalion—to play in the firelight glow, so exquisitely, so softly, so feelingly the loved old songs—to play when the lights go up, so joyously, so intriguingly the new dance records.

The VOCALION

The Phonograph Supreme

Made by the World's Foremost Makers of Fine Musical Instruments—Used by the World's Foremost Colleges of Music—Enjoyed Wherever Real Music Is Appreciated

"The war over—the excited Public got its music ear back—became critical about the quality of the Phonograph it bought." The trade result was inevitable—

Only the Fittest Survived

Today only a limited number of Phonograph manufacturers, those who because of long years of sincerity of purpose have established themselves in Public Confidence, and The Aeolian Company, the world's leading makers of fine musical instruments, are holding the Phonograph field.

The Aeolian Company are essentially makers of Quality instruments—Phonographs made as the famous Aeolian Pipe Organ is made—by men who have devoted their lives to music—men who know music—who differentiate between the reproduction of sound and the musical reproduction—men who have raised the talking machine to the standard of a high-grade musical instrument.

While musicians almost invariably choose The Vocalion, you need not be a musician to appreciate the tone quality that makes The Vocalion supreme. Beauty, delicacy, clearness of tone, the things for which you should buy a Phonograph, have been brought to the highest grade of perfection in The Vocalion.

You Create with the Graduola

The Graduola—tone control—is an exclusive Vocalion feature. It lifts the Phonograph out of the reproducing stage into the creating. For with the Graduola you sing the songs as you feel them—you play the violin from your own heart—you find at last the way to set your soul to music. With the Graduola in your hand, you can make the music an expression of yourself—your joys—your sorrows—your yearnings—all can be translated by the golden tones of The Vocalion—if you but press the Graduola Control.

Plays Without the Graduola

The Vocalion faithfully reproduces for you the singing and playing of the artists without the Graduola. But the Graduola gives you the means for self-expression—which has been called mankind's "Great Desire."

Hear The Vocalion Today

We'll deliver yours in time to make this Thanksgiving your very happiest, and we give you our guarantee that you'll always be thankful that you chose a musical instrument and not merely a Phonograph.

All 1921 Vocalion Models Are Priced at Pre-war values

Vocalion Records

The Vocalion plays all records, but the height of musical perfection is reached when Vocalion Records are played—for they are made as carefully, as "musically" as The Vocalion itself. Vocalion Records are made of a special red composition which provides the best recording surface and insures unequaled endurance. Just as they are distinctive in color—you will find them equally distinctive in tone. And time and usage will prove that they do last longer.

CLASH MARKS MINE STRIKE.

Colorado Ranger and Miner in Battle.

Union Heads Claim Tie-up Will be Complete.

Operators Assert Many Men Remain at Work.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TRINIDAD (Colo.) Nov. 17.—One minor clash between the forces of the Colorado State Rangers and the striking miners marked the first day of the strike of union miners employed by the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company in their Southern Colorado mines.

At Frederick, a ranger and a striker, Frank Alesio, came to blows. According to Lieut. Stockton of the Rangers, Alesio had been picketing and had been told by a Ranger to desist, whereupon a quarrel followed in which blows were struck. Alesio claims the Ranger beat him with a gun, after starting the quarrel without provocation.

Tonight union representatives repeated their previous statement that men who worked in the mines today will not go back to work tomorrow and that the tie-up will be complete in this district. On the other hand, Colorado Fuel and Iron officials said more men may be expected to work tomorrow.

CHALLENGE TO DEBATE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WALSENBURG (Colo.) Nov. 17. Hurling a challenge for the president of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company or any other man to meet him in a public debate on the justice of the miners' cause, Robert Foster, national organizer for the United Mine Workers of America, was given a rousing ovation by hundreds of strikers here this afternoon at a mass meeting.

Foster warned the men against violence or lawlessness of any kind.

"Martial law has been declared in Huerfano county," said Foster, "but I'll admit I can't see why.

"It is not the intention of the miners to create any disturbance whatever. Our fight is not to be won that way.

"All we ask is justice. If there is any act of violence during this strike it will be committed by those who have been brought into this territory to help the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company enforce a wage reduction that will bring hunger into the homes of the men who have stood loyally by the union in its hours of need."

Reports coming into Walsenburg tonight form all over the Southern Colorado field indicate that about three-fourths of the miners did not report for work this morning when a reduction in wages of approximately 30 per cent went into effect.

No disturbances had been reported from any point in the district.

Company officials tonight said they regarded the situation as encouraging while union leaders said every Colorado Fuel and Iron Company mine in the district would be idle before the end of the week.

C. A. Stout, manager of the fuel department of the company, said today the company had no intention of evicting striking miners from their homes. At the meeting this afternoon, however, an organizer said he had been informed to the contrary and advised the strikers to remain quietly in the company houses until regular legal steps for their eviction had been taken.

MINERS RESUMING WORK.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PITTSBURG (Kan.) Nov. 17.—Probably 250 strikers returned to work in the Kansas coal field today, according to an announcement tonight by George Richardson, commissioner for the operators, and, the announcement said, there are now about 3500 men working in compliance with an order by the international mine workers' union, that the Kansas miners end their strike.

Reports received tonight were that relatives of several members of the deposed Alexander Mr. Howat administration have gone back to work.

Mail Robbery Case Suspect Denies Guilt.

Robert R. Chapman, arrested in New York and charged with complicity in the $500,000 mail-truck hold-up in this city, told eastern postal authorities that he could not understand how he had been connected with the robbery here, explaining that several weeks ago a Boston broker named Solomon requested him to deliver a sealed envelope to another broker's office there. He said he had no knowledge of the contents of the envelope.

Charles Solomon, well known in sporting circles in Boston, was arrested in that city and charged with receiving and secreting $10,000 worth of stolen bonds.

Chapman, returned to Boston, pleaded not guilty yesterday and he and Solomon were held in $5000 bonds each for hearing on next Wednesday.

STEPHENS AND CRYER IN "ALL-STAR CAST."

GOVERNOR, MAYOR, APPEAR TO AID ENTERTAINMENT FOR DISABLED HEROES.

Gov. Stephens and Mayor Cryer headed an all-star cast of entertainers, who appeared last night at Trinity Auditorium, in "The Greatest Show of 1921," presented by the Los Angeles County Employees' Association, to raise funds for relief work at Christmas among disabled service men and others who need it.

While neither the Governor nor the Mayor was on the printed bills, both voiced a plea for aid for disabled soldiers. Gov. Stephens took the spot light on the stage, but the Mayor responded to his name from an upper box where his party had accompanied him. The Governor urged that all voters support the measure to be voted upon at next election, authorizing the State to add $7,000,000 to the $3,000,000 now in the fund for lending to ex-service men for purchase of homes. He also discussed the Japanese question and asked that all California residents write their friends in the East regarding the yellow menace so the rest of the country may be properly informed.

Mrs. Carrie Jacobs Bond played and sang some of her own compositions. A chorus of disabled veterans was encored. The Renick Quartet, with Miss Chey Meyerson at the piano, also sang. Miss Meyerson repeated with nearly every number on the bill.

Among those who donated their service were Margaret Hamelton, Stephen Weis, Lorain Platt, Helen Nordstorm and Dixie Johnston, Miss Alma Foster, violinist, who made her first appearance in the city last night; pupils of Marion Shipp, Peggy and Dick Cartwright; Prof. and Mme. Cavennah, Evelyn Lane, Mary Miles Minter, Roy Atwell, Kalla Pasha and Bull Montana, Shannon Day, and others.

SAUER KRAUT CROP SAVED.

Wisconsin Has Overcome the Pest to Growers.

Cabbage is Now Immune to Usual Blight.

Credit Due Plant Pathologist at University.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

RACINE (Wis.) Nov. 17.—Those persons who like to have just a few barrels of sauer kraut in the house in case of sickness, or to whom corn beef and cabbage is a necessity and cabbage salad a luxury, owe an inestimable debt to Dr. L. R. Jones, plant pathologist of the University of Wisconsin, and to the persistence of a group of Wisconsin cabbage growers along the west shores of Lake Michigan.

In the face of a blight which invariably followed continuous planting of cabbage, and which practically threatened the extermination of the commercial growth of the plant, experiments conducted by Dr. Jones have saved the industry. The story is told by a writer in the Wisconsin Agriculturist.

SCIENCE WINS BATTLE.

It is a story of a ten years' fight by scientific men, using the weapon of selection and elimination against a disease known as cabbage yellows, and which science finally has won. Today there are miles of cabbage fields in the truck section of Wisconsin and Illinois where a few years ago scarcely a trace of a crop would reward the best efforts of the farmers.

Cabbage grows almost everywhere in the United States, but it was an unsatisfactory crop, because after a few years of production, land would invariably become infected with yellows and henceforth for all time would refuse to grow cabbage.

The principle upon which Dr. Jones operated was this: A field infected with yellows would produce maybe a dozen, maybe not more than one or two heads per acre. For some reason these heads would have a natural immunity to yellows. The theory was that the progeny of these individual heads would continue to develop the immunity to a larger degree, and this has worked out in fact.

SINGLE HEAD SELECTED.

In 1910, when the Wisconsin cabbage growers were disheartened and about to abandon the industry, Dr. Jones selected a single head from a ten-acre field owned by W. J. Hansche of Kenosha county. Cabbage is a biennial, and it took two years for the seed to develop, but the ultimate seeds from this single head also proved to have immunity to the yellows.

They were planted and carefully conserved and studied, and from this single head was developed the Wisconsin Hollander cabbage, a strain that grows luxuriantly in the worst yellows and diseased land.

IMMUNITY DEVELOPED.

A. J. Piper, Boesch Brothers, Wolker Brothers and a few other lakeshore truck growers, were also conducting similar experiments and establishing the principle that by selection and elimination immunity could be developed.

Up to this year, almost no seed of the disease resistant strain was sent out of the State, although cabbage growers everywhere who had watched the experiments clamored for it. There was not enough seed yet to supply Wisconsin, nor in fact any more than for use for further growth of seed cabbage. This year the seed is being distributed by the College of Agriculture of the University to other experiment stations and colleges, where it will be used by them in overcoming their yellows infected cabbage land.

LAUDS CLUB WOMEN FOR RED CROSS AID.

MRS. BANNING EXPECTS ROLL CALL TO BREAK RECORDS BY THANKSGIVING.

Los Angeles club women are doing their utmost to make the fifth annual Red Cross roll call a tremendous success, Mrs. Hancock Banning, chairman of the women's committee, said yesterday at the women's headquarters at 921 West Seventh street. The greatest Red Cross membership gain since the opening of the roll call on Armistice Day was registered yesterday, she said. She believes all records will be broken by the end of the campaign on Thanksgiving Day.

Working among the clubs and kindred organizations are a group of women volunteers enlisted by Mrs. A. M. Marsh, chairman of the city division. Among them are: Friday Morning Club, Miss Elizabeth Pepper; Ebell Club, Mrs. Chester Ashley; Council of Jewish Women, Mrs. William Holtzer; D.A.R., Mrs. Morgan Huntoon; Cabrillo Chapter, D.A.R., Mrs. William H. Anderson; Women's University Club, Miss Marie Lindsley; First Congregational Church, Mrs. Frederick Langdon; P.E.O., Mrs. Carl Potter; Westlake Auxiliary, Westlake Presbyterian Church, Miss Martha Hunter; the King's Daughter's, Mrs. R. R. Bowles; the Wa-Wan Club, Miss Alice Carpenter; Catholic Women's Club, Mrs. J. Port Hiskey.

A Red Cross roll call headquarters has been opened at the Ambassador, with Mrs. Mabel Clark, Mrs. Franklin Otis Booth, Mrs. John McClure, Mrs. E. M. Collins and Bonnie Beach Ryan in attendance.

Mrs. Banning also announced yesterday that the entire force of the Union Oil Company has become members of the Red Cross and has been awarded the first 100 per cent certificate.

OIL STATION BANDITS ARE AT WORK AGAIN.

RICHARDSON GANG METHODS USED BY TWO MEN: JAP STORE ROBBED.

The police early last night were confronted with the problem of capturing another gang of oil station bandits after a lapse of several weeks in that sort of criminal activity.

S. W. Brown, in charge of a Standard Oil filling station at Pico and Bonnie Brae streets, reported being held up at 7 o'clock by two young men in an automobile. The police officers say the bandits' tactics were almost identical with those used by the Clarence Richardson gang, which terrorized oil station men during October.

After the bandits had Mr. Brown fill the gas tank of their car, they asked for a quart of oil. As Mr. Brown stooped over to drain the oil from a barrel, one of the bandits, dressed in khaki and a light cap, thrust a gun against Mr. Brown's side and compelled him to drop to his knees. The bandits then rifled the cash register, jumped in their car and sped west on Pico street.

Detective Sergeants Ziegler and Carr were assigned to investigate the case.

Two negroes early last night entered the grocery store of I. Masuda at 918 East Jefferson street, purchased a few cigars, then as Masuda opened his till, pulled revolvers and forced the storekeeper to hand over $20 in change. Threatening Masuda with death if he moved from his store for ten minutes, the negroes walked away.

HOMES RANSACKED.

Hollywood Houses Entered and Searched; Nothing Stolen.

The homes of Mrs. J. M. Mildren at 1553 Genesee street and F. Luenberger at 6136 Edmund street were ransacked by burglars between 3 and 6 p.m. yesterday, according to a report at the Hollywood Police Station. In both cases the owners reported that they found nothing missing, though the police, after investigating, found furniture in every room in both homes had been turned over and disarranged. Carpets were torn up, they said, bureau drawers scattered about the floors and curtains pulled down. Valuable silverware, jewelry and clothing were left untouched, police officers reported.

A thorough investigation of the mysterious house-breaking was being conducted late last night by Captain of Detectives Home, in charge of Hollywood district.

JINNISTAN GROTTO TO STAGE MINSTREL.

To swell the building fund so that it might proceed with the acquisition of ground and start building operations on a clubhouse for its members, Jinnistan Grotto 76, M.O.V.P.E.R., is staging a minstrel show, to be held in Philharmonic Auditorium, the 29th and 30th insts. The membership of the grotto embraces the leading men in every avenue of business in Los Angeles. Stars of the screen and stage are giving their time and their talent to the cause.

It is planned to acquire a desirable piece of foothill acreage and erect upon it a real country clubhouse. The grotto is a goodfellowship organization and the open-door is more apparent in the development of this spirit than any rostrum or formal gathering place.

Almost a Necessity.

We note that the $100,000,000 Marshall Fields of Chicago are going to move to New York and build a magnificent 100-room house on the north shore of Long Island. We trust the estimate provides for mosquito screens.—[Arkansaw Thomas Cat.

ATTENDED "UNKNOWN."

Southwest's Honor Medal Man Home After Arlington Services.

The Southwest's Medal of Honor man, detailed by the War Department to participate in the burial services of the "Unknown Soldier" of the World War interred at Arlington on Armistice Day, came home late yesterday. He is David E. Hayden, trainee at the University of California, Southern Branch, who won his decoration at St. Mihiel.

Mr. Hayden was one of the fifty-five living men decorated during the World War for exceptional valor and thirty-five of them followed the body of the "unknown soldier" at the ceremonies.

The honor men, with the President and his Cabinet, marched from the Capitol down Pennsylvania avenue to the White House and thence to Arlington—eight miles away—where the services were held and the decorations of eight foreign nations were placed on the casket.
